EVERHART AND MAYOR DUSCH IN CRITICAL CONDITION

VIRGINIA BEACH — Defeated state senatorial candidate, Edgar Everhart, and the Mayor of Virginia Beach, Frank Dusch, have exchanged verbal blows, but the words came before election. Everhart, a Republican from Chesapeake, who was defeated in Tuesday's election, had charged last week that employees of the City of Virginia Beach had been given a holiday on election day and "ordered out en masse to control the polls." Mayor Dusch made Tuesday a legal holiday for all city employees except policemen, firemen and garbage collectors. Everhart said, "This is a cynical and open confirmation of what we have heard about politics in Virginia Beach."

Mayor Dusch answered the charge by saying Everhart is "trying to make political capital out of something he knows does not exist." He added that in addition to previously stated city employees who would be working that the Treasurer's office and the Commissioner of Revenue's office would be open on election day to answer any queries concerning voting rules or poll taxes. Under an ordinance passed by City Council at the time Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County merged, the Mayor is empowered to call a holiday for city employees at his discretion.

The mayor added, "I believe there is nothing more important than voting. Everhart may want a small vote, but I urge everyone, regardless of how he votes, to go to the polls and vote." Apparently the mayor's plea was heeded, in view of the large voter turnout at Virginia Beach.

Police Chief Shoots Self

VIRGINIA BEACH — The 50-year-old chief of police at Oceana Naval Air Station was found shot to death at his home in the 3100 block of Lynhaven Drive last week.

Police say the body of Henry G. Weyse was found on the floor in his bedroom with a bullet wound in his right temple. His 38 caliber revolver was found a few feet away from the body.

The body was discovered by Mrs. Weyse, police said. She told investigating officers she last saw her husband alive about 8 a.m. the morning of the incident. She said she found the body about 9:45 p.m. when she returned home from work and shopping. When she saw her husband on the floor she at first thought he had fallen and injured himself, police said.

She telephoned a friend of Weyse's, who arrived, found the pistol, and called police. He called the police about 11 p.m., police said.

Detective C. E. Carlson said the medical examiner listed the cause of death as suicide, but no suicide note was found.

Weyse had served as police chief at Oceana since June 1963, and had served in Civil Service jobs at two other Tidewater Naval installations. He also served in the Marine Corps from June 1942 until August 1946 and from September 1951 until May of 1964.

IN CRITICAL CONDITION

NORFOLK — Two students from Cox High School remain in critical condition at Norfolk General Hospital with severe injuries received in an automobile accident last Wednesday that took the lives of two of their companions.

Doug Christon, 17, of the 3300 block of Virginia Beach Blvd., the driver of the car according to police, and Freddie Skyrn, 18, of the 800 block of Brooke Rd., are being treated for multiple internal and head injuries.

Paul Richard McBroom and Kenneth Brown, both 16, were fatally injured in the car-truck collision on Great Neck Road last week.

L. C. R. Bailey of the Traffic Bureau of the Virginia Beach Police Dept. said his division has completed an investigation of the accident. Bailey said, "in our estimation, the car was going at an excessive speed." The speed limit at Lynnhaven Road and Great Neck Road where the accident occurred is 40 m.p.h.

Bailey said Christon was driving a car registered in his mother's name.

Two Arrested In Bomb Scare

VIRGINIA BEACH — Police said Monday that two 15-year-old boys were arrested Monday in connection with a bomb threat made to Virginia Beach High School by telephone last Wednesday afternoon.

One of the youths, a student at Seateck Elementary School, was charged with making the threat, and the other, a student at Virginia Beach High, was charged with causing or inciting another to make such a threat, police said. Each charge carries a penalty of one to 10 years imprisonment upon conviction of anyone over 14 years of age.

Detective L. W. Barlow of the Youth Bureau said the two youths will be afforded a hearing before Judge Robert Cromwell, Jr. in Juvenile Court today.

The threat occurred at 8:09 p.m. last Wednesday when Mrs. Timothy Henry, a school clerk, was told by an anonymous caller: "A bomb is set to go off down there in 15 minutes." Police said fire officials searched the buildings but no bomb was found. It was the second bomb threat this fall at Virginia Beach High School.

Two other youths were arrested a month ago and were charged with threatening to bomb the school Sept. 27. One of the boys was ordered held for the grand jury by Judge Cromwell and charges against the other youth were not pressed.

CIVITANS TO GATHER

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. — Civitans of the Chesapeake District will gather for the second quarterly council meeting of the 1965-66 year at Valley Forge, on November 8-7.

A good-sized delegation from Virginia Beach will attend. Family groups from nearly all clubs in the district — Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and the District of Columbia — are also expected.

Fred Pollard, Mills Godwin, and Robert Butten

William Spang, Jr.

Fire Dept. Busy

VIRGINIA BEACH — Dry woods and the lack of rain has been listed as the cause of numerous woods and grass fires in Virginia Beach this week.

The most serious of the fires was a woods fire which blazed out of control for eight hours Monday on West Neck Road, south of Princess Anne Courthouse.

The fire was brought under control late Monday night by volunteers from the Courthouse, Seateck and Oceana Fire Departments.

The same fire flared up again Tuesday and broke over lines firefighters had cut. The flames were contributed to falling leaves that drifted into the burned area.

The fire was again brought under control late Tuesday, but smoldering logs remained a problem. Other fires were reported Monday and Tuesday on West Road, Plaza Trail, Laskin Road near Eastern Shore Chapel, Kempville, Thalia, Pembroke Manor, Davis Corner, Centerville Turnpike, and North Newtown Road.

Two homes in separate areas of Virginia Beach were heavily damaged by fires on Monday and Tuesday.

TRAFFIC LIGHT TO BE INSTALLED

VIRGINIA BEACH — Safety Bureau Chief Reeves E. Johnson said last week a traffic light will be installed at 4th Street and Atlantic Avenue within a few weeks.

The 90 degree turn from the Fort Story bypass will eventually be eliminated by the construction of a graduated curve.

KELLAM, HODGES AND SPONG VICTORIOUS IN SENATE RACE

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia Beach Democrats have once again come out on top of the political situation. William P. Kellam of Virginia Beach; William H. Hodges of Chesapeake; and William B. Spang, Jr. of Portsmouth will represent the three cities which comprise the Third State Senatorial District.

Even as the earliest returns came in, it was apparent that the Democratic candidates would emerge victorious, and as more precincts came in, the margin of victory began to widen. With all the precincts reporting unofficially from the three cities, Spang led the Senatorial field with a tally of 23,505. Hodges was second with 19,480, and Kellam was third with 17,285. Between Kellam's total and the next candidate there was a margin of 4,444. Edgar Everhart, of Chesapeake, polled 11,682. He was followed by Paul C. Trotman, with 7,194 and George Walker with 4,258. The voting pattern in the Third Senatorial District went about as expected, as the three Democrats bowled over the opposition by as much as 2 to 1.

In Virginia Beach, Spang drew 7,884 votes; Kellam, 7,584; Hodges, 7,192; Everhart, 3,809; Trotman, 1,971; and Walker, 1,200. For House of Delegates seats Edward T. Caton III and P. B. White were unopposed, but Caton polled 8,070 votes and White, 7,969.

In the gubernatorial race at Virginia Beach, Mills E. Godwin, Jr. rolled over his nearest opponent by nearly a two to one margin. Godwin polled 6,224; Holton 3,718; Story, 1,445; and Rockwell, 48. In the race for Lt. Governor, Fred Pollard rolled up a total of 8,427; Vincent Callahan, 3,640; and Reid Putney, 1,181. In the Attorney General contest, Robert Y. Butten polled 6,479; D. Dorthea Hartley, 3,377; and John Carter, 1,114. In Portsmouth the Democratic ticket, headed by Godwin, won by a margin of 3 to 1. In Chesapeake, the Democratic ticket won by a 2 to 1 margin.

The number of votes cast in all races in Virginia Beach was considered quite good. More than 11,000 votes were cast, in contrast to the approximately 8,500 in the July Democratic primary.

In January when the Virginia General Assembly meets, for the first time the City of Virginia Beach will have its own state senator. This was made possible under the state's new apportionment plan, placing Virginia Beach, Chesapeake and Portsmouth in the same Senatorial District, and allotting three seats to the district. William Kellam moved to the upper House from the House of Delegates, as does William Hodges. William Spang was a Senate member.

In the Senatorial both Trotman and Everhart benefited substantially from hometown support, but neither was able to overcome the Democratic majority. The same area has not elected a Republican to the General Assembly in this century. Mills Godwin becomes the first consecutive Democratic governor of Virginia. Statewide, Godwin received half again as many votes as did his nearest contender, Linwood Holton.

In Virginia Beach and in the Third Senatorial District, the Democratic sweep was considered astounding.

Resident Killed In VC Attack

VIRGINIA BEACH — A military adviser, a resident of Virginia Beach, was killed in fighting in Viet Nam last week, according to the Defense Department.

Avy Cdr. Robert Joseph Fay, 41, of the 4900 block of Governor St., was the commanding officer of a military advisory group at Da Nang Air Base.

The defense department did not immediately release the details of Fay's death, but he was reportedly killed during a mortar attack in the Da Nang base while riding in a jeep. He was a demolition expert.

Before Fay was assigned to duty in Viet Nam he was chief of staff officer of the Naval Operations Support Group, Atlantic, stationed at Little Creek.

Fay is survived by his wife, the former Shirley Carrithers of Lincoln, Neb.; three children: James, 14; Robert Jr., 13 and Donald, 9; a brother, Cdr. Lawrence J. Fay, a sister, Katherine, of Newport, R. I. and his mother, Mrs. Joseph F. Fay in Quincy, Mass. Fay was a native of Quincy.

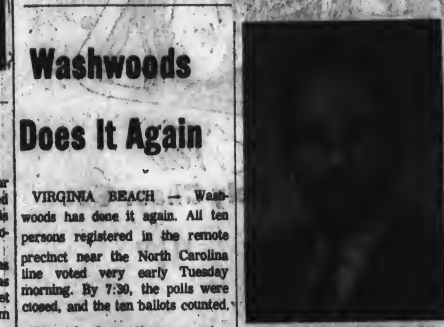

Fay graduated from the University of Mississippi and was commissioned in the Navy after graduating from the Massachusetts Maritime Academy. He served in the Navy during World War II and was stationed in Norfolk after the war.

He had been in UDT work since 1961.

Sailor Killed

VIRGINIA BEACH — A 22-year-old Dam Neck sailor was killed early Saturday morning when his motorcycle collided with an automobile on Great Neck Road.

Police identified the victim as John Elmer Martin, Jr., who was stationed at the Atlantic Fleet Guided Missile School at Dam Neck.

Police said Martin was southbound on Great Neck Road when it collided with a car driven by James L. Skyrn, Jr., of the 800 block of Brooke Road.

Skyrn told police he rounded the curve and saw Martin's motorcycle approaching in the northbound lane. Police said the motorcycle hit the left front fender of Skyrn's car, throwing Martin 150 feet into a field on the east side of the road. The accident occurred at 12:15 a.m., approximately 130 south of Plantation Drive. Martin died about 3 a.m. at Virginia Beach General Hospital.

Skyrn was not injured in the accident, police said. His brother, Freddie Skyrn, 18, was critically injured in an accident last Wednesday that took the lives of two teenagers and critically injured a fourth youth. That accident also occurred on Great Neck Road.

LET'S TALK FASHION

By ALICE BREWER WHITE

Today, Princess Margaret and her sweet man, Lord Snowdon will arrive in San Francisco for Meg's first visit ever to the United States! You can just bet for the next twenty-one days, the whole social country will be on tiptoe to entertain her, get a regal nod from her and copy her fads, fables and fashions. One of her first biggies is the Walt Ball in Hollywood. Can't you just see Merle Oberon, Mary Pickford Rogers and Sweden's glamorous Icekater Soja Heine shining up their real jewels to keep abreast of Princess Margaret's real jewel parade of glamour! Also going that the British government permitted the gay Meg to bring her fabulous collection of sure-muff real diamonds to these American shores. Watch for the news and television photos of her goings-on and her fabulous wedding tiara, set with clusters of round diamonds and a scroll-like framework of round diamonds that sometimes Princess Margaret converts into a necklace. . . . Then there's the second tiara of diamonds and a third, yet, of diamonds and turquoise and so on. Get the idea? Those English guards of the Commonwealth with Princess Meg and her devoted Lord Snowdon should make some blinding, eye-binding entrances, wouldn't you say? eh, wot?

FASHION PICKUPS:
How about that Nieman-Marcus Christmas gift-giving catalogue with the 300 ladies' hankies as gift suggestions. . . . What about the new Samson hairdos? (If anyone can go back that far with your Allabee, they're just a replica of the early Colleen Moore hair grand dame Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, the last word in social amenities, gliding haughtily out of the society pages with a Vanderbilt bandeau? . . . Mrs. Ted Bryner, Elizabeth Taylor Burden and the Duchess of Windsor are a trio of applauders of the new Yves St. Laurent pertemps "Y."

HATS OFF!
That's right, Allabee's hat is off this week to Virginia Beach's Lymell Bass, Miss American Teen-Ager of 1949! We interviewed her on our "Allabee About Town" WVEC-TV show before she went to her final competitions and we were especially proud to pick up the Oct. 28th New York Journal American and find an article written for the paper by our own Lymell titled "UNICEF Drive: All Treat, No Trick" with her happy, smiling photo titled "Teen-Age Ambassador for UNICEF." In my mind UNICEF should be considered as one of the world's greatest organizations deserving of support by all! UNICEF, by the way, will assist about $40 projects in 118 countries and our Virginia Lovely will have a hand in doing her part to assist. A lovely, charming, deserving teenager.

THEY'LL WEAR HATS!
Yes, we just know that the well-dressed women of the Tidewater will turn up in hats at the following events: First, today at the seventeenth Virginia Woman's Forum presented by Miller & Rhodes and that effervescent, bubbling, over-enthusiast Mrs. Dave Satterfield Jr. (The theme continues "The Changing World" of previous forums and will include such guest speakers as Dr. Russell Kirk, on "New Dimensions and Responsibilities in American Education"; Dr. Rosemary Sprague on "Literature and the Space Age"; Dr. Glen T. Seaborg on "Science and Freedom—A Challenge to Partnership"; and Dr. Ralph T. Overman on "Religion in the Age of Science." We'll have more on this coverage in next week's Sun. . . .

The next hat-wearing audience will be at the Pre-Holiday Fashion and Car Clinic at Norfolk's Kline's Chevrolet showrooms at 10:30 on the morning of Wednesday, November 17 when Ames & Brownley's fashions will adorn the six models who will show how to gracefully and correctly get into and out of a car. . . . Many Virginia Beach garden enthusiasts plan to attend the annual Lakewood Holiday House in the home of the James A. Albano's, 1575 Emory Place, in Norfolk on Wednesday, December 1. The hours are noon till 10 p.m. and, girls, please wear your prettiest hats and please, no spike heels! Incidentally, the Albano's have many interesting pieces they've collected from their many trips to Ecuador, Panama and Italy.

LOOKING ABOUT
We've noticed the perfectly lovely flowing chiffons and crepes for after-five wear now being shown at the Naivette Shoppes, especially the short cocktail dresses and formal. Divine color combinations, too. While black and gold are still good, now is the season for lovely white fashions, most especially if you're cruise or resort bound. What's lovelier than chalky white during the holiday gaytimes? Naivette's recent Window-in-Whites was a gem to behold! . . . For fascinating looking-about try Denton's Laskin road gift shop where manager Robert Marer keeps the place bouncing with brand new gift ideas. For example those adorable Dream Pets—Eager Beaver (boy scout bear), Nickolous Mouse, Sidney Kola (cute bear), Chris Mouse, and scads of other wee cloth animals, at only a dollar, to delight the Younger Set. Have you seen Denton's Plan-A-Party Decors all made and ready to use? Their Hallmark cards for the holidays are ever so smart and the ticking-away miniature grandfather's clocks are unique. Fashionrighters like to wear Christmas earrings and pins to match and the wee Christmas tree sets in this shop are ever so clever and smart looking. You'll have a ball of fun when you visit Denton's with your Christmas list!

FASHIONABLES
Mrs. R. L. Counselman, who always looks as if she popped out of a bandbox, is really expert knitter. Probably that's why she leans to knit suits and looks so voguish in them! . . . The one-and-only Beatrice Little, who originated the pillbox-on-the-back-of-the-head fad is now wearing beanie! Yes, ma'am, and beanie of only ranch mink or white ermine! Which reminds us that Mrs. Jack Amery is a pillbox devotee and her handsome hubby prefers them. No veils or out-flying feather jobs for his pretty wife! . . . And that finishes this week's fashion fol-de-rol!

DAV MEETS
VIRGINIA BEACH — Disabled American Veterans of Virginia Beach Chapter No. 20 will hold the next meeting on November 8 at 8 p.m. in the Cavalier Hotel. All members are urged to attend to discuss the Tidewater Veterans Association Parade for November 11.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

The New Danger On Our Roads

Another motorcyclist has been killed on the roads of Virginia Beach. Regardless of the circumstances surrounding the accident, the rider is just as dead. No matter who was at fault or if blame can be placed, the fact remains that another human being has become a statistic while riding a motorbike. The most recent death came shortly after midnight on Great Neck Road. Somehow, or other, the cycle collided head-on with an oncoming car. This is not the first death that has occurred on one of the small motorcycles. As we have said before, we understand how these overgrown bikes have multiplied so quickly. They are relatively inexpensive, particular to the younger generation, because of the design and because of the thrill of riding one.

Public concern has come lately because of the rash of accidents and injuries, even fatal injuries at Virginia Beach and elsewhere. We would really hate to see any restrictions placed on the riders of such vehicles, but unless the toll decreases soon, restrictions will be in order.

These vehicles are dangerous. Of that, there can be no doubt. However, they can be operated safely if precautions are taken. There is so little in the way of protection between rider and the road. Speed is usually a major factor in these motorbike accidents also. But those are not all the problems. Too often accidents occur through a lack of self-restraint and self-discipline by the riders.

Sooner or later something will have to be done to cut down on the number of injuries and deaths. It has been suggested that voluntary efforts be made by safety groups, parental advice and education, and by repeated warnings, but if this still does not curb the deaths, then some other means must be found. There is already serious frequency to motorbike accidents, and we believe some restraints and laws are needed immediately before the toll gets any higher.

An Unwise Decision

Let it be said to the credit of Mayor Frank Dusch that after he issued the proclamation closing the city offices on election day, he did not engage in any running political debate with those of the opposition who tried, in our opinion to make some political capital out of the closing.

The Virginia Beach Sun sees nothing wrong with the closing of the offices, since it is a state holiday and one of the most important days of all times. We predict the time will come when all businesses of all description will take a holiday on election day so as to focus on the importance of the occasion. But the City of Virginia Beach is in a senatorial district comprising of Portsmouth, Chesapeake, and Virginia Beach. We think that Virginia Beach should not have closed its offices unless the Cities of Portsmouth and Chesapeake did the same.

If it were purely a local election and the city closed its offices, it would have been another matter, but under conditions as existed on Tuesday, we think the decision that was made was politically unwise.

We suggest that Virginia Beach City Council pass an ordinance that makes it a misdemeanor for a rider of such a vehicle not to have a safety helmet on. This will not stop the accidents, but the helmets may serve as a deterrent to serious injury or death. Police and hospital records show that most of the injuries are head injuries caused when the rider goes head over heels in a crash. Perhaps the rider hit something first, or perhaps he used the front-wheel brakes first. But regardless, head injuries have been the result.

We also suggest that Council pass a law that only one person may ride on the motorbike at a time. We have seen two persons on them only too often. This is extremely dangerous. Then too, we feel that the Virginia Beach police should crack down on the motorcycle riders with two aboard or with a driver with no crash helmet. Immediately the police could begin a real enforcement program, aimed at nabbing the speeding motorbikes, and the riders who cut in and out of traffic arbitrarily, as well as those who block traffic lanes by riding two and three abreast. Also the police might crack down on those riders who are obviously reckless and hinder automobile traffic.

This type of vehicle has grown in scope to almost alarming proportions, and they are being ridden by too many inexperienced drivers. It seems to us that education and good common sense in highway driving are the two simple keys here.

We urge Virginia Beach City Council to pass laws now, aimed at reducing the already high toll, but if all else fails and the toll continues to climb, we will urge the passage of a law at Virginia Beach, prohibiting the use of such vehicles after sundown. Perhaps that can be another deterrent.

In most cases it is the youthful riders who are causing the trouble, and we do not want to see their recreation limited in any way, but something must be done . . . right now.

When the proclamation was first issued, we made a few calls to some people at random. Calls in Portsmouth and Chesapeake indicated that they thought that Virginia Beach should not have closed and that seemed to be the general feeling in the City of Virginia Beach. Whether or not it cost Virginia Beach organization any votes, of course, will never be known.

We are advised that the candidates involved were not consulted and were not parties to this decision, but the decision was made by officials who were truly conscientious in their decision that it was the proper thing to do. If decisions to close city offices on any election day is made, it should be made well in advance of elections rather than as a last minute decision so as to have an issue such as this involved in a campaign when it actually has nothing to do with the real issues.

Again we say we know the type of officials who made this decision, and we know they were conscientious in their views. We are also confident that had they given a little longer consideration in this matter they probably would not have closed on such a short notice.

MAKES THE GOING TOUGH

An Open Letter To The Great Pumpkin

Dear Sir: (I think)

Between now and next October 31, we hope you will make a conscious effort to make your influence felt throughout the land. For every other holiday or festival day of the calendar year, there is always someone we can call upon for both inspiration and information. But up to this point, nobody seems to care about being in charge of Halloween. It is our firm belief that you are the logical one to handle this chore of love, and we promise our full support in the future.

This year Halloween was very confusing. No one seemed to know when to celebrate it. There were frantic calls to the police, the mayor, to radio stations, TV stations and to the Virginia Beach Sun. The calls came from responsible serious-minded individuals genuinely interested in knowing when the trick-or-treaters should go on the prowl. Like everyone else, we had to admit we did not know. Several phone calls later, we found we were not alone. Some parents were sending the kids out on Saturday night, even though it was only the 30th. They were doing this so the collecting of goodies would not interfere with a school night. Others adamantly stuck to Sunday night, because that was actually Halloween. And still others claimed that all holidays that fall on Sunday are celebrated on Monday, therefore their moppets would be out Monday night. So you see, Great Pumpkin, everyone was confused. To our knowledge, this is the first three-day Halloween ever.

Then too, it seems that some rules must be drawn. Dentists and doctors have asked homeowners not to give candy. Supposedly it is bad for the teeth and stomach. They suggested fruit, particularly apples. This would not have been feasible in our neighborhood. First of all the kids could not have carried all the apples they would have received. Their large shopping bags and pillow cases were already overflowing. Then too, sir, apples for the more than two hundred under 14 youngsters, who arrived at our door, would have been too expensive. We figure it would have cost about twenty dollars that way.

For two and a half hours on Saturday night, we pulled a chair up to the front door and met the steady stream of ghosts, hobgoblins, witches, devils, pirates, dancing girls, etc., and handed out goodies. We were there almost as long Sunday night. Seems the kids came from miles around. We have never seen the majority of them before. Their parents brought them in cars to our neighborhood, let them off, picked them up when they were finished on our block and took them to another neighborhood. Halloween trick or treating apparently became big business.

And there is one more thing too, Great Pumpkin. By actual count, only one of every three said "Thank you" when they were handed the treats. This bothered us. Even our two-year old knows better than that.

Please sir, do not take this letter as being from the Scrooge of Halloween. We are most happy to see the lack of vandalism of Halloweens past, and we are most happy to see the children having a good time. All we ask is a little more organization. We hope that by Halloween 1966, you will have established a few rules, and will set a definite date for trick-or-treaters. We consider you a most important symbol of Halloween, and we consider your position most important. We think you should be loved and revered by kiddies everywhere. We really meant to meet you in the pumpkin patch to talk all this over with you, but we were not really sure what night to come.

Yours truly,
Managing Editor

The Election Is Over

We wish to offer our sincerest congratulations to the winners in Tuesday's election. The voters have made their choices, and we are pleased with the outcome. The one aspect of the election that still displeases us is that not enough qualified voters turned out at the polls. But a large number did, and made their opinions known by the way the ballots were cast.

On the statewide level, we look forward to the leadership of Governor-elect Mills E. Godwin, Jr. We feel certain that the state of Virginia can be proud to have such a fine statesman and gentleman as its governor. In the four years to come, we fully expect the implementation of Godwin's "Program of Progress," and we know we can expect a continuation of recent programs designed for the betterment of the State. The new Governor will be ably assisted by his Lt. Governor, Fred Pollard and his Attorney-General Robert Y. Button.

Here in our own Third Senatorial District, we are pleased that the voters have chosen the three men whom we supported. We are confident that Bill Kellam, Bill Hodges and Bill Spong will best serve the interests of the District, as well as their own home cities. We are also quite happy that the voters have seen fit to choose one Senator from each of the three cities in the District.

We are also pleased that P. B. White and Ned Caton will be serving Virginia Beach in the House of Delegates.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

A Program To Combat Heart Disease, Cancer And Stroke

By Senator LISTER HILL (D-Ala.)
Senator Hill is Chairman of the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare

The toll of heart disease, cancer and stroke in terms of human suffering cannot be measured. But we do know that these three killers and crippers of mankind in this country alone affected the lives of 30 million persons and their families and friends in 1963, and took the lives of 1,187,568 Americans.

Heart disease, cancer and stroke account for 71 percent of all deaths in this country.

COST HIGH
The economic cost to the Nation of the ravages wrought by heart disease, cancer and stroke amounts to in excess of $4 billion each year for medical care and treatment, and amounts to in excess of $30 billion if we take into account the loss in productivity and earning power due to premature deaths and disability.

To combat heart disease, cancer and stroke, President Johnson in March of 1964 appointed a Commission of our country's most distinguished medical authorities and laymen under the chairmanship of the internationally famous heart surgeon, Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, holder of the Distinguished Service Medal of the American Medical Association.

At the end of a careful study, the Commission concluded: "America need no longer tolerate several hundred thousand unnecessary deaths each year from heart disease, cancer and stroke. By bringing to all the people the full benefit of what is now known of prevention, detection, treatment, and cure, we could save each year a number of lives equal to the population of a major city."

FOR FULL BENEFIT OF MEDICAL PROGRESS

I was privileged to sponsor the legislation to carry out the recommendations of the Commission. As signed into law, the legislation authorizes the Public Health Service to award funds to assist in carrying out new programs of demonstrations, consultations, research and training in order to assist physicians and hospitals in bringing to their patients the latest advances in prevention, diagnosis, and treatment in the fields of heart disease, cancer and stroke.

Some of the diseases we faced in the past, such as yellow fever, malaria, typhoid fever, smallpox, and polio, are no longer threats to our health. Now we must minimize the toll of heart disease, cancer and stroke. Our efforts will lead to a healthier and stronger America. The words of the eminent British statesman, Benjamin Disraeli are no less true today than they were a century ago when he declared that the health of the people is really the foundation upon which all the happiness and all their powers as a state depend.

OPEN FORUM

NOTE OF APPRECIATION

We would like to express our thanks for the many expressions of sympathy and kindness extended to us during the recent bereavement and loss of our son and brother, Paul McBroom. We were especially touched by the response of his friends and classmates. Mrs. Lee McBroom and Gary Thomas McBroom

My dear Mr. Lowenthal,
The League of Women Voters of Norfolk and Virginia Beach would like to thank your paper for the coverage you gave us in our celebration of United Nations Day on the 24th at the Dome, and the Candidates' Meeting at Linkhorn Park School on the 25th. The amount of space you gave us for projects on two successive days was certainly appreciated.

We hope, as a group of informed non-dominant women, to help our growing community here at Virginia Beach as well as your newspaper does.
Sincerely,
Douglas Arnold Barnes,
Publicity Chairman

Dear Mr. Lowenthal:

May I extend my most sincere congratulations for your fine editorial of October 27th "NO MORE EXCUSES, PLEASE."

I wish it was possible for each and every parent in America to read and digest this editorial for you have certainly brought home the truth as to the reason of all the juvenile delinquency that this community, and the country is festering with.

The recent news story telling where some parents had protested to the school authorities because their children had been spanked by school authorities practically made me sick over these protests. If parents ruled with a more firm hand this spanking would not be necessary.

Again my thanks for writing so fearlessly on this subject and keep up the good work. I feel that my annual subscription has paid for itself alone from this one editorial.
Stanleigh H. Jones

Your Faith and You

ROBERT H. GARNER

Minister, Tabernacle Methodist Church

The late C. S. Lewis, in his "Screwtape Letters," gives us a vivid picture of evil power at work in the world. Screwtape is a senior devil, long experienced in the high art of leading men off the straight and narrow path, writing letters of encouragement and instruction to his apprentice and underling, Wormwood. He advises Wormwood that although the task will be difficult at times, he has a big advantage in that man will not take him seriously. They will not believe in him, and if they do they will look the other way. Generally, Screwtape advises, human mortals are apathetic about their gift for evil. They will believe anything they want to believe. For example, Screwtape continues, tell mortals you are a friend. Let them have what they want, and tell them they can have it now. We can wait for payment later.

This is the way evil works. We can have our fun now and pay later. But the bills always come due, and in the matter of moral evil, the bills are not always presented to you personally. Sometimes they call for payment from those who love you most—family and friends.

On the other hand, if a man chooses good instead of evil, he must pay for it before he gets it. The college student, for example, if he wants good grades, will have to sacrifice many an hour of fun and pleasure while he devotes time to study. But the benefit will be reaped on the day of examination.

This is to say that life requires more than knowledge, more than understanding, more than responsibility; it requires personal discipline which will tone and strengthen moral muscles for the day when they are needed.

Student Night For This Sun. Nep-Oaks Game

NORFOLK — A special "Student Night" will be observed this Sunday when the Norfolk Neptunes return home to Foreman Field to play the Hartford Oaks. It was announced Tuesday by General Manager Jim Dunn.

All high school and college students in Tidewater will be able to purchase general admission tickets for half price ($1.00) by showing a school identification pass or card at the box office.

The sale of student tickets will be limited to the night of the game. "This is another trial program," says Dunn. "From the response we get we'll be able to judge on the feasibility of continuing the policy in 1966. We certainly hope to encourage the growth of our list of fans around the high school and college students in Tidewater."

is already underway. "It looks like the tremendous interest in and support of the club is going to hold through the final two games of the season," Dunn states.

Although out of the championship run, the Neptunes, with continued support of Tidewater fans, can walk off with the CPL's No. 1 spot in the attendance race.

Average home crowds are just under 2,000 per game and the same goes through the Hartford and Norfolk games will ensure the Neptunes of leadership in this all-important area.

Hartford, like Wheeling, has a flock of top personnel and a season full of bad luck.

The Neptunes were pushed to the limit twice by Wheeling, before coming up a winner.

Hartford topped the Neptunes in pre-season play only to drop a decision to Norfolk midway through the campaign in the Insurance City.

GYMNASTICS

PRINCESS ANNE — The Kellam High School Physical Education department has announced that an extra-curricular class in gymnastics is now available to interested Kellam athletes.

Kellam coach, Don VanBenschoten, said that an accomplished gymnast, Tom Trimble, is conducting the class on Wednesday evenings after school.

Trimble, who is a faculty member at Old Dominion College, has twice ranked third and once second in world championship water skiing competition.

Coach VanBenschoten, in discussing the importance of the program, pointed out that like most other sports in the United States, gymnastics should begin in the high school. VanBenschoten is hopeful that in the future gymnastics will become a part of Kellam's interscholastic program.

The class has been in progress for two weeks and some 30 Kellam athletes are participating.

ONE TEAM UNBEATEN

VIRGINIA BEACH — With only four games remaining to be played in the Midget League of the Union Kampsville Division of the Virginia Beach Recreation Football League, Newlight remains undefeated. Newlight Midgets have a record of 4 victories and no defeats. The Seastack Devils are in second place with a 4 and 1 record, and Seaboard hangs on to third place with a 1 and 3 record. If Newlight can remain undefeated after Saturday's contest they can pick up game edge, for Seastack will be idle.

Junior Low — In the Jr. Low League Seaboard has possession of the first place spot with a 3 and 1 record. Bayside is running a close second with a record of 3 and 1 and a tie. C&K and Seastack are tied for third with a record of 3 wins and 1 defeat each.

Junior High — Bayside has been the power house in this league and they are presently in first place with a record of 4 wins and one defeat. Seastack is in second place with a record of 3 and 1 and Seaboard holds on to third with a record of 3 wins and 2 defeats.

Senior High — It was predicted by some that Seastack would run away with the title early during the season. This has been proven to be quite a difficult thing for Seastack's Seniors to accomplish. They have faced stiff opposition all season and the "Hard Nose" grid iron men from C&K and Newlight stand tall as fighting examples.

Seastack is presently in second place with a 3 and 1 record. Newlight third with a record of 3 and 2 and C&K rides on top of the pack in first place with a record of 5 wins while suffering only one defeat.

Can Seastack catch the hard driving C&K? This question will have an answer after the two teams meet on Nov. 8, 1965. The winner will undoubtedly be league champion.

PARADE — FUN FOR ALL

Statistically, there were 4,500 marchers, 15,000 spectators, 23 floats, 62 bands (most from near-by high schools), 5,000 small children, over 10,000 big children, and not one dog—making up the 18th Annual Surfers' Day Oyster Bowl Parade.

Forming in downtown Norfolk last Saturday at 8:30 a.m. at City Hall avenue and Bank street, it continued up Granby to 21st street in solid formation of well-trained marching units, fashionably uniformed bands, and floats expressing the religious theme of the Shriners, plus the humor of the TV personalities and animal floats . . . and never letting the many spectators forget the real purpose of the parade and the following football game between William & Mary and Southern Mississippi was that "Strong Legs Run So That Weak Legs Might Walk" through the fund raising.

The day was perfect parade and football weather. One could not count the sparkling sunshine and champagne air which prompted us to catch the 7:30 a.m. bus to Norfolk and to attain a vantage point on top the Greyhound bus terminal stone seat.

There was applause, smiles, and a few tears as we oldsters shouted the flag at least fifty times, and thought of those other young men in Vietnam and the mass misunderstandings throughout the world. Essentially, however, most of the marchers and spectators were young. Pretty girls abounded. There was the little crippled girl; stop a float in contrast to Miss Norfolk, The Gold Pussy Cats, the Dixie Darling troupe of Dancers, Miss High School of America and her attendants, the highly decorated small girls in black and white velvet with bold letters preceding the Lynchburg High School unit . . . and "Miss Oyster Bowl Pearl," Patricia Ann Murden, daughter of the illustrious Potentate of Khedive Tempie, Bernard C. Murden.

We took special cognizance of the Virginia Beach units from Cox, Kellam, Princess Anne, Kempsville and Virginia Beach High schools, all doing honor to our city. From the smallest small fry on the sidewalk to the oldest observers, this great parade presented a challenging preview to the game later in the day at Foreman Fields—Douglas Arnold Barnes.

Mutual Federal anticipates paying an increased dividend at the rate of 4 1/4% per annum to owners of record Dec. 31, 1965.

PARENT'S LEAGUE
VIRGINIA BEACH — The Parents League of Virginia Beach High School will meet November 9 at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.
Principal Moulde will be the main speaker.

THE SPEED SHOP
By JACK MOORE

Ned Jarrett, the smiling Ford driver from Camden, S. C., already has established a "first" in the National Association for Stock Car Racing this season.

And the 33-year-old Camden, S. C., veteran could use the Tidewater 300 Sunday, Nov. 7 at Moyock Raceway as the springboard to setting another record in NASCAR.

When Jarrett won the 1965 Grand National championship recently, he became the first Ford driver to take the title. It was his second crown after winning the championship in 1961 in a Chevrolet.

Jarrett still has his eye on taking the "triple crown," something no driver has done in the 17-year history of the circuit.

That means winning the championship, winning the most races and winning the most money.

Jarrett already has the title locked up so he can go flat out and not have to worry about finishing for points.

Junior Johnson has the most wins with 13, only one ahead of Jarrett. Fred Lorenzen has the most money, $77,380 but is only $1,245 in front of Ned.

"I had to beat out Dick Hutcherson for the championship and now I'm trying to beat Junior for the most wins and Freddie for the most money," Jarrett said. "Those are three tough guys to beat."

In the 100-miler at Hillsboro, N. C., Jarrett's blue 1965 Ford blew its engine and he wound up 16th, picking up $100 on Lorenzen who wasn't entered.

But Johnson has his troubles too and finished only one position in front of Jarrett with a broken "A" frame.

The Tidewater 300, a 300-lap race around the fast one-third of a mile track, carries a purse of $5,300 with the winner picking up $1,000.

That could be enough money to turn the cash race in Jarrett's favor if he and Lorenzen finish close at Rockingham. And Ned will be going all out for a victory to edge Johnson.

Jarrett, enjoying his biggest year in racing, has his work cut out for him in shooting for the "triple crown." "But it would be something I could win it," he smiled.

A fast, talented field is expected for the race, the 55th and final event of the NASCAR season.

And Jarrett will be right there. He started 32 of the 53 races this season — the most of any driver. And it would have been 53 but drivers were eligible for only one of the two 100-mile qualifying races at Daytona in February.

Time trials will be held from 1:00 p.m. until 2 p.m. with the race getting the green flag at 2:30 p.m.

WHEELCHAIR BASKETBALL IS COMING TO VA. BEACH NOV. 20

VIRGINIA BEACH — Professional Wheelchair Basketball is coming to Virginia Beach. The Virginia Rebel Rousers will play the Princess Anne High School basketball team in the school gymnasium on Saturday, Nov. 20 at 8 p.m.

The Rebel Rousers are a professional team of basketball players who are confined to wheelchairs and they represent the state of Virginia against other wheelchair teams.

The team uses specially built wheelchairs which they handle with amazing agility. The wheelchairs the Princess Anne team will use are being donated by the Tidewater Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The team consists of ten members with five players on the floor at a time.

The game with Princess Anne is sponsored by Aragona Moose Lodge No. 196, Loyal Order of the Moose. And, Mayor Frank Dusch has proclaimed Nov. 20 as Wheelchair Basketball Day in Virginia Beach.

Tickets for the game are $1 for children and $2 for adults. A portion of the proceeds will go to Danny Thomas' St. Jude Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

The Rebel Rousers will play their first professional game in the Tidewater area at the Norfolk Arena Dec. 11, when they meet the East Coast Division of the National Wheelchair Basketball Association Champions from Nashville, Tenn.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the Aragona Moose Lodge or the wheelchair basketball office at 467-1441.

The Colly Avenue Bike Shop has donated a bicycle for a door prize for the Princess Anne High game and Price's, Inc., has donated a cut glass salad set for the occasion.

The Virginia Rebel Rousers will play professional wheelchair teams from Nashville, Boston, Philadelphia, New York, Indiana, Eastern Paralyzed Veterans, Tampa, and possibly the Los Angeles Flying Wheels.

Capt. Jim's TIPS for SAFE BOATING
BY JIM KERRICK, SAFETY OFFICER
Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries

During the last six months of 1963, 802 pleasure boaters were convicted of a boating violation. For the same period of 1964, 532 were convicted showing a decline of 250. This indicates that the boating public is becoming more aware of their responsibilities in safe boating.

Every new boat owner should learn all they can about safe boating prior to launching their boat. They should be familiar with their equipment, the equipment requirements as far as Virginia State Law is concerned, registration requirements, rules of the road, weather conditions and courtesy on the water.

It is estimated that over 100,000 pleasure boaters will utilize Virginia's waters during 1965. Approximately 40 percent of Virginia's population prefer water-based recreational activities and this trend is ever increasing.

The sport of skiing and skin diving is increasing. Many boating and fishing waters will be created within the next ten years by new impoundments.

Each year the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary and the U. S. Power Squads within your immediate area make available to you FREE courses in safe boating. All it will cost is a little of your time.

Capt. Jim's TIPS for SAFE BOATING
BY JIM KERRICK, SAFETY OFFICER
Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries
During the last six months of 1963, 802 pleasure boaters were convicted of a boating violation. For the same period of 1964, 532 were convicted showing a decline of 250. This indicates that the boating public is becoming more aware of their responsibilities in safe boating.
Every new boat owner should learn all they can about safe boating prior to launching their boat. They should be familiar with their equipment, the equipment requirements as far as Virginia State Law is concerned, registration requirements, rules of the road, weather conditions and courtesy on the water.
It is estimated that over 100,000 pleasure boaters will utilize Virginia's waters during 1965. Approximately 40 percent of Virginia's population prefer water-based recreational activities and this trend is ever increasing.
The sport of skiing and skin diving is increasing. Many boating and fishing waters will be created within the next ten years by new impoundments.
Each year the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary and the U. S. Power Squads within your immediate area make available to you FREE courses in safe boating. All it will cost is a little of your time.

What Quality Beef Does A&P Sell?

That's a fair question. But not an easy one to answer because we have our own quality standards, different from any other meat merchant.

These standards don't fit exactly the familiar terms you know for grades of meat. As an example, did you know that some beef, graded U.S. Choice, just doesn't meet our "Super-Right" specifications? It's true! You see... we don't buy by grade. We use our own high standards to bring you the best values.

That doesn't mean we don't approve of such grading—not at all. It just means we're very fussy about the beef we label "Super-Right." It stands to reason we have to be or A&P wouldn't be America's number one meat merchant.

In 1909 the intersection of Granby and City Hall Avenues was one of the city's busiest.

... then H. D. Oliver had been serving for 44 years ...

Electric trolleys ran up and down Granby Street. The Monticello Hotel stood on the corner, and the many retail stores of the city welcomed shoppers all along Granby Street. In those years H. D. Oliver was already established as one of the city's most respected names, providing complete and well handled burial and funeral services.

Today H. D. Oliver still holds its place as the city's finest in its field. Two fine homes, including the newest at Virginia Beach, an experienced capable staff and the backing of 100 years enable H. D. Oliver to serve your every need.

President Inks Pub. Works Bill

JOHNSON CITY, TEX. — President Johnson signed the $4.2 billion public works appropriations bill, last week, which includes $970,000 for the completion of the Lynnhaven Inlet dredging project.

The allocation is in excess of the actual cost of the project and the excess money is expected to be refunded to the government.

The project was originally estimated, by the Corps of Army Engineers, to cost $1.17 million, but the eventual low bid was only $340,000. The work on the project began last summer, and already a new boat channel to Lynnhaven Roads and a turning basin have been completed.

The bill also includes a reimbursement of $75,000 to the city for its beachland replenishment program.

Also included in the bill was $20,000 for a survey project in Virginia Beach.

BASKIN IN THE SUN

BY GORDON BASKIN

Can't say that I feel well these days. Got those past 45 blues. Small print causes my eyes to water, and my arms need to be about three feet longer so I can hold out the printed page to the point where my eyes focus. I can see a girl at a hundred yards, but that close-up work is killing me. My state of mind is not entirely due to old age, however. What is really causing my vision to blur is the look of the dames these days. I've spent most of my life looking at women, and now that I am able to really admire the view, they have covered up the dames with some weird get-ups. I have been having trouble for some years with dames in slicks, but this "little-girl" look has thrown me completely.

The other day I patted what I thought was a nine year old girl on the head and asked her who her parents were. She almost knocked me cold. Turned out she was thirty-four and had two sons in high school. I'm lucky her husband wasn't about, or I'd really have been in trouble. I'm not really sure about his anger, since it is probable that he'd agree with me.

Saw some ads in the women's magazines that caused my thin blood to run even colder. I normally look at these magazines to charge my batteries, but I've got to quit it. The ads picture females who weigh about thirty-nine pounds and whose faces look as if all their back teeth have been pulled. They have the figures of a 1917 washboard, and legs like a rickets victim. I yearn for the fully-packed babes of yesteryear.

The skirts these days are very short, and normally I would be happy to encourage even shorter ones, but the skirts on the models in these fashion magazines only give you a view of a knee that looks like the "after" pictures of Joe Namath's knee operation. Sort of shriveled up and bony. Even a mother would have trouble thinking such a knee was handsome.

I suspect that all these models have dieted themselves into a state of malnutrition. Too bad. What they need to get back into shape is about twelve malted milkshakes every day and a few pounds of french fried potatoes for lunch and dinner. I don't like my women as fat as a poland china box, but I sure like to be able to tell they're not boys when the light is dim.

WINNER, AAA TRAFFIC SAFETY POSTER CONTEST

Wear White At Night

"This month's award winning school traffic safety drawing by Tari Anderson, age 17, of the Dixie Hollands Senior High School in St. Petersburg, Florida, shows how not to be an invisible man when walking after dark," said Richard S. Holland, Director. Calling attention to the high pedestrian death toll of late afternoon and evening hours, he stressed that many of these traffic casualties could have been avoided if the motorist had seen the pedestrian in time.

Many non-driving pedestrians have a misconception about the distance required for a driver to come to a safe stop. They also make the mistake that because they see the driver, the driver sees them. In addition, they do not realize that a driver sees only what is within the range of his headlights, and that many things to the side of him are hidden by his blindspot. Mr. Holland pointed out, "Often by the time the driver sees the object, he is dangerously near it. Thus, it is the pedestrian's responsibility to make sure the driver sees him. Wearing something white, or carrying a light after dark and in the late afternoon haze is a safety precaution every pedestrian should use," said Mr. Holland. "In addition, AAA urges elderly pedestrians to avoid walking at night, unless accompanied by a younger person," he said.

As part of our schools' monthly traffic safety education program, Tidewater Automobile Association is distributing the new poster to area schools.

PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

Scheduled for Sunday, November 21, at Berkeley Plantation, the Charles City County home of Mr. and Mrs. Mainstem Jamieson, the program includes a brief religious service, a dramatization of the well documented original Thanksgiving held on this site 346 years ago and a holiday dinner to be served on the terraced slopes of the plantation garden.

The weekend will provide a full round of festivities for Tidewater Virginians and their guests. Many will journey to Williamsburg on Saturday for the Thanksgiving gridiron classic between the University of Richmond and William and Mary College. The game, to be played at Gary Field, marks the 74th annual clash between these two rivals. Some of those who plan to attend the football game in Williamsburg on Saturday, will be present at the re-enactment at Berkeley on Sunday.

Virginia Beach Then

As the vintage truck and automobile in front of this Virginia Beach construction show, this photograph was taken in the late 1920's. These two buildings have changed little during the years. The names of the buildings probably have been changed since this early picture was taken. A clue as to where they are located: on the south end of Atlantic Avenue.

And Now

Residents and visitors to the area alike are certain to recognize the buildings in both pictures are the Dunes Hotel and the Traymore. About 40 years have passed since the early photo was taken, but little change has taken place to disguise the addition of the wing to the left of the Dunes and the tower parking lot to the right of the Traymore.

DORIS PADRICK'S VIEW of VIRGINIA BEACH

Owens stands beneath the archway which leads from the living room into the sunroom.

Aladdin's Lamp suggests the magic of a time long ago . . . and P. P. Owen's Aladdin's Lamp is a treasure house of antiques looking for the proper setting in your home.

Owen had had his antique shop in London Bridge for a number of years, but last month he found a lovely old house at Robbins Corner in Bayside into which he has moved himself and all his accumulated antiques.

Working day and night, he has arranged the furniture pieces, the glassware, the collectors' items, the books, the pictures, and all other paraphernalia to show to its best advantage and to help you, the purchaser or the browser, to find what you are looking for with a minimum of effort.

Opening the front door, you come into the large living room. There you will see many things — a double-tufted loveseat with hand-carved walnut frame, a medium-size grandfather clock of dark wood with stoppered corners and the original feet, three different sizes of copper apple butter kettles (ideal to store your fireplace logs!), an old walnut powder cabinet, with original rattail hinges, also an early pine wall cupboard, a solid silver Afisha (handtooled), various vases (tall cranberry, satin blue bud, etc.), old telephones with ringing boxes, and many other unusual finds. Guns hang at various strategic points on the wall over archways. The sun room overflows with colorful glassware and china, including nearly 400 pieces of sea leaf lustre ironstone . . .

Those of you who may be looking for first editions or any old books will enjoy browsing through his library room. He has the first edition (and what may be the only copy) of the History of Norfolk County by Col. William H. Sturges which covers the years 1687-1800. The cover is of tooled leather with gilt-edge pages. His collection of books on the Civil War is extensive, as are books covering other historical periods. And there are many of the old children's books you might like your children to read (or to rediscover yourself), such as Horat's 'Alger', etc. Or how about Milton's 'Paradise Lost' by Robert Vaughn, illustrated by Gustave Doré.

P. P. Owen became a collector of antiques because he enjoys finding the many objects which speak eloquently, though silently, of a time gone by. And he systematically lowers his prices if a piece remains in the store too long. He wants his antiques to be used and enjoyed in your home.

He does not restore the antiques. Many of them are just as he found them, but he has sanded a portion so you may see for yourself what may be hidden beneath tarnish or accumulated layers of paint and varnish.

You won't see a genie at Aladdin's Lamp, but maybe, with some vigorous rubbing on your purchase, you will discover you have got a treasure!

Located at 1513 Pleasure House road, Aladdin's Lamp is open and waiting for your visit.

AWARDS PRESENTED TO POST OFFICE EMPLOYEES

clerks and carriers in attendance. Assistant Postmaster E. L. Sheen accepted on behalf of employees of the Virginia Beach Post Office a plaque, which was presented by Mr. Newton, for placing first in Group II in the Washington Region Motor Vehicle Safety Contest during fiscal year 1965.

Mr. Newton then presented a certificate for a one hundred percent achievement award, conferred on the postmaster and employees at Virginia Beach for their cooperative efforts in attaining a participation rate of one suggestion for each employee during Fiscal Year 1965. The certificate was accepted by Mr. Ross P. Wible, past chairman of the Virginia Beach Suggestions and Awards Committee.

Following the awards presentation, Mr. B. J. Madigan and Mr. O. L. Gallagher read letters of commendation which were presented to Postmaster Joseph T. Crosswhite, Jr., expressing appreciation from the Regional Director, to all employees of the Virginia Beach Post Office who supported the programs making the awards possible.

Baltimore Man Sentenced

VIRGINIA BEACH — Roger Thomas Howard, 25, of Baltimore has been sentenced to two 30 year prison terms for the abduction and armed robbery of a Virginia Beach policeman last December.

Circuit Court Judge Robert S. Ashb convicted Howard after a short trial last Thursday, and fixed two 30-year sentences to run concurrently after rejecting a plea for leniency.

Howard has also received a five-year prison term from a Norfolk court for attempting to murder police officer Julius W. Lamm Dec. 28. Lamm was abducted by Howard and another man while investigating a traffic accident.

Lamm testified that Howard and the other man, identified as Walter Joseph Smith, took his gun and patrol car, drove him to Norfolk and left him handcuffed to a fence. A bullet fired by Smith just missed Lamm's head.

Smith, who has escaped from the Maryland Penitentiary, was killed last March when he attempted to escape from Norfolk City Jail.

C. of C. ELECTS DIRECTORS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Ten new directors have been elected by the membership of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce for three year terms. It has been announced by a special elections committee.

The terms of the new directors will begin on January 1, 1966. They will join 20 old directors who have one to two years remaining in office.

DIRECTORY ISSUED

RICHMOND — The Virginia State Chamber of Commerce has announced the issuance of their 1965-1966 Industrial Directory of Virginia Manufacturing and Mining.

The directory includes two new sections not covered in previous issues. For the first time the directory has a section covering the growing field of Research and Development. The other addition is the inclusion of public utility companies.

William L. Heartwell, Jr., director of Industrial Development for the Chamber, noted that the directory has been dramatically changed for this issue. "We have done a thorough job of revising pace with Virginia's continued economic growth. The directory has been changed to a more convenient size and every effort has been made to offer directory users a publication ideally suited for modern business needs," Heartwell stated.

The industrial directory is widely used by business firms, industrial development groups and chambers of commerce. State Chamber staff members use the directory extensively in their work, especially in the field of industrial development.

Standard sections of the directory include alphabetical listings of products; products classified by industries; geographical listings of companies by city; and an alphabetical classification giving companies with their mailing addresses, number of employees and names and titles of principal executives.

The State Chamber annually supplies more than 2,500 copies of the directory to Virginians and to interested parties throughout the United States. In anticipation of a growing interest and continued industrial growth for Virginia, the Chamber has printed the largest order of the directory in its history.

BE EXTRA CAREFUL

VIRGINIA BEACH — Night driving calls for that "something extra" both in car handling skills and in observance of safety precautions.

The words of caution come from the American Insurance Association, which points out that the death rate per million miles driven is about three times greater at night than during daylight hours.

Don't bet your life against these statistics by failing to be extra careful when driving at night, the Association advises. Make sure your lights and turn signals are in proper working order, and don't fail to use your dimming switch to lessen the glare for approaching motorists.

BEACH MAN TRAVELS TO HOUSTON

VIRGINIA BEACH — Last week one of the resort city's up-and-coming businessmen, Allan Rothenberg journeyed to Houston to watch the Gemini-Six mission from Mission Control.

The mission was "scrubbed" but Rothenberg said he enjoyed the trip anyway.

You might ask why a businessman from the beach was afforded such a trip? It seems that Rothenberg was Walter Schirra's commanding officer when the Astronaut was in Fighter Squadron 71 from 1949 to 1951 at Quanset Point. Rothenberg has corresponded with Schirra during the intervening years and was invited to tour the Houston complex by Robert Gilruth, Director of the Manned Spacecraft Center, at the urging of Schirra.

Rothenberg left Virginia Beach Oct. 23 and returned Oct. 26 after the mission was called off.

He said the mission was scrubbed because scientists at Houston and the Cape believe the primary engine of the Agena didn't ignite or exploded when it did ignite. Rothenberg said the mission delay would probably not set back the Gemini Moon program at all.

Rothenberg was given a special tour of the Mission Control Center — one not available to the general public. He witnessed a simulated GT-6 "hook-up," saw the Lunar Excursion Module "mock-up" and went on a simulated mission in the L. E. M. trainer, the only one in the United States. In Rothenberg's words, "I was an astronaut for a day — it was the most exciting day of my life."

While touring the center he had the pleasure of talking with three different astronauts: Gordon Cooper, James McDivitt and Roger Chaffee, one of the new astronauts. Rothenberg said he talked about the astronauts particular parts in the space program. He said Chaffee will probably be the first of one of the first men in the Apollo program, to set foot on the lunar surface. Rothenberg said he does not claim to be an authority on America's space program but got this observation from talking with the three spacemen.

Rothenberg said the trip to the moon will take approximately 70 hours one-way. A Saturn-5 booster will launch the 16-ton moon vehicle (L.E.M.) into outer space. He said when the ship reaches the moon it will go into a two-hour orbit around it. Two of the three-man crew will enter the L.E.M., detach it from the command module and land on the moon near the equator and approximately 180 degrees from the launch point. When the L.E.M. lands, one of its two-man crew, very possibly Chaffee, will step out on the moon's surface and collect samples of rock, dust and dirt. The L.E.M. will then blast off, leaving the landing platform behind and hook up with the command module which has been orbiting the moon. When the two astronauts return to the command capsule they will detach from the L.E.M. and leave for earth. Rothenberg said the command module is about the size of the cockpit of a large jetliner. The L.E.M. would be in orbit around the moon.

"This is why the Gemini-6 mission was so important," he said. "If the hook-up can not be accomplished, the scientists will have to design a new method of landing on the moon's surface," he added. "But the Space Administration is continuing on the theory that such a hook-up can be done." "If it (the hook-up) depends on the human element, Wally (Schirra) has the capabilities to do the job," Rothenberg said.

Rothenberg said GT-6 will attempt to fly in formation with GT-7 when the latter is sent into orbit for a 14-day astronaut endurance mission on or about Dec. 6. GT-6 will be launched approximately seven days after GT-7 is put into orbit (a weeks time is needed to rebuild the launch pad). GT-6 will join up with GT-7 and stay joined up with it for 24 hours and then return to earth. The entire GT-6 mission will be approximately a 48-hour mission.

Rothenberg said, "I feel honored the privilege was given me to meet and talk with the astronauts and tour the Houston Manned Spacecraft Center."

He said he will make the trip in December when Schirra will go into space again.

Rothenberg is a retired U. S. Navy commander and is presently an assistant manager with Anderson & Sturdivant, stock and bond brokers at 3110 Pacific Avenue.

While in the Navy Rothenberg was associated with the "Discoverer" program, the prelude to the Mercury program. He worked on the program while stationed at Point Mugu, California. The Discoverer series was launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base. While there, Rothenberg was in charge of the Pacific missile range, so his interest in America's space program not only comes from his friendship with Wally Schirra, but from first-hand experience in the Discoverer series. Rothenberg has closely followed the Mercury and the Gemini series and expects success in the Apollo series.

YOU won't KNOW yourself!

Dressing up is always fun! Whether it's Halloween, Mardi Gras, a Hawaiian luau or a masquerade ball, almost everyone of every age enjoys wearing a costume. It makes us feel "different"... less restrained and more light-hearted. Perhaps it's a relief to have our everyday self at home for a while. For many of us, that tired, worried, unhappy self is far from satisfactory but we seem to be stuck with it.

Yet consider this. The burden of self that we carry is unnecessary... and we have a standing invitation to lay it down! One of the joys of following Jesus is that we must "leave self behind." There is no place in the Christian life for worry or we, because the logical sequence of faith in God are contentment and security. Yes, the gloomiest pessimists become clear-sighted optimists when they are filled with the light that only God can give.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. These are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself which needs his moral and material support. Please go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

MAIL YOUR CHRISTMAS

year is on "Mail Early," "ZIP Today" and Christmas stamps.
Here are a few regulations that should help you with your Christmas mailings for overseas.

The period October 21 to November 10 has been designated for the mailing of Christmas parcels by surface transportation to members of our Armed Forces overseas. For airmail parcels the period is December 1 to December 10. Greeding cards for the Armed Forces overseas should be mailed within the periods designated for parcels if they are to have a reasonable expectation of delivery prior to Christmas.

The term "Armed Forces Overseas" includes personnel of our Armed Forces, members of their families, and authorized U.S. civilians employed overseas, who receive their mail through an APO,
New York, N.Y., San Francisco,
Calif., or Seattle, Wash., or Fleet
Post Office, New York, N.Y., or
San Francisco, Calif., or Navy
Post Office, c/o Postmaster, Seattle, Wash.

All articles should be packed in boxes of wood, metal, solid fiber-board, or strong double faced corrugated fiberboard. All fiberboard boxes should be securely wrapped in heavy paper which materially strengthens the package. Each box should be well tied with a strong cord. Sufficient cushioning material should be used to prevent any rattling or loosening of articles within the package. Unless tightly filled, boxes are likely to be crushed. A slip showing list of contents and addressee should be enclosed in the parcel. Forms 2860 or 2876-A, Customs Declaration, completed by the senders are required on parcels to many destinations.

Matches of all kinds and lighter fluid may not be mailed to overseas military addresses. Cigarettes, other tobacco products, coffee and various other items are prohibited in parcels addressed to some military post offices.

The domestic rates of postage are applicable, and postage must be fully prepaid. When fourth-class parcel post rates are applicable, the zone rate from the post office where mailed to the post office through which the parcel is addressed will be charged. Air-mail articles weighing not in excess of 8 ounces are chargeable at the rate of 8 cents per ounce; those weighing over 8 ounces are chargeable at the rate of 88 cents for the first pound and 80 cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

Addressee must be legible and complete, and should be prepared by typewriter or pen and ink. All APO numbers have been changed to five digits which are identical to the ZIP Code. The correct form of address for overseas military personnel is very important.

CONCERT SET:

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Civic Chorus, directed by Charles Oliver, announces a performance of its major classical work of the season, "A German Requiem," by Johannes Brahms. To be performed on Sunday evening, November 14, the "Requiem" is sung as a commemoration of the memorial given on November 11th to the dead of the Armed Forces.

The word "requiem" means "rest," and is the first word of the traditional mass for the dead. The musical requiem form has been liberally used by the great composers. Most of the famous and popular examples of the requiem mass, almost all composed in the nineteenth century, are not suitable for use in church services. They are concert pieces, inspired mostly by personal losses, and composed because the musical genius of the composer chose the requiem as an expression of grief.

Two years ago, the Civic Chorus was in preparation for a performance of the Requiem of Fauré when the November 22nd tragedy put the concert in poignant perspective. So it is with special reverence that the Chorus prepares this year's grander endeavor, to tribute to this memorial season. This profoundly moving choral setting was inspired by the death of Brahms' mother, and differs from most masses in that he wrote it in his native German language to a text compiled from the Bible. This is in contrast to the usual Latin text.

For his native German language, sung in the lovely English translation.

Known mainly in the spring for its gala musical comedy performances, such as last year's "Show Boat," "Carousel" of the year before and "The Merry Widow" in 1963, the Chorus has also performed a concert work in the fall. Those who have enjoyed the lighter or spring staged productions, might do well to hear the other facets of the talents of this group.

The fall concert is the Chorus' civic contribution to the area, with the director, accompanist, soloists and choral voices all donating their talents to give stimulus to the musical climate of Virginia Beach.

The public is cordially invited to attend this concert at Grosse Episcopal Church, 40th and Poindexter, at 8 p.m. on Sunday, November 14.

HEATING!

A "scattered" flame pattern indicates oil-and-air mixture not being completely burned.

Texaco Jet Flame Booster produces a "compact" flame for more complete combustion.

Texaco Jet Flame Booster can be readily installed in most "jet-type" home oil burners.

Extensive laboratory research and in-home testing proves that oil burner efficiency can be increased by as much as 42% with the simple addition of a Texaco Jet Flame Booster.

The unit consists of stabilizer blades and the end cone. The stabilizer blades start the air moving in a swirling pattern. The air then mixes with the fuel oil to form a combustible mixture. Finally, the end cone shapes the air-oil mixture to form a compact, swirling, clean-burning flame.

What are the qualities that make a star? Ability is all-important. The natural athlete, for instance, has a talent for the sport in which he or she excels. But, ability isn't enough. It's like knowledge. It must be put to use. The athlete must stay "in condition". He must train. He must practice. He must put forth effort to make the best use of whatever natural ability he possesses.

In business, some people have a natural flair for courtship success. But, here too, effort is important. No one wants to buy from a salesman who is half-hearted and indifferent. If you contract for some particular service, you are in some manner impressed by the attitude of the people with whom you do business.

So, whatever your needs, may we suggest you look first to the local business community. The reputable businessman has a background of service to the community. He makes the effort to please because he knows that his future success is dependent upon continued good performance.

IT'S A RAT RACE AND

THE RATS ARE WINNING

NEW JERSEY — The race is increasingly complicated by overpopulation of urban slum areas and the continued shift of population to suburbia, reports Dr. Ralph E. Heal, Executive Secretary of the National Pest Control Association. The rat population, points out Dr. Heal, about equals the human population in the United States and, despite recent intensive eradication campaigns by municipalities, there appears to be no noticeable decline in the total number of rats.

As a result, it is costing us about $2 per year to feed each rat, he points out. Destruction by rats will amount to from one to ten billion dollars, and we are spending approximately $25 million for chemicals in an effort to destroy man's ever-present rodent menace.

Overcrowding in large urban areas—particularly in slum areas—has been responsible for a sharp rise in the rat population, an increase in rat bite reports and stepped-up campaigns by cities to keep rodents under control, says Dr. Heal.

In New York City, a $1 million per year program was launched last year. Similar but smaller programs have been initiated and improved in Detroit, Atlanta, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Chicago, Kansas City, Denver, Albuquerque and other cities.

Some municipalities are backing up eradication efforts with a widespread educational program and more stringent rat-proofing regulations. In Detroit, for instance, the Rodent Control Division is working with a large number of block clubs involved in a neighborhood conservation program. Conviction for an unsanitary yard or alley can result in a $500 fine or 90 days in jail.

Reports from the U. S. Communicable Disease Center indicate that rat infestations are spreading out in newly developed suburban areas which, a few years ago, were open country. Harborage for rats are provided by the fruit-bearing shrubbery and vines in these areas.

The possibility that rats may be developing resistance to the anticoagulant rodenticides including the number one ratkiller, warfarin, and this situation is being watched carefully by the pest control industry, Dr. Heal says. Warfarin resistance in Norway rats was first reported and confirmed on a farm in West Scotland in 1958. In late 1962 a population of Norway rats proved to be warfarin resistant in Jutland, Denmark.

There have been no reports of warfarin resistance in the United States, but Dr. Heal advises that pest control operators throughout the country have been alerted to be on the lookout for such signs and have been urged to maintain rodent control at the highest possible level.

Chemicals cannot do the job alone declared Dr. Heal. If the rat census is to be reduced, education and control programs must be intensified and maintained on a long-term basis. Otherwise, we may be in danger of losing the American rat race.

Notes from Your
Agricultural Agent

E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

WATER — THE ESSENTIAL RESOURCE

Water is rapidly gaining the important role it deserves in the planning of all facets of our society. Dr. Browning, director of the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station, recently commented that, "Nothing is more vital to a modern economy than water. We need it to sustain our lives, to grow our crops, to water our livestock, to move our heavy cargo, to dispose of our wastes, power our industries, for manufacturing processes, for air conditioning, for many recreational activities, and for a host of other uses. It can be our master—or used properly, it can be a powerful, efficient, and economical servant of man."

Virginia farmers are particularly fortunate to have such wonderful water resources available to them. While during drought periods we may question this, the record nevertheless shows that both amounts and distribution of our water supplies are very good. The question then arises, are we doing the best possible job in conserving and making beneficial use of these things which nature has been so generous in supplying? What more could we do to increase the infiltration of our rainfall into the soil where it falls so that it will remain available for later use by the growing crops?

The soil serves as the plant's reservoir of moisture. Moist plants contain from 65 to 90 percent moisture. Because of low water use efficiencies, great quantities of water pass through plants during their development and thereby provide the essential processes necessary for their growth. Generally, the grain crops require 300 to 600 pounds of water to produce one pound of dry matter, and some of the legumes may require up to 1000 pounds of water per pound of dry crop. The period when water supply is most critical is normally when the plant is making its most rapid growth or forming the grain or fruit.

So, if we let this vital rain fall away—even to the pond at the bottom of the field—it takes labor, equipment, and money to get it back in the soil where the crop can use it. Therefore, any practices which tend to increase the soil's ability to absorb and store rainfall for subsequent crop use instead of allowing it to run off with its accompanying soil loss, should receive the highest priority in conservation planning.

So far agriculture generally has had first call on our water supplies, but as pressures grow for increased industrial, recreational, and urban uses of water this situation is rapidly changing. We are faced with the necessity of devising greater efficiency in the use of water for agricultural purposes.

An amount equivalent to more than half of our annual precipitation is lost through evapotranspiration alone. When we add to this the losses through runoff and deep seepage, the result is often a damaging drought at the critical stage of crop growth.

To minimize this problem, producers must use the very best conservation practices research and experience have devised, including improved tillage methods and better use of crop residues.

Often two to three inches more available water will mean the difference between a good crop yield and a poor one during those seasons when rainfall amounts and distribution are poor. Research at Virginia Tech has shown repeatedly that some of the newer no-tillage crop production systems under development will conserve that much water. There seems little doubt that through continued research the remaining problems in these systems will be solved and other new and even more effective conservation practices devised. Even new plants which use water more efficiently may be found.

Fortunately, the very latest technical information on all of these conservation problems is available to each farmer through my office and local soil conservationist. In addition to your conservation problems, we will consider all factors in your operation to be sure that you are using your land properly, meeting your crop nutrient requirements, controlling your diseases and weeds, and that your planting and cultural practices are good and that all your operations are properly executed and timely.

All phases of agricultural technology are developing very rapidly and what is good today may be out of date tomorrow. This is very true in the field of water resource conservation and therefore it is very important to keep up-to-date and update practices are needed to meet the changing times.

C. FRANCIS LAY
Assistant Agent

"The only freedom which deserves the name is that of pursuing our own good, in our own way, so long as we do not attempt to deprive others of theirs, or impede their efforts to obtain it." J. S. Mill.

Hello folks! This is to be my last 4-H column for this Sun, as I have recently the position of County Agricultural Agent in Arlington County, Virginia. I will begin my new duties November 1, 1965. Therefore, I would like to take this opportunity to say how much I have enjoyed working with you, the youth of Virginia Beach through 4-H Club program. It has been my function to guide you in developing yourselves into useful, desirable, responsible citizens. Remember, though, it is you who have the major responsibility for your personal, spiritual, civic and social development. From my experiences, I know that the City of Virginia Beach will be proud to count you among its citizens.

C. F. Lay — One of the best ways you can develop as a citizen is to tell other youth the opportunities in the 4-H program and help them to join 4-H. The best way to do this, of course, is to maintain your own enthusiasm for 4-H. Let others know how much you enjoy being in 4-H. Tell them about your project work (the skills you are learning). Tell them about your 4-H trips, about camp, about how you have fun getting together for fun and fellowship with your friends in the 4-H meetings, in city-wide, district-wide, state-wide, and nation-wide events.

Without the aid of volunteer adult leaders, building a 4-H program would not be possible. The 4-H leaders in the City of Virginia Beach are to be commended for the outstanding job they have done. It is my earnest hope that the 4-H program in the City will continue to develop and that many more adults will volunteer to assist the Extension Staff in recruiting and training our young people to take their rightful place in this great nation.

If the 4-H Club members continue their active participation in the planning and conducting project work, club meetings, and city-wide events with the guidance of their adult leaders, the 4-H program in the City cannot help but be one of the best in the state. I expect to hear great things about the 4-Hers in Virginia Beach, as I assume my new duties in Arlington County. Good luck and God Speed in all of your endeavors.

VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1965 Three Sections—20 Pages

SINGLE COPY: 10c. BY MAIL $3.50 PER YEAR

The section being rebuilt at L. M. Sandler & Son, Inc., on Northampton Boulevard. The cost of the rebuilding program is estimated at $200,000.

FIRM REBUILDING AFTER FIRE

VIRGINIA BEACH — One of the resort city's largest businesses and its only food distribution and seafood packing company is in the middle of a massive rebuilding program.

L. M. Sandler & Son, Inc., at Diamond Springs on Northampton Boulevard is rebuilding a major portion of its plant that was destroyed or damaged by fire April 15.

Sandler said earlier this week that the rebuilding program will cost an estimated $200,000. But he said that the plant's facilities will be largely increased.

The plant was badly damaged by an oil-fed fire that was believed to have started in the kitchen or engine room refrigeration equipment.

Firemen from five departments battled the blaze several hours, hindered by high winds, exploding oil tanks and lack of water. A nearby hydrant had been disconnected from the Norfolk water supply several months prior to the blaze and water had to be brought in by tank-trucks or pumped from a lake in the area.

The owners of the plant, Harry and Sam Sandler, managed to remove about 2 million pounds of seafood to Norfolk for storage, and firemen saved enough of the operation for the firm to resume business the following day.

The new addition is being constructed without any wood or any other flammable materials. The new section is to be constructed entirely of concrete and steel, and cover an estimated 35,000 square feet of floor space. Approximately 30,000 square feet of this space will be for cold-storage.

as quickly and as efficiently as before the fire.

The plant will have a covered loading ramp for the convenience of loading the huge trucks. No longer will bad weather hamper loading operations.

The firm will also offer retail and wholesale purchasing.

Harry Sandler said the firm expects to resume operations at its Diamond Springs location sometime between January 1 and February 1, 1966.

Land Rezoned By Council

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council approved the request of an application for rezoning that has had quite a controversial history.

The application requested a tract of land off Washington Avenue extended be rezoned for a trailer court.

Wilson Chaplin, Virginia Beach motel and trailer park operator, who failed to get the same property rezoned for the same use several years ago, protested the move.

The application for the zoning change was made by R. J. Inc. The company was formed by City Treasurer V. A. Etheridge and High Constable R. R. McChesney.

The City Planning Commission recommended that council approve the application on the condition city sewerage was available for the area. A letter from Director of Public Utilities, Lewis Smith, saying the service would be available by June 1, 1966, was produced by Attorney William Colona.

The new, modern and up-to-date plant will feature kitchen ready foods and a quick freezing facility. And, the firm will continue to offer the same services it offered before the fire.

This rebuilding will make most of the operation new. A large cold-storage room, large enough to house a basketball court was finished only ten days before the fire, and saw no or little use.

One of the largest problems that has faced the firm since the fire was the complexity of filling customers' orders. The firm had to store its salvaged goods where it could and that created the problem of having to travel many miles to fill an order. By sheer determination on the Sandler brothers part, the company has remained in business since April. Just managing to remain in operation is one feat that seemed impossible to achieve. Still, the firm continued to fill its customers needs almost

Building Boom Continues

VIRGINIA BEACH—The world's largest resort city continues to lead every city in Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina in building growth.

The city was way ahead any other city in the four state area in September, and October was no exception to the rule.

During the month of October, the city issued 325 permits for work valued at $3,426,033.

The total permits issued through the end of October numbered 3,662 for work valued at $50,139,534, and with two months left to go in the year, city officials speculate this year's building will easily pass the $60 million mark.

If the $60 million mark is reached, Virginia Beach would be the leader in the four-state area.

Last year at this same time the number of building permits issued was 2,978 for a monetary value of $51,180,979.

This first week in November saw at least 19 building permits issued with a value of more than $325,000.

City fathers predict that if Virginia Beach continues at this rapid rate of growth, it could easily be the fastest growing city on the east coast within a few short years.

STATE PARKS IN VA. BEACH PROPOSED BY STATE GROUP

RECOMMEND — Eleven major proposals were recommended recently for the Hampton Roads region in the report of the Virginia Outdoor Recreation Study Commission submitted to Governor Harrison and members of the General Assembly. The Commission report said that, "As in other metropolitan areas, the acquisition and development of public outdoor recreation facilities has been severely inadequate. This is particularly serious in this region because of the great appeal of the beaches and the other waterfront areas, which draw not only from the immediate metropolitan area, but from across the state, and indeed from the eastern seaboard."

"There is urgent need for additional State Parks. Some of the individual localities have done well and on local projects, but both the scale of the resources and the demand require strong regional planning and regional action."

"The individual cities of this region have good recreation plans and facilities. All would benefit from more active participation in regional planning and development of interrelated resources."

V.B. Toll Road Is Started

VIRGINIA BEACH—Six cemeteries which the Norfolk-Virginia Beach Toll Road will wipe out or cut through are involved in court orders sought by the State Highway Department for removal and re-interment of graves. Five are in Virginia Beach and one in Norfolk.

Clearing work has started on all three sections of the road, and the last firm of Kellam & Bellamy, which has been acquiring the highway's right-of-way for the state, recently filed five chancery suits in Virginia Beach Circuit Court to solve the graveyard problem. The court hearing will be held Nov. 30 on the request for orders to remove and re-inter the remains of 40 to 50 persons.

The Virginia Beach cemeteries are those at London Bridge Baptist Church, the private ones of the Shepherd family near that church, Fuller family near South Wild Duck Road, the Morgan family near Seateck Elementary School, and the Moore family near Parks Avenue.

$116 TAKEN BY BANDIT

VIRGINIA BEACH — A lone bandit, dressed in an orange parka and wearing a handkerchief over his face took approximately $116 in cash from a motel in the 500 block of Military Highway early Sunday morning.

Investigating officers said the suspect walked into the office of the Holiday Inn about 4:30 a.m. and demanded money.

Police said the night clerk, E. M. Henderson, described the hold-up man as slender and about 20 years old. Henderson said the man had what appeared to be a gun in his hand.

After he had emptied the cash drawer, the bandit forced the clerk to walk to a nearby field. Henderson was then released and told to return to the motel, but he was warned not to look back, police said.

Police are unable to determine the bandit's method of getaway.

Webbon Gets New Post

VIRGINIA BEACH—City Council Monday created a new post in this city's government.

Richard J. Webbon, Director of Public Works, was named coordinator of urban affairs. Virginia Beach is the second Tidewater city to create such a post. Norfolk was the first.

Webbon will act as Virginia Beach's liaison in Washington with officials of the Federal Government. When he assumes his new post Monday, one of his first duties will be to work with the government to finance the purchase of a 144-acre tract of land south of Sandbridge.

Webbon said he will assist in any way to "find money available for water, sewage, parks and other public improvements."

Webbon will draw an annual salary of $12,000, the same he was drawing as public works director. He will be under the authority of City Manager Russell Hatchett who put Webbon's name before City Council.

Webbon first came to the area in 1955 when he was hired as executive secretary of Princess Anne County. When the county and the city merged in 1963, he was appointed director of public works.

City Council named Charles Killey, City Engineer, to fill in the position vacated by Webbon. No one was named to fill Killey's old job.

Council Okays Gas Stations

VIRGINIA BEACH—Six gas stations won the unanimous approval of City Council Monday. Five are for Lynnhaven Borough and one in Kempsville Borough.

The application of Peachtree Corp. to erect three billboards on Northampton Boulevard was approved, but North Bay Development Corp. application to erect two billboards on Sandbridge Road were denied.

Approval was given on applications of Sound Shore Assets, Ltd., to construct a 64-unit motel at the intersection of Atlantic and General Booth Boulevard; and of Omega, Ltd., to build a 30-unit motel at Pacific Avenue and 19th Street.

Construction of Pembroke Shopping Center has passed the half-way mark. 16 stores are scheduled for opening March 1.

16 STORES TO OPEN BY MARCH FIRST

VIRGINIA BEACH — Shoppers in Virginia Beach will have 16 new stores in which to do their Easter shopping this year. The stores, including Miller & Rhodes, are scheduled to open March 1, at Pembroke Shopping Center on Virginia Beach Boulevard and Independence Boulevard.

Tom Matthews, of Matthews Advertising Agency, Inc., of Norfolk, who is handling the public relations end of the new center said approximately 85 per cent of the rentable space at the center has already been leased.

The center will feature 65 different stores for the shopping public, but will feature no "discount houses."

Matthews said there has been some minor difficulty in getting stores for the center. To clarify this he said, "The problem has not been getting stores, but getting the proper balance of stores."

The lighting fixtures for the enclosed mall of the center are being designed and constructed by a California firm, Matthews said.

He said the shopping center is being constructed in such a way that it will seem that the front entrance is situated on Independence and Virginia Beach Boulevards alike. Its design will be one-of-a-kind in the Tidewater area.

Matthews said with the enclosed mall, the center will seem more like one huge department store, rather than a shopping center, and the entire center will feature controlled heating and cooling the year round.

Parking for more than 4,000 automobiles will be provided for the large complex.

As it now stands, all outside construction with the exception of the Woolworth will finish the interior of the facility during the winter months. Matthews said work on the Sears store was delayed due to the strike at Globe Iron Co., which is supplying the iron for the framework of the building.

Matthews said the shopping center will be open in its entirety by the end of the summer.

The Pembroke Square Shopping Center will also feature two optometrist offices and an orthodontist's office besides the many different stores.

Stores that have already leased space from Pembroke Square Associates are: S & W Cafeteria, Hoffmeyer's Shoes, Alexander Beagle Men's Store, Pembroke Florists, Dora's Women's Store, Camereland, Seaboard Bank, Dr. Batterman — orthodontist, Thom McCam, Fine's Men's Shop, Spencer Gifts, Kinney's Shoes, F. W. Woodworth, Clayton's Men's Store, Zales Jewelers, Lerner Shops, Butler Shoes, National Shirt Shop, Beneficial Finance, Mr. John's Hair Styling, Norfolk Federal Savings and Loan, Drs. Cohen and Jacon-Optometrists, My Materiality Shop, Spenter's Jewelers, Peoples Drug Store, Food Fair, Albans Cleaners, Sportswear, Pembroke Barber Shop, Paul's Shoe Repair, and A. B. C. Mill, Miller & Rhodes and Sears.

Several banks are expected to construct branches near the center. First and Merchants, First National Bank of Norfolk, and the Southern Bank of Norfolk are expected to locate in the area around the center.

The greatest impression that area shoppers will have is that the entire complex will be under one roof. No longer will shoppers have to hike miles between stores to face inclement weather when they wish to do their buying. And the center will be centrally located for all areas of the beach.

Pembroke will not just be an area shopping center like most of them are. With all its facilities will serve the entire city of Virginia Beach and parts of Norfolk and Chesapeake. With two major arteries such as Virginia Beach Boulevard and Independence Boulevard, it is predicted that Pembroke Square will take much the lead off the smaller centers throughout the city.

When the first 16 stores open March a new era of shopping will come to Virginia Beach and the Tidewater area.

As construction began last week, Virginia Beach city officials and construction company officials looked over the plans for Independence Boulevard. L. to R. are: David Chasler, highway agent for the city of Virginia Beach; Roger Scott, assistant to the City Manager of Virginia Beach; Dick Ivey, job superintendent for the builders of the road, Birch Construction; W. B. Rivier, President of Birch Construction Company; and Charles Killey, Virginia Beach City Engineer.

Who Will Be Chosen?

These smiling young ladies are the five candidates for Homecoming Queen at Kellam High School. The queen will be crowned Friday night, during half-time activities at the Kellam-Virginia Beach game, by Principal Jefferson Davis. This is the first year Kellam High has had a homecoming. The contestants are, left to right: Denise Morris, Rexy Faust, Yvonne Brown, Linda Lewis and Sue Osborne.

The school is located on Ferry Plantation Road.

His was the fifth arrest made in connection with bomb scares in Virginia Beach this school year.

Ealy said the youth will be given a hearing Nov. 16 before Juvenile Court Judge Robert Crotwell.

The other youth, 16-year-old Freddie Styron, of the 800 block of Brooks Road remains in critical condition.

According to police, Christon was the driver of the car which smashed into a fuel truck Oct. 27 at the intersection of Great Neck Road and Lynnhaven Drive. Two passengers in the automobile, Kenneth Brown and Paul Richard McBrook, both 16, died shortly after the accident occurred.

Christon and Styron received severe internal and head injuries in the accident.

The Cape Colony Club is now open under new management. The new managers who were with the Officer's club at Fort Story are H. G. Williams and L. R. Bateman.

I had a long talk with Mr. Bateman as to the plans for the club. The membership fees will be $20 for Virginia Beach residents, $15.00 for non-resident and active military $10.00.

There will be breakfast, lunch and dinner served every day. The Bar room will be open every day at noon.

Happy hour will be every Wednesday and Friday night from 7 to 9 p.m. My suggestion would be to attend the Happy hour on Wednesday night and later attend the Foreign dinner. Friday nights will be Seafood Buffet—all you can eat for $2.00.

I feel those who cannot afford the more expensive clubs will be very happy with this club. The activities planned sound exciting and fun.

Those seen last Saturday night were: Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Gravelly, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Briggs, Billie Hagins and Miss Judy Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Skeet Bengley, Mr. and Mrs. Sharon Whitfield, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clark and Ted Carr who is the President of the board.

Blair Ellis, Peyton Cleveland, Mrs. Sherry Martin and Betty Winsett.

The combo band known as the Chessmen were really fabulous and the crowd seemed to be delighted with the music they played.

The most noticeable thing to me was the crowd was mixing well together. I believe really this club is going to make a tremendous stride on memberships. Take a tip from me and get with it and have fun. I forgot to tell you, the club's food motto is "World's Finest Clam Chowder."

Try to be with me next week. Until then may everything that is good be with you all.

Here's to the Men-In-Our-Lives! You know, one of the truisms of fashion is, if it is good it will come back. Now that the man in your life has put antifreeze in his car, put up the storm windows and has ordered the winter fuel, it's about time for him to start winterizing his wardrobe. According to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, this winter's fashion assortment is the greatest ever—in style, color, in good taste and good looks. Yet, as we said before, some of the best today had its origin some fifty years ago. For example, fifty years ago the late, stylish Jimmy Walker, the then mayor of New York, introduced an ankle length overcoat with fur collar and fur lined. The current updated version of outerwear is a leather button storm coat warmed up with a green thick pile lining, which extends to an attached hood, and with giant flap patch pockets. Incidentally, a suede outer coat is really "in" this winter and even "inner" is a suede coat that is double-breasted and with a fur collar! The shaped suit this season stands at the head of the class as the fashion right appearance. It has just a touch of definition in the waist—a move away from the straight loose hanging coat. A paisley tie and striped shirt go together nicely with the shaped suit.

HERE AT HOME:

There is a definitely distinct American Look all over the country in all manner of apparel and accessories. From formal wear to sports jackets, from sweaters to handkerchiefs, never has there been so much to choose from. So many new fibers and fabrics to make man's fashion life color fast, wrinkle-less, wash and wear and long wearing. So, ladies, now is the time to remind your son and husband that it is time to winterize and right at home in the Virginia Beach area. After your Allsbee's quick check-up on the men's shops here, her hat is off to the following: Alexander-Beele, Cherry Pearson, The Clothing Chest, Goodyear Sportswear, Harrison-Payne, Napoleon's Webster's and The Hub in Princess Anne Plaza.

MEN'S FASHION FLASH

Big, big fashion hit of the year, the Fall and Winter wear is the heavy, rex coat, C.P.O. shirt and double-breasted guard's coat!

If you're wondering, should a shirt cuff show beyond a man's jacket sleeve the answer is definitely—about a half inch, at least! Looking for a raincoat? Men, the big news is the classic trenchcoat, definitely "in" . . . How about those new feather finish felt hats with the soft feel of feather down? When you look for a sports jacket, you want individuality; something in color or pattern that looks as though it took a bit of searching to find yet is unquestioned good taste. How about those rich heather tones in the imported Irish tweed sport jackets, gold, blues, olive and russet browns in medium and wide herringbones, crowfoot patterns and heather mixes in hopsack weave? . . . The weekend man likes the sports coat of his choice tailored in the natural shouldered jacket style!

Lord Snowdon's neat hair cut, his flashing smile and sartorially perfect tailoring is certainly a treat to ladies' eyes as a pleasant English visitor to these shores. What a relief to behold his hair style and the gentlemanly air about him in comparison to the shaggy-dog hair-do's we've become so accustomed to identify from English shores! . . . Now that famous dance artist Nureyev has middle-aged his long hair—as seen when he TV-danced lately—perhaps the Long Hairs will now part same! . . . Senator Edward M. Kennedy, in his neatly shaped sophisticated navy suit and striped tie and his All-American hair cut is another Young Set American from whom we hope our school fellows will copy The Look! . . . Nothing could have been more unattractive than to see Prince Phillip gotten up in a surgeon's cap and gown, in last Sunday's Tribune when he inspected a hospital in East Grinstead, England. You couldn't miss his fixed air or feigned interest and glacial, trained calm! (I'll bet our Lord Snowdon concerns Phillip now and then!) . . . And, let's not forget these fellows when it comes to best dressers: Mayor-elect John V. Lindsay of New York, Governor-elect Mills Godwin of our own state, Governor Albertus Harrison Jr. of Virginia with his handsome silky-white hair, designers Oleg Cassini and Bill Blass of Manhattan.

HOW HIS FASHIONS BEGAN

Men's jacket sleeves have buttons on them because Napoleon started it when he had sleeve but

The well-dressed man, according to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, builds his wardrobe on a foundation of three suits . . . a gray flannel, a navy solid or striped and a traditionally patterned model. Here is a navy chalk striped worsted suit with new body shaping. The slightly fuller lapels and chest expression accentuate the look. It is worn with a blue straight-collared broadcloth shirt, navy white-dotted silk tie, a paisley silk pocket square and a neat delta-prim felt hat.

The basis of a formalwear wardrobe is the Traditional shawl-collared black dinner suit. An added note of newness to the otherwise Traditional concept of this suit is the use of a silk fabric. It is worn with pinstriped formal shirt, onyx studs and links, black bow and matching cummerbund. The casually pointed white linen handkerchief is still preferred by Traditional dressers.

A Tribute To Veterans

They used to call it Armistice Day, the day that commemorated the day the armistice was signed which ended World War I. But after the Second World War and the Korean conflict and the many small brush wars, the name was officially changed to Veterans Day. Although it is marked on most calendars in red, the real significance or importance of November 11 seems to be forgotten.

To us, it should be a day of reverence, a day of respect and a day of reflection. In 1918, November 11 marked the end to a conflict such as the world had ever known. It was called "History's Greatest War." And so it was, that is, until World War II came along. It was the first major conflict in which many countries of the world had been involved against a common enemy. It also was the first major war in which United States troops fought battles in strange-sounding places so far from home. It also was the war in which more American fighting men were killed or wounded than ever before. It was a dirty war, one in which poison gases and new awesome weapons were used. It was the first war in which the airplane was employed. It was an important war to the United States. The end came only after the United States entered the conflict and showed its strength. It marked the rise of the United States, a fledgling country, to being a world power... a power to be respected and feared, as well as admired. The armistice did not come easy, and when it came on November 11, that day was set aside as a holiday.

But time erased most of the scars of that war, and new incidents began to obscure memory somewhat. Suddenly, in 1941, the United States was plunged into a war that far overshadowed what had been called "History's Greatest War." Nearly four years later it was over, but not before human suffering and misery had reached overwhelming heights. Those who came home deserved their day of reverence, and November 11 was chosen as Veterans Day, the day that all veterans of both wars could call their own. Five short years later, the United States, under the auspices of the United Nations, was in the grips of still another war. Again men died for their beloved country, but kept it on top as a world leader. Since that time, our fighting men have died in many other places, and recently the casualties in Viet Nam have been high. But our American fighting men go where they are needed in the world to keep the uneasy peace. They are there because they must be, if the United States is to remain the leader in the world, and to allow all of us to enjoy the freedoms we have and love.

There are millions of veterans of all of these wars, conflicts, and cold-war brush fire wars. Many have never seen combat. Many have. They all deserve our respect and our thanks on Veterans Day. In isolated places, wreaths will be placed on graves on November 11, and a short ceremony will be held in a few more isolated places. The flag of our country will fly in a few more places on that day. And school children will be reminded by their teachers about November 11 and what it signifies.

But, to our way of thinking this is not enough. Veterans Day should be a holiday that rivals no other. On that day we believe that Americans everywhere should bow their heads and pray for those who did not come home, and pray that another worldwide war never comes. The day should belong solely to the American fighting men who have been, are now, and will continue to be making every effort at world peace.

On this Veterans Day, thoughts of burning draft cards and demonstrating against governmental policy should end. Those dissenters should take a long look at our country of today, and reflect upon what it would be had not our fighting men gone to war when it was necessary.

We salute the American fighting man and all veterans on this day.

A School By Any Other Name

We thought it was all settled. We thought the new school was to be called Oceana High School, and that was the end of that. Apparently we thought wrong. It seems that a certain amount of controversy is still going on, and that the name is definitely not acceptable to everyone. We are among those not completely satisfied with the name, Oceana High School. But we are also among those who would not be satisfied with the name, Virginia Beach High School. And Owen High School did not really strike our fancy entirely either.

Basically we do not particularly care for Oceana High School, because we thought Oceana was rather far removed from the area in which the new school is being built. Our main reason for our tepid opposition to Virginia Beach High School boils down to a feeling that one school should not be singled out as THE Virginia Beach High School, when there are so many others in the city already. The alumni do not want to lose the name and we sympathize with them but our original thinking still holds. We would not be altogether happy with Owen High School, mostly because we do not like to see schools named after individuals, even though precedent has already been set at Virginia Beach. We cast no aspersions on Cox and Kellam High Schools, but we were delighted when it was decided that no more high schools would be named for individuals.

So this puts us all right back where we started... wondering what to name the new school. If our readers will remember, we suggested it be named First Colonial High School, as a compromise. After all, the facility will be on First Colonial Road. We still like that name, although we recognize the problem of the cheerleaders in trying to spell it out in the various cheers.

Other possible names have been bandied around quite a bit too. They include Lynnhaven High School and Alantown High School. Certainly other groups and individuals have their suggestions also.

All we really suggest now is that the new school be named once and for all. We feel certain that regardless of the unnecessary controversy, once the school is named, it will be all over. In a year or two, the controversy will be forgotten and the students and others will be loyal to their high school, no matter what the name. All of this seems somewhat unreal to us, and quite frankly, we think too much has been made over the naming of a new school. The way Virginia Beach is growing, additional high schools will be needed soon, and we hope we do not have to go through all of this again.

Somehow or other, we begin to believe our ancestors had the right idea. They built a new school and called it P. S. 41, or 42, or 96. Perhaps the names were not so glamorous, but they did serve the purpose. One could tell one school from another without a scorecard.

COMRADES IN ARMS

State Help for Relaxation

The Virginia Outdoor Recreation Study Commission, created by the 1964 session of the Virginia General Assembly has turned in its report. Although we have not fully examined the one hundred page report, we feel that the Commission has done a thorough job, a comprehensive job, and a good job, while coming up with extremely workable and reasonable suggestions. Probably one of the most interesting recommendations is one that would create a new State department, to be known as the Commission of Outdoor Recreation.

It seems to us that this is an excellent idea, and one that would centralize authority over recreation areas in the entire state. At present, we believe there may be too many different organizations with this same purpose, but they are not working together well enough. We would like to see a strong director of this agency, if it comes about. To our way of thinking, he should cooperate fully with other agencies, but his commission should be an entity unto itself. The report urges that the heads of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development, the Division of Industrial Planning, Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, and even the State Highway Department should be members of the new Commission. We agree, but only in an advisory capacity, a capacity that would make the new Commission the strongest link.

After all the words that have been said, both pro and con, on the subject, we are more than pleased to see the beginning of construction of two major arteries in Virginia Beach. Independence Boulevard, or at least the first link of it has finally been started, and construction has begun on the much needed and much discussed Virginia Beach to Norfolk Toll Road. That facility, scheduled to be completed in the latter part of 1967, is probably the one most needed road in the state.

Ten years ago, traffic was already building up on Virginia Beach Boulevard at such a rate that it was evident something had to be done. Now, it begins, and when it is finished will provide not only an expressway connecting two major cities but also a new local east-west road for those who wish to use the limited access road. The end of 1967 is not too far away. At least it won't be as long now as it has been. We promise to be one of the first at the ribbon-cutting ceremonies.

Independence Boulevard will eventually provide the first real north-south link through the large city of Virginia Beach, but furthermore it will provide the only major road between the Shore Drive and Virginia Beach Boulevard

Obviously we at Virginia Beach are extremely interested in the report, since the tourist industry is so important to us. We consider Virginia Beach to be perhaps the most important area in the state for the new Commission to tackle.

The report recommends establishment of a substantial ocean beach front south of Sandbridge, and recommends that all efforts be pushed to add Fort Story to State Seashore Park, should the Army post ever be declared surplus. This is all fine and dandy, but the City of Virginia Beach has already had the foresight to attempt to establish a beachhead south of Sandbridge, and attempts to acquire Fort Story have all failed and will probably continue to fail for many years to come.

In any event, we consider the Commission report a step in the right direction, and hope that a new agency can come into being to handle outdoor recreational facilities.

Governor-elect Godwin has already specifically promised a comprehensive program to provide expansion of our natural resources and new facilities to attract tourists to Virginia's outdoors.

We hope that much can be accomplished. We want to see new or expanded outdoor recreational areas of Virginia Beach, and we want to see them soon. We heartily endorse and support the efforts being made by the State and the City of Virginia Beach.

Hooray At Last!

equipped to handle a heavy volume of traffic. We have often been distressed that there was no direct route between Shore Drive and Virginia Beach Boulevard from Military Highway in Norfolk to Great Neck Road.

Add to this the soon to be started work on General Booth Boulevard, and we can look with pride to a new system of highways in Virginia Beach, a system that will not only make it easier to get from one point to another, but one that will tie the entire city of Virginia Beach together.

In another development, the State Highway Department is finally advertising for bids for construction of the final four-lane link of the Shore Drive, the new two lane bridge across Lynnhaven Inlet. We still do not know when construction there will actually begin, but we hope it is soon.

When all of these projects are completed, we can envision a network of roads in our city that will be the rival of none. All of these roads have been a long time in coming, but it is at last comforting to know that the first spade of dirt to be turned has either been done or is about to happen in the near future.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

Preventing Nuclear Spread

By Senator CLAIRBORNE PELLI (D-R.I.)
Senator Pelli is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee

There has been much talk for many years about the need to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons among more and more countries.

Last August the United States presented a draft treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons to the Geneva Conference of the Eighteen-Nation Committee on Disarmament. The United States treaty draft is the most significant step taken toward halting nuclear proliferation since the 1961 United Nations General Assembly Resolution which first called for conclusion of an international agreement on the subject. It has now been fortified by the eloquent appeal of Pope Paul to reduce offensive armaments.

NO AGREEMENT REACHED
In the ensuing weeks, discussion of the U.S. treaty draft did not lead to agreement since the Soviet Union and its allies continued to maintain the position that no non-proliferation treaty should permit the creation of a NATO multilateral force or Atlantic nuclear force. The U.S. draft treaty does, of course, permit such forces since their creation would in no way increase the number of states and other organizations having the power to unleash nuclear weapons.

HOPE FOR FUTURE
The 1965 disarmament talks in Geneva have taken place against a background of increased international tension. However, as the session progressed towards its September 16 recess date the Soviets themselves underlined the importance of reaching agreement on non-proliferation. The Communist nations represented at the Conference also endorsed a report of the Conference to the United Nations General Assembly which states in part "... the members of the Committee believe that the extensive discussions on major problems ... were particularly valuable in clarifying the respective points of view ..." and that "these discussions and exchanges of views may facilitate agreement in the further work of the Committee."

The Conference of the Eighteen-Nation Committee on Disarmament agreed to resume its meetings in Geneva "... as soon as possible after the termination of the consideration of disarmament at the Twentieth Session of the General Assembly ..." The United States has its draft treaty on the table. We will continue to pursue our policy of the past twenty years — policy described by President Johnson as "... our conviction that the peace of the world requires firm limits upon the spread of nuclear weapons." As one of the sponsors of the Act which created the Disarmament Agency in 1961, I thoroughly concur.

Your Faith and You

ROBERT H. GARNER

Minister, Tabernacle Methodist Church

The psychiatrist's bench seems always filled these days, as more and more people are taking their troubles there. Commercial advertising on television devotes the bulk of its time extolling the virtues of pain and headache and tension relievers. Apparently, one of the critical needs of our day and time is peace—personal peace.

Such a need seems impossible to fulfill in a day like this: the world's topsy-turvy with turmoil and war, life moves at such a fast pace that there isn't time to enjoy the simple pleasures, and each of us is pulled in a thousand different directions—all the way from Little League to club activities. Perhaps no other generation has lived under the same kind of day to day strain as the present generation. Our great need, in truth, is personal peace.

Jesus and his disciples gathered in that Upper Room for their last meal together, and after a long period of instruction, he said to them: "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you." Then, almost as an afterthought, he added the words: "... not as the world gives do I give it to you."

The peace of Christ is different from the peace of the world—in two basic ways. For one thing, peace as the world knows it is short term peace. That is primarily because the world has a way of defining peace as absence from trouble. Too often we think we can have peace if we avoid trouble, walk around it, dodge it, suppress it. For example, we have ignored issues vital to various nations which might have caused trouble at the time. But because such issues were suppressed or the sake of peace at the moment, they later erupted in war. That's precisely why the war we fought in 1918 "to end wars" failed to accomplish that end. The same thing is true of personal life: if we try to have peace by putting off trouble, that peace will be short-lived. But Christ always faced trouble squarely and worked through it. Not around it. He always came to grips with problems vital to life. Only after we have worked our way through our problems can we ever expect to have a peace that is lasting.

Secondly, the peace of the world usually tends to be shallow. I once knew of a church that was always anxious to put its best foot forward, to show its best face to the community. It was suffering from serious internal problems. Among the individual members of the congregation there was considerable bitterness, rivalry and dissension. That church never came to grips with these problems, always smoothing them over for the sake of a calm exterior. It is true that there was calm on the surface, but down deep, where it really mattered, the church was a seething, boiling shambles of what it should have been. The peace it knew was shallow. The same is true of husband and wife who go through "troubled times" trying to smooth over problems and never really working them out. Such shallow peace will result in years of unwholeness and perhaps even divorce. But the peace of Christ is a deep and abiding peace which "passes understanding." It goes beyond the intellect to the deepest levels of the soul.

One thing more ought to be noted about this: the peace that Christ offers must be earned. It challenges us to deal with our problems daily, to work through them, and sometimes to get help to do it. It requires hard work day after day—but it's worth it!

VIRGINIA BEACH — Finding time to be a new community center rather easily for Jane Fleming, selected to play the female lead in the upcoming Virginia Beach Little Theatre presentation of "Silent Night, Lonely Night." When she heard about the casting try-outs, she read for the group, and came home with the lead!

Married to Robert W. Fleming, a retired army officer who is now treasurer of R. W. Hudgins & Sons, the former Bostonians have settled in Virginia Beach in Bay Colony, after a recent 3 year tour of duty in the Canal Zone.

Acting in shows in the Canal Zone was a lot of fun, according to Mrs. Fleming, and a good way to become acquainted with persons of similar interests.

And when they came to Virginia Beach, the Little Theatre was one of her first ventures in finding new friends within their chosen hometown. And they found an old friend in the person of Lis Sills who will direct the L.T. play. Many years ago, Jane's mother-in-law, Emma Fleming, did several plays with Mrs. Sills in Norfolk Little Theatre.

Jane became an expert in making her own clothes and hats, but she is now enjoying the convenience and fun of buying ready-made things in the fashion stores. It was a necessity to make her own in the Canal Zone but with so many lovely things available here, she has taken a vacation from her needle and thread.

Along with her interest in Little Theatre, Jane and her husband are finding the availability of water-sports to their advantage and are very interested in boats and boating.

She will play "Katherine" in "Silent Night, Lonely Night" who is designated as a trusting person with a certain child-like innocence. Jane, with her fair countenance and wide appealing eyes, looks like perfect casting.

"Silent Night, Lonely Night," a gentle drama, will be presented December 3, 4, 5, and 10 and 11 at the Courtyard Playhouse on 17th Street, between Atlantic and Pacific Avenues.

SUCCESS MARKS ANTIQUE SHOW

VIRGINIA BEACH — The 7th with something special.

annual Antiques Show presented by the Princess Anne Woman's Club for four days last week at the Civic Center has been declared the "best one yet" by the general chairman of the show, Mrs. J. James Davis. Proceeds realized add up to a good profit margin, and the dealers who participated were so well pleased that many have reserved space for next year's show.

The more than fifty dealers displayed a variety of treasures in the main room and overflowing into the rear offices. Displays and booths were manned by many 'old faithfuls' and a few newcomers and all were enthusiastically inspected by the record crowds which came to look and stayed to browse and usually went home

Antiques, flavorful food, costume hostesses, and the general air of attending an important function all added up to a very successful show for the Princess Anne Woman's Club and for the Atlantic Mental Hygiene Clinic which will benefit.

Many prizes were awarded during the four day show. Top prize of the Checkerboard Flag Honda was won by Mrs. Nan Lee Blankenship, of Virginia Beach; Mrs. E. L. Toher of Virginia Beach will enjoy a weekend stay at the Wanderer Motel at Jekyll Island in Georgia; Mrs. D. P. Stephens of Norfolk will have her weekend at the Blockade Runner Motor Hotel in Wrightsville Beach, Wilmington, N.C.; and Mrs. Jean Stuffer of Virginia Beach received the cheese box table from Hilltop Upholstery.

VA. BEACH TEENAGERS HAVE FUN 'UPSTAIRS'

By ROGER PROVO

VIRGINIA BEACH — Along 17th Street, between Atlantic and Pacific Avenues, the air is filled with the sounds of crackling billiard balls, stretching muscles working at exercises and juicy steaks sizzling over an open fire.

Amongst all of this color, a small door with an overhead black and white sign beams, "The Upstairs, A Coffee House With No Alcohol." This honky-tonk strip has been invaded by a teen-age folk music club.

Once a private sporting club, The Upstairs is reached through a small dark door and up two tight flights of steps. Along the entrance hallway there is little light and old record jacket covers dot the wall.

Inside the club, which is operated by Herb Selby, 44, of Virginia Beach, a Christmas red colored brick back drop, and musically noted decorated heater are the first sights to hit a visitor's eye.

Small kitchen tables and chairs dot the room, and candles offer light. Taxi cab ash trays, with their smothered leaves, also decorate the night club goer's table.

Along one wall of the club, an old bar with bar room beer glasses, round bar, room mirrors and honky-tonk blue, red and orange lights offer the clubbers food and beverage. Cokes and coffee, that is the strongest drink next to the neat beer, and an egg salad sandwich for four-bits, can be had by the folk fan.

Dance floor lights that never light hang helplessly from the store like ceiling. Red and black print drapes cover the windows and an old pool room light, set over from the adult club, still hangs in the rear of the room.

Across the room, facing the bar and its stools, a wood stained wall is splattered with an orange and black poster from The Shadow, an adult club, a May's Tea House menu and a poster for the Flatters, a teen rock 'n' roll singing group. The Upstairs got its start over the summer. John Whitaker operated a club in the basement of the Waverly Hotel. The New York promoter was there for two weeks and he had to move.

Whitaker asked Selby, whom he has known since 1960, to help him open on 17th Street. They did and "Uncle Herb," that's what his young patrons call him, took over the management in order that his partner could return to N. Y. to oversee club operations there.

The club's music is folk, country western, and more folk. The entertainers are Bob Zentz, Ken White and other Tidewater singers. Washington talent, John Bassett, who records for Columbia Records, Inc., visits once in a while.

The patrons are young, older and even younger. They come from high schools, local colleges and naval facilities. And they seem to lose their identity in the club... not being in or out. Last weekend a party from Suffolk went upstairs.

There is a dollar cover charge. The club now seats 30 people and according to its manager, 65-70 people are the typical crowd.

Probably the most unusual feature of the spot is that it stays open until three, four or five in the morning. For the younger patrons, Uncle Herb usually checks with them on what time they have to be home and they go when their parents expect them.

Herb has cleared his operation with the local youth authorities and they are happy that teens have a non-alcohol club.

To those who say that folk music is a fad, Herb invites them to visit the club which, besides, to prove that folk music at the beach has taken a permanent home.

THE SPEED SHOP

By JACK MOORE

With the NASCAR season over it might seem the world of auto racing is coming to a standstill. The season may be over but there remains a full winter of dragracing at the Virginia Beach Dragway at Creeds on Route 615.

Last week approximately 120 cars were in the competition at the strip. The dragway offers the tops in family entertainment. It also offers the top cash prizes and trophies in the Southeastern section of the state.

This weekend is no exception in the fine competition and entertainment offered each Saturday night. Jack DeLong, the track promoter said Tuesday that this Saturday night the strip will present its annual Veterans' Day race. DeLong said all servicemen will be admitted free at the spectator's side of the track, when they show their identification cards.

DeLong said he expects a full house of super-stockers, stockers, gassters, modifieds, and motorcycles.

Many of the popular competitors will be on hand for the occasion. Among the list will be Ricky Holliday in his "B" stock GT0, Buddy Whitt in his Olds "442," and the grand old man of the strip, Pop Whitt in his hard-head, super-stock Plymouth "Sly Fox."

One of the newer cars at the track, a Lotus Cortina, driven by Ray Houser of Norfolk, will be on hand to amaze the fans. Last week this little monster made its debut at the Virginia Beach Dragway and wowed the fans there with speeds of better than 100 m.p.h.

This little four-cylinder car placed second in its class this year at the race at Sebring, Florida. This fantastic automobile tucks up to 6000 r.p.m., something unusual for a little 65 horsepower engine with only four cylinders.

Tom "Smoker" Smith said Monday that he plans to come down from Washington and bring his fuel-injected, superstock Dodge, "Smoker Part Two." Tom's car placed first in the Daytona Winternationals Drags earlier this year and really moves out.

ADOPT THE NEPTUNES

NORFOLK — That fever known to exist only in Tidewater has struck again.

It's Neptunism, and this time the bug has struck the campus at Old Dominion College.

In a move probably without precedent in the United States, the student body at ODC has officially adopted the Norfolk Neptunes as the football team of Old Dominion College.

From here on out the Neps will "do or die for dear old ODC," as well as their ardent supporters throughout Tidewater when they battle their Continental Football League rivals.

General Manager Jim Dunn, on behalf of the Neptunes, accepted the following proclamation from the students at ODC this week:

"The Legislative Council of the student government of Old Dominion College, in order to foster school spirit and to aid in the growth and development of the Norfolk Neptunes football team, does hereby adopt the Norfolk Neptunes as the football team of Old Dominion College.

"They shall be known to us as the Norfolk-ODC Neptunes, the Monarchs of the Sea.

Under consideration for some time, the action was taken at the regular meeting held at the home of Mrs. James Beasley, Sr.

Officers who will serve the new independent unit are Mrs. John F. Wynn, Jr., president; Mrs. James P. Saffer, vice president; Mrs. Dean Curtis, recording secretary; Mrs. John B. Norfleet, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L. S. Hodges, treasurer; and Mrs. Joseph C. Jett, advisory chairman.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Mrs. A. Bently Byrd, State board member, who supported the group and gave her approval of the action.

HOBBY SHOW

PRINCESS ANNE—Creeds Elementary School gave American Education Week special observance last Tuesday with the inclusion of a Hobby Show of and for all the children.

The idea began in Ella Mae Godley's fifth grade, from which the children sent out written invitations to all the students in the school to display their special hobbies.

The result was a filled gymnasium at the school with as many different and varied hobbies as could be imagined from collections of relics, hornets nests, and leaves to dolls and models.

A display made by the school librarian presented ways, the library may be used.

Signs Of Fall Say 'Winterize'

Among its many other connotations, fall means "changeover": if you drive where the weather can drop below freezing. Snappy temperatures, the smell of burning leaves, and the first patches of frost are strong hints to get the family car to the service station for winterizing.

What should you ask for?

Antifreeze (unless you have an air-cooled engine). Have it added—or just tested if your car has air conditioning and requires some antifreeze—protection year-round. (Consult your car owner's manual.) Most major oil companies recommend and will guarantee this protection 5 to 10 degrees below the expected low. Be sure, too, if your car has a windshield-cleaning device that, for winter, the fluid in it also contains antifreeze.

An oil change. You'll need an all-weather oil or a single grade blended especially for winter. Single grade premium oils must be purchased by grade according to the season: medium-grade for fall or spring, heavier for summer, and lighter for winter. Again, follow the recommendations in your owner's manual.

Rustproofing. It's not too expensive, and it's a good addition if you don't already have it. Processes like Amo-Guard Rustproofing help protect the more vulnerable metal underneath the car from rust, salty slush, flying stones, and other hazards so typical of winter.

Winter driving equipment. Take inventory and add what you don't have. Besides what you should always carry—work gloves, clean rags, a flashlight, and a first-aid kit—you'll need special equipment for snow driving: tire chains, a bag of sand, a small shovel, and an ice-scraper-and-snowbrush. Most of it can be stored in the trunk. For convenience the scraper can ride up front. A collapsible one will fit right into the glove compartment.

A thorough tune-up. The ideal fall changeover includes any necessary lubrication and a basic safety check of steering, wheel alignment, lights, tires, battery, fan belt, muffler, tail pipe, cooling system, transmission, and differential. Besides the safety check, parts like fuel filters, oil filter, spark plugs, fuel pump, brakes, distributor, and, in some new cars, the PCV (positive crankcase vent) valve should also be carefully inspected.

Service stations like those in the American Oil Company's fall Check Point program will take care of everything you need automatically if you simply say, "Changeover, please." They also serve as all-winter centers for snow tires and other equipment and such services as towing and quick battery charges.

Snow, sleet, slush, ice, and the other annoyances of winter demand extra alertness at the wheel. Winter driving is a challenge. But it doesn't have to be a chore. All it takes is some good preparation, starting — now — with the fall changeover.

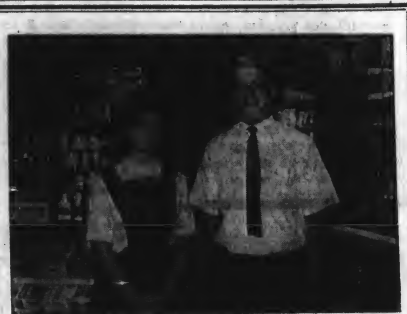

This morning Kent Carter fixed a broken leg, helped three cases of flu and prevented an epidemic of measles..

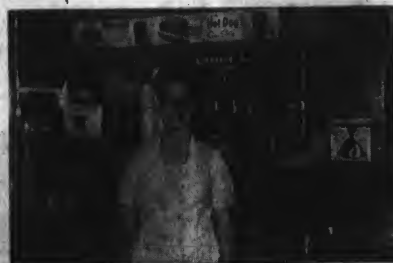

Well he didn't really do it all. What he did was install telephone service for a doctor's new office. But then, every day he does something just as important. He keeps telephone service running smoothly for people who need to call doctors and relatives and grocery stores and friends. Making sure they can is what Kent likes best about his job as a C&P serviceman.

After all, he likes to call people too.

TAHB

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of articles on housing and homes. In subsequent articles, other facets of the home will be discussed.

By W. W. Resser, President Tidewater Association of Home Builders

"Good design" is an important term to anyone planning to buy a home.

The prospective buyer's sense of good taste will tell him much about good design, but most people are also interested in having other people admire their homes. Some professional tips on how to recognize good design are, therefore, in order.

Begin your analysis with the geography surrounding the house. A low, sprawling, ranch house would be almost engulfed by tall trees, and a majestic Georgian mansion might seem out of place on barren grazing land.

The design of the house should take advantage of the terrain. If the lot is hilly, plan the house to fit among the hills instead of perching it on the side of a hill as though it were flat land.

Make maximum use of nearby water by facing the living areas toward it and opening the house to the view through large window expanses. Whenever possible, extend the livability area of the house to the outdoors by adding patios.

Except for the few persons who can afford country estates, home owners must live among other home owners. Consequently, it is necessary that the architecture of surrounding homes be considered before building or buying.

A glass-and-steel structure would look odd—and could easily create neighborhood animosity—in a neighborhood of traditional homes.

Zoning regulations seldom give a builder much leeway in determining the size and type of yard. A large front yard would be as out of place in Boston's historic Beacon Hill section as a house built at the edge of the sidewalk would be in a small Midwestern town.

In new communities, the traditional American street with gracious lawns and porches is seldom seen. The automobile has moved children's play and adult relaxation to the rear of the home, for both safety and privacy.

As a rule, a house appears most pleasing to the eye when it is hugging the ground. A house higher than it is wide gives the impression of a balloon about to ascend.

One of the most attractive—and most used—shapes in the horizontal rectangle. Mt. Vernon, George Washington's home near Washington, D. C., is a classic example of this shape.

While the vertical columns make Mt. Vernon appear high, its horizontal lines are more dominant. Because the eye travels more easily along horizontal lines, a house based on such a concept will seem larger than one based on vertical lines.

None of the major lines should be interrupted when avoidable. The minor lines should flow as long as possible, uninterrupted by unnecessary windows or fancy-work.

The windows should all be the same type and placed in relationship to one another, to present a sense of balance.

The type of door will depend solely on the over-all design of the house. Some houses need a fancy or brightly-colored door to create interest. Others should have doors that blend into the general appearance. The same ruling usually applies to garage doors.

The roof should be in keeping with the character of the house. A high-pitched roof looks good on very few houses. If dormer windows are called for, they should be in proportion to the roof surface.

Two types of siding materials are usually the maximum that can be used without distracting from the rest of the design. Unless added interest is needed, limit the siding to one type.

Light colors will usually make a small house seem larger, while deep colors will make a house seem smaller. The exterior colors should neither clash nor thoroughly blend with the landscape.

Into the big brown crock went alternate layers of day-old bread, seeded raisins, butter, eggs, milk, sugar, spices, and probably a few more ingredients I can't remember. Mother made it every Thanksgiving, a couple of nights before, because it had to set before it could be baked.

And it had to wait, weighted. That is, after the crock was full, a dinner plate was overturned on top of the mixture and a heavy flat iron was placed on the plate which caused the milky fluid to rise up over the plate, not quite to the flat iron. And it sat in a cool place for a couple of days.

It was baked early Thanksgiving morning in a slow oven in the old wood stove. Don't know how long it cooked, but while it was baking, a hard sauce had to be made, without which the pudding would not be complete when served.

The pudding would rise to the top of the crock as it baked, and when it was finished and taken from the oven, it would sink back down into itself. It was the richest, most elegant pudding ever made—it was Mother's specialty... and she made it only on Thanksgiving and Christmas.

It was a New England Baked Plum Pudding, but I know it had many a plum anywhere in the recipe. And because it seemed to go with the bare trees of November, the dull grey clouds scuttling before the cold North wind, and the few dried leaves whirling in aimless confusion against the creaking old house, it was forgotten as other Thanksgivings were spent in states down the coast to warm Florida, and across the country to sunny California.

But lately, here in Virginia, I think of tradition, and of family fun of the past, and I keep thinking about that New England Baked Plum Pudding.

I want to make one. But I have forgotten how. And Mother isn't around any more to ask.

So, I am asking you! Please, if you know how to make the New England Baked Plum Pudding, would you share your recipe with me?

On The Job Training

VIRGINIA BEACH—In the fast-moving world of today, it becomes more and more necessary for high school students to begin planning early for their future.

Many students have a vague idea of what they will do after graduation, but few have made definite plans. Some will attend college or enter the armed forces, but the majority will seek employment immediately after receiving the diploma.

Of these working graduates it is more likely that most will enter some phase of the wide field of distribution.

What are these students doing to prepare themselves for their future in distribution and what do they really know about it? To answer these questions is the main purpose of the Distributive Education Program.

The Distributive Education Program was initiated to provide the employers and employees of tomorrow with a fundamental background in distribution, and to give them on-the-job training.

In the DE classroom, the students are first given a background knowledge of the various jobs available in distribution and the requirements needed to obtain these jobs. Among these are the many types of salesmen such as the retail salesman, the wholesale salesman, and the service salesman.

The types that most people associate with distribution are the small independent store, the large chain store, and the service establishment such as beauty salons and service stations. However, they are but a few of the job opportunities open in the distribution field.

The DE student is taught the basic necessities which are important in applying for, obtaining, and holding a job.

These begin with simple rules of good health, then he is trained to have a pleasing, "selling" personality, one of the most important fundamentals in any job which involves "meeting the public."

The student is also given thorough instruction in the general characteristics and moods of the customer and how to cope with each.

Often as a student gains a keener insight into the personalities of others, he develops a better understanding of his own personality traits.

DEY P-TA

VIRGINIA BEACH—A Parent Teacher Association meeting will be held at John B. Dey elementary school on November 16 at 8 p.m.

William J. Slesman, group relations chairman of the state PTA, will be the guest speaker and his topic will be "Goals for Parents and Teachers."

A question and answer period will follow.

DE - An Economic Asset

VIRGINIA BEACH—Distributive Education in Virginia Beach has experienced phenomenal growth in the past decade. From its meager beginning, DE has grown into a three-year program having in excess of three-hundred, fifty students at the present time.

Distributive Education has proven to be an economic asset for the community. Last year DE students, during the school term earned nearly $150,000, most of which was recirculated into the local economy.

By the year 1970 DE is expected to quadruple its present enrollment in the city's schools. The need for part-time employees is expected to keep pace with the cooperative high school students available to fill those positions.

PRINCESS ANNE HIGH SCHOOL

THALIA—The Distributive Education program at Princess Anne High School has always been one of the largest in the state. This year 111 students are participating in the program. Quality is not lacking in the program. Thoroughness of the Tidewater area Princess Anne's D. E. graduates are advancing to higher responsibilities in the field of distribution.

The D. E. Club at P. A. has always been active in local and state activities. This year under the direction of president, Ted Mazzel, the club members are selling fruit cakes to finance club projects. The major project for the year is the annual Employer Employee Banquet. This banquet is the small way the students say "thank you for the opportunity."

Assisting Ted with the leadership of the club are Steve Patrick, vice-president; Sally May, secretary; Eddie Lewis, treasurer; and John Leonard, reporter. Vernon Cherry and Wayne Taylor are club advisors.

FRANK W. COX HIGH SCHOOL

GREAT NECK—Three years ago, Frank W. Cox High School Distributive Education club program began with a mere eleven members. The second year, this enrollment increased to eighty-eight students, to the current figure in September, 1965, of 114 students. The purpose of the Cox program, with its present size, indicates great quantity and is also a program of great quality.

Since the inception of the program in 1963, Cox Distributive Education students have received over twelve district and state awards in various contest areas, such as selling, public speaking, and D. E. student of the year. The Cox program last year was fortunate enough to have Miss Andrea Kelly, who was selected as the outstanding D. E. student of the year for the entire state of Virginia.

Starting next week, the Cox club will engage in many activities to celebrate National DECA Week. This is a period of recognition for Distributive Education students throughout the United States. Over 2,000 cities with 82,000 D. E. students will be involved in this function. The Cox students, thus far, have planned radio shows on WVKV. They are preparing billboards, obtaining newspaper publicity, and engaging in various other activities, all of which are designed to bring recognition to Distributive Education.

In addition to the DECA Week activities, the Cox program is planning to initiate a scholarship award program for deserving D. E. students, which will be financed from student projects.

According to Homer C. McCoy, club chairman of the Cox program, the co-curricular club activities in Distributive Education are designed to develop students who are well trained in civic, vocational, and social activities. The purpose of the D. E. club varies from that of other clubs, in so far as DECA training is a vital part of the students education.

During DECA Week, students throughout the city of Virginia Beach are encouraged to contact their school D. E. co-ordinators for information about this exciting vocational program, which provides for many an excellent opportunity to obtain training in marketing and distribution, and in the meanwhile, earn an income while still in school.

KELLAM HIGH SCHOOL
PRINCESS ANNE—The Kellam High School DE Chapter is in its second year of organization and has increased its enrollment over last year by 21 students, giving a total enrollment of 32 students.

Jefferson Davis, principal of Kellam, says, "I am very proud of the DE program in the city of Va. Beach and particularly the program at Kellam High School, which is now under the new director, Mrs. Janet Main. When you look at the returns, dollar wise and experience wise, you can see how a student benefits from having participated in the DE Program."

Through progress reports done by the DE coordinator, students have been noted to be above average in production, to show a great deal of interest in their work and to possess sound judgment.

Of the total enrollment there are 52 ambitious boys and girls. They plan to participate in the homecoming parade by entering a float centered around DECA. They plan to have many projects and events throughout the year, including a car wash, a bake sale and a dance.

All are looking forward to the Employer-Employee Banquet in the Spring, which is their way to say thank you Mr. Employer for the training and cooperation you have given us as DE students."

Joseph Lowenthal, Jr., Managing Editor of the Virginia Beach Sun, accepts award from Kiwanis International and the Kiwanis Club of Virginia Beach.

TRAFFIC STILL ON INCREASE

CAPE CHARLES—October traffic over the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel showed a 10.4 per cent increase over October of last year, officials at the toll facility reported today.

The increase averaged 282 vehicles per day. The 18-month-old crossing, longest of its kind in the world, reported a gain of 14.4 percent in paying passengers and 7.7 percent in revenue, setting a new record for percentage of passenger increase. October was the fourth straight month in which the Bridge-Tunnel has set records in total traffic, percentage of traffic increase, or percentage of passenger increase.

Totals for the month amounted to 87,739 vehicles, 146,617 paying passengers in addition to drivers, and $559,944 in revenue. Figures for October, 1964, were 79,490 vehicles, 128,133 passengers and $519,194 in revenue.

7,464 Bank Shares For von Schilling In Virginia National Bank Merger

The Director, President and Trust Officer of the Merchants National Bank of Hampton, Lucien H. von Schilling, has received 7,464 shares of Virginia National Bank stock under the merger of the Merchants National Bank of Hampton, the Bank of Phoebus and Virginia National Bank.

This, apparently, makes von Schilling the largest single stockholder among the directors and officers of the merged banks. This is according to the Proxy Statement filed on September 22, 1965. According to the same statement, the second largest individual stockholder is C. A. Cutchins III, Director and Executive Vice President of Virginia National Bank. John S. Alfriend, Director and Chairman of the Executive Committee of VNB is listed as the third largest stockholder. Cutchins has 6,888 shares and Alfriend, 5,883.

Other officers and directors of the merged banks listed as owning a thousand shares or more are: J. S. Jenkins, of VNB, 4,700; William Darden, of VNB, 4,337; George B. Tullidge, of VNB, 4,200; James L. McLenore, Jr., of VNB, 3,159; W. Fred Duckworth, of VNB, 2,443; L. M. von Schilling, Jr., of Merchants National, 2,000; J. S. Selden, Jr., of Merchants National, 1,800; Charles L. Kaufman, of VNB, 1,620; R. Cosby Moore, of VNB, 1,500; E. L. Gardner, of Merchants National, 1,440; J. L. Camp, Jr., of VNB, 1,427; E. R. McKethan, of VNB, 1,326; Charles Bernham, Jr., of VNB, 1,250; O. W. Ward, Sr., of the Bank of Phoebus, 1,100; W. P. Wooley, of VNB, 1,100; C. R. Bryant, of VNB, 1,031.

W. Wright Harrison, of VNB, 1,000; and Isaac C. Glenn, of VNB, 1,000.

The shareholders of the Merchants National Bank of Hampton, in exchange for acceptable assets contributed by their bank to the Merged Bank, were entitled to 72,000 shares of the common stock of the Merged Bank, each of $5 par value, distributed on the basis of four shares thereof for each share of the common stock of the Merchants National Bank of Hampton, each of $5 par value, held by them. The shareholders of the Bank of Phoebus were to receive 22,500 shares of the Merged Bank common stock, each of $5 par value, distributed on the basis of 2.25 shares for each share of the common stock of the Bank of Phoebus, each of $10 par value, held by them.

With completion of the two mergers, Virginia National Bank has assets listed in excess of $404,000,000, and 62 offices in 29 Virginia cities and towns. Capital accounts total over $39,000,000 and outstanding 1,841,915 shares of $5 par value stock.

Virginia National Bank remains the second largest bank in Virginia with the mergers. First Merchants Bank, which has recently proposed merging with the Bank of Virginia Beach is the largest bank in Virginia.

James J. Saxon, Comptroller of the Currency, has notified officials at Virginia National Bank of final approval of plans for a merger with Merchants National Bank and Bank of Phoebus in Hampton.

The action by the regulatory authority was revealed jointly by R. Cosby Moore, VNB chairman of the board; and by Lucien H. von Schilling and H. P. Wilson, presidents, respectively, of Merchants National Bank and Bank of Phoebus.

The three officials announced further that the banks were merged last weekend. The five offices of Merchants National and Bank of Phoebus' two offices opened for business on Monday as offices of Virginia National Bank. This brought to sixty-two the total number of VNB offices in operation in twenty-nine Virginia communities from the eastern seaboard to the Tennessee line.

Virginia National now serves the Tidewater communities of Chesapeake, Franklin, Norfolk, Suffolk and Virginia Beach.

Shareholders of the three banks registered their overwhelming approval at meetings held in mid-October.

The present operational management of Virginia National's Hampton offices will remain virtually unchanged; all personnel will continue in their present positions. As previously announced, von Schilling and Wilson will become VNB senior vice presidents and von Schilling will become a member of the board of directors of the statewide institution.

As a part of the announcement, plans were revealed for the creation of a Hampton Board of Virginia National Bank, which will oversee local operations.

Similar boards exist in every community by Virginia National in accordance with the bank's long standing policy to make each local operation an autonomous as possible.

DE Trains For Rising Economy

VIRGINIA BEACH—Everyone benefits from Distributive Education in our local high schools. The businessmen benefit through receiving trained part-time employees as well as additional training for full-time people. The community receives better service while the D.E. student is training for a career.

Miss Louise Bernard, state D.E. supervisor, organized the program in Virginia in 1937. The program, originated in this state, is cited as a model throughout the United States and Miss Bernard has served as a consultant in both Venezuela and Puerto Rico.

In view of the increasing demand for trained personnel in distribution the D.E. curriculum has been changed to include the 10th grade level. This change is intended to provide the D.E. student with a background which will prove beneficial in beginning a job as well as increasing his promotional potential.

The D.E. enrollment in Virginia is at an all-time high of 8500 students; co-op students earned in excess of $2,400,000 during last year. Not only did the students contribute to the support of their program through their tax dollars but also recirculated a substantial portion of their earnings within the state's economy.

The apparent success of the DE program can be contributed to devoted teacher-coordinators who keep abreast of current marketing practices and brings these into the classroom instruction.

It is worthy to note that Virginia has more of the population, 15-19 years of age, enrolled in DE than any other state. The co-curricular Distributive Education Clubs of America is the nation's second largest association.

It will be apparent to the casual observer that the dropout rate is lower in communities having successful DE programs. DE graduates, quite often advance faster as a result of their high school training.

Distributive Education does not have to end with graduation from high school. There is a two-year post-secondary program at Old Dominion College and at Richmond Professional Institute, which is designed to qualify students for middle-management positions. The student will find that a four-year course leading to a Bachelor of Science degree is offered at both Virginia Polytechnic Institute and Richmond Professional Institute.

Another significant facet of DE is its inclusive adult program which offers a variety of instruction to those already engaged in distributive occupations. Often the merchants who hire DE students are found attending adult classes to improve their skills and competency in such areas as supervision, training and management.

Distributive Education officials are ever alert to the needs of those engaged in the distributive field and are constantly finding ways to assist in meeting the challenge through education.

VB KIWANIS GIVES AWARD TO VB SUN

VIRGINIA BEACH—Kiwanis International and the Kiwanis Club of Virginia Beach has presented the Virginia Beach Sun with an award. It was given "for constant efforts in behalf of the Golden Heritage of Free Speech."

The award reads, "More precious than gold is the heritage of free speech. More powerful than the sophisticated weaponry of today is the power of the pen. More important than any other struggle is the struggle to maintain free speech in a free society so that men of good will—everywhere—may rise to the fullest of the great potential which lies within them."

At the time of National Newspaper Week, and during the Golden Anniversary of Kiwanis International, the men of Kiwanis take pride in saluting the great free press of the western world."

Managing Editor of the Virginia Beach Sun, H. Joseph Lowenthal, Jr., accepted the award from Dr. Leonard Bateman, President of the Virginia Beach Kiwanis Club. Other awards went to the Ledger-Star and the Virginian-Pilot, of Norfolk.

The meeting was held at the Cavalier Golf and Yacht Club at Virginia Beach.

MEN'S CLUB

VIRGINIA BEACH—The regular monthly meeting of the Men's Club, Star of the Sea RC Church, will be held on Wednesday, November 17, at 8 p.m. in the Parish Recreation Hall, 15th Street. An interesting program will be presented. All men are invited.

Annual Bazaar

VIRGINIA BEACH—Galilee Episcopal Church will have its annual bazaar on Wednesday, November 17, beginning at 10 a.m.

The booths will include Christmas decorations and Christmas tree ornaments; a sewing booth with hand made articles suitable for Christmas gifts, baby presents, utilitarian and fancy aprons, pillows, table mats, knitted articles, etc.; the pantry shelf will be filled with baked goods, pickles, jams and jellies, frozen and refrigerated foods—salads, casseroles and desserts; also white elephants and costume jewelry; speed portraits, charcoal sketches by Jane Whittemore; and a special booth for children to be open after school from 2:30 to 4:30, with inexpensive gifts for parents and friends such as toys, candy and cookies.

Luncheon will be served buffet style and guests will be seated at the card tables with linen cloths. The menu will be creamed chicken in patty shells, green vegetable, cranberry salad, homemade dessert, coffee.

Flags Given

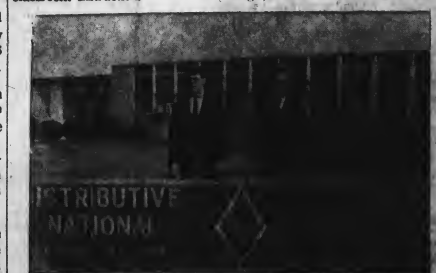

VIRGINIA BEACH—School yard flags have been presented by the Ladies Auxiliary VFW, 7166 of Virginia Beach, to area schools.

Otis Copely, principal of Thalia Elementary school received the flag in behalf of the school where 1,015 children attend.

Norman Morris, principal of Bayside High school, accepted a school yard flag in behalf of its 1,679 students.

Old Dominion School, with an attendance of 975 children, was the recipient of 30 class room flags and a school yard flag in a ceremony where a student from each room received the flag from the Auxiliary's Americanism chairman Mrs. Ruth Manges.

She said to the children, "Guard and respect this flag at all times, for it is the symbol of every high ideal in the American way of life."

NORFOLK—Ray Bonaker, WTAR radio personality and skipper of the WeeTAR, accepts a Certificate of Appreciation from the U. S. Coast Guard commending him and WTAR for work done in promoting boat safety. The presentation was made by Capt. James F. Mutz, Chief of Staff, 5th Coast Guard District.

The WeeTAR is WTAR's 24-foot cruiser which patrolled Tidewater waterways each weekend and on holidays throughout the summer. The "Water Patrol" provided service to water patrollers with safety tips to boaters, fishing news, weather reports, water and surf conditions for swimmers, and assistance to disabled small craft.

According to Public Information Officer L. James F. Hunt, the Coast Guard Certificate of Appreciation is awarded only under conditions of unusual merit.

STRONG CHURCHES...

make STRONG COMMUNITIES

Grandma baked pies today and we had a good laugh together over the story she used to tell me as a little girl of a lady who baked pies and marked them to tell them apart. Half she marked T M for 'Tis Mince, the others T M for 'Tian't Mince.

It's such fun having Grandma live in our house. Her stories of the old days, her understanding humor, and her joy in living spark our lives. She needs no label. That she's a Christian glows in everything she does. No matter what the circumstances, she meets people and situations with love and goodness. Full credit is hers, that none of the problems that we feared when she came to live with us have developed.

Yes, I'd say Grandma has rubbed off on all of us. We all go to church now and we're much happier because of it. We've learned from Grandma that happiness comes from doing good and loving God.

Why don't you go to Church and take your family with you?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

CAVALIER GARAGE

Coverage of downfield punts is an essential to winning football. The wise receiver, in the face of a thundering charge, signals a "Fair Catch", which means that he intends only to catch the ball and not to attempt to run it back upfield. The upraised hand is his protection against onrushing tacklers. When the odds are too high, the "Fair Catch" signal is the best move to make. When the odds are against you, as a homeowner or a businessman, it's time to signal for help. If you have something to repair, need a particular service, or are in the market for something new, don't go it alone. Look to the local business community. Explain your needs to the reputable, established local merchant. You'll find he's "on your team" and that he believes in fair play all the way. The dependability of the folks who serve this community is a guarantee of your personal satisfaction.

Notes from Your
E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

MANAGEMENT HELPS LOW INCOME FARMERS, TOO
Low income farmers have benefited from the Virginia Tech mail-in accounting systems, as well as larger farmers.

Twenty low income farmers maintained accounts in the system in both 1961 and 1964. They had less than $2,000 net farm income and an investment of less than $3,000.

Over the past four years, 17 of these farmers increased income and only three had less income. The largest increase was almost $5,700, but nine farmers increase earnings more than $2,000.

In 1961 the average income of the 20 was only $30, but by 1964 the group had an average income of almost $1,350.

A look at capital investment figures show that, on the average, investment went down from $22,000 in 1961 to $18,000 in 1964. The decrease in value occurred primarily because of depreciation. These farmers were using the same equipment and buildings without buying new items. In most cases, this was a wise economic choice. Machinery or facilities which will not pay for themselves should not be bought.

One farmer, however, increased his investment by $32,000 and his income went up by almost $5,000.

I believe that improved farm business management can help the small farmer as well as the large operator. The results may not be as extreme, but the increased income and satisfaction may be just as rewarding.

Please call on me for help if you would like to investigate ways for improving your income.

'FIRECRACKER' FIZZLES: SCHOOL IS NAMED

BLAZING FOUR-CAR ACCIDENT INJURES THREE PERSONS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Three persons were injured last Friday night in a blazing four-car accident on Virginia Beach Boulevard in front of the Pine Tree Inn.

Two of the vehicles involved in the accident exploded and burned. Robert R. Cooper, Sr., 75, and his wife Hedwig R. Cooper, 74, were trapped in one of the burning cars, but were pulled to safety by three sailors, a service station attendant, and the couple's grandson.

Cooper, who lives on Mona Avenue in Norfolk, was hospitalized with three broken ribs. His wife received a broken right arm and multiple bruises in the accident.

Police said the accident began when Cooper drove his car out of the restaurant's parking lot. Cooper's car was stopped in the median opening of the boulevard, waiting to turn east when it was struck by a car going west driven by Cdr. Richard Bordone, 35, of the 3700 block of Horton Circle, police said. Cooper and his wife had been to dinner with their son, Dr. Robert R. Cooper, Jr., a Norfolk physician, his wife and family.

The force of the accident knocked the Cooper automobile across two lanes and the feeder road and into a tree on the south side of Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Upon hitting the tree, the car's reverse gear engaged and the vehicle ran back across the highway at high speed and crashed into two parked cars, including the car of Dr. Cooper, police said.

At that point, Cooper's car and the second parked vehicle that was struck, burst into flames.

Frank McKel, who manages the restaurant's kitchen tried to get one of the doors open, but it was jammed. He ran back into the restaurant to get a hammer.

Steve Arnold, 21, a service station attendant at a nearby filling station kicked the glass out of the door on the driver's side and managed to pull Cooper free of the burning vehicle.

Steve Cooper, the couple's grandson, got a tire jack out of his father's car and broke the window on the other side. Three sailors helped him get the door open and get his grandmother out.

Shortly after both people were taken from the car the gas tank of both burning cars exploded at the same time.

The second car that burned was owned by Aubrey L. Pallette, of the 900 block of Virginia Beach Boulevard. Pallette said approximately $400 in a cigar box was on the front seat of the new convertible and was apparently destroyed in the fire.

Police charged Cooper and Bordone with reckless driving.

When a steepie needs painting, it is fortunate that there are those willing to do the job. Pictured above are two anonymous steepie-jacks, as they were beginning the precarious job of painting the steepie of the First Presbyterian Church of Virginia Beach on 30th Street. The two were being directed by a fellow worker who was staying on the ground. A small group of bystanders stood below and quietly watched.

School Board Acts On Controversial Matters

VIRGINIA BEACH — The new high school on First Colonial Road will be known as Oceana High School... at least for awhile. At its regular meeting on Tuesday the School Board reaffirmed its stand and made the decision to open Virginia Beach High School as Virginia Beach Junior High School in September 1966. At that time the senior grades will be transferred to the new high school.

It was late in the meeting before the controversial naming of the new school was brought up. Neal Owens, of Virginia Beach Borough, said, "I hate to bring up the firecracker..." Owens went on to say that he thought the board had "dillydallied" enough. Acting Chairman George Ferrell countered with, "I thought it had been finalized." Ferrell also said that if the issue were to be reopened, he would like to have all board members present. Several were not there Tuesday. But the Board is now on record not to change its decision to name the new school, Oceana, with one reservation. The words, "at this time" were tacked on the official action.

The controversy began when two factions wished to name the school. One wanted it to be R. H. Owen High School. The other, which has additional fuel now, wanted it to be named Virginia Beach High School. Several thousand names have been reportedly affixed to a petition seeking to get the Board to change its mind and make the new building Virginia Beach High School, after all. Most who wish the old name apparently want it for sentimental reasons and for the alumni. The Board, however, has stubbornly stuck to the name Oceana.

City Council reportedly agreed at an executive session to suggest to the board that the name be First Colonial High School, in line with a four-year old resolution that schools should bear the name of the geographical area. No mention of Council action was brought up at Tuesday's public meeting.

The decision to make the existing Virginia Beach High School a junior high facility came after Superintendent of Schools, F. W. Cox stated the present building would need considerable upgrading to be a first-class high school. He added that the plant would need a stadium and a larger gymnasium.

Cox added that even the new school will not have a stadium, at least for a year. Bayshore High School has been open for two years without a stadium.

It was reported to the school board in the construction of the new school, and that the new school will be ready in September 1966. Nightly it will serve only the 11th and 12th grades when it opens.

Sandbridge Appraisal Still Out

Sandbridge, Va. — The good and final private appraisal of the City of Virginia Beach's recently acquired 144 acres at Sandbridge is expected to be in the hands of city officials in a few days. The first appraisal, made by Goodman-Segar-Hogan was turned in several weeks ago, although its contents have not been released publicly.

According to City Treasurer, "Jack" Etheridge, the holdup on the second appraisal has come as a result of part of the appraisal work being "fanned out," and not having been returned to the original firm.

Carroll G. Clough, City Purchasing Agent, said he had contacted the firm early in the week, and had been promised the appraisal in time for presentation to City Council on Monday.

It was the decision of city officials not to release the contents of one appraisal until both were in the hands of the proper authorities.

City officials have now applied for available Federal funds to finance one-half of the approved $322,000 purchase, designed to become a recreational area. Two pri-

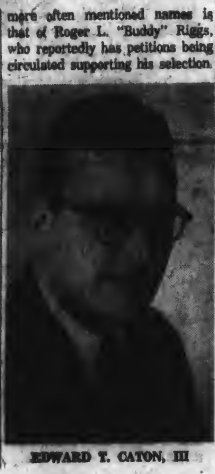

CATON RESIGNATION RUMORED

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia Beach City Council will soon have another vacancy. Since Edward T. Caton III has recently been elected to the Virginia House of Delegates, representing the city of Virginia Beach, he will resign his seat on City Council to take up his new duties in Richmond.

When contacted by the Virginia Beach Sun, Caton would not confirm rumors that his resignation was imminent. He said, "I intend to discuss the matter with City Council at our next meeting (Monday, November 22, 1965) and will be guided by its wishes."

Speculation has it that Caton will resign from City Council effective some time the end of December. The Virginia General Assembly convenes in Richmond during the second week in January, 1966.

Several names have been mentioned, both publicly and privately, as possible replacements for Caton, however, no one person has been generally endorsed. One of the

Antis Named And Organized

VIRGINIA BEACH — There is now an organized political group at Virginia Beach, formed in opposition to the dominant Democratic organization. It has chosen a name and has elected officers.

About fifty persons of various political beliefs attended the second organizational meeting last weekend at the Pine Tree Inn. About the same number attended the first meeting early last month.

The anti-organization organization will be known as the Citizens' Council for Better Government in Virginia Beach.

Elected president of the group was Joseph Russo. Russo operates a hair stylist shop in Norfolk. Wilson Chaplin was elected vice-president, and his wife, treasurer. Angela Caffield is recording secretary, and Mrs. Rosa Stanton, corresponding secretary. Harry Sawyer will be historian; Cleve Cleveland, parliamentarian; and Fred Ward, sergeant at arms.

The first meeting was reportedly called by L. Charles Burlage, defeated State senatorial candidate in the July Democratic primary.

One of the speakers at the more recent meeting, James R. Logan, said the group is not "anti-organization" as much as it is "pro good government." He added that the fledgling group is against public officials who profit by their municipal offices, although he offered no specific cases.

According to the by-laws of the new group, other objectives include seeking and supporting qualified people for municipal offices in Virginia Beach, to keep citizens better informed on the inner workings of municipal government and to establish a code of ethics.

In organizing, none of the speakers has buried any specific charges at existing public officials, and no such specific cases have been presented.

R. BRADSHAW PULLEY

VIRGINIA BEACH — R. Bradshaw Pulley has been elected president of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and will succeed A. B. Crews on January 1. Pulley is an insurance executive.

Other officers selected are George W. Vukos, first vice president; William C. Haycox, second vice president; Mrs. Lucy F. Traflet, secretary; and James G. Kantopoulos, treasurer.

Installation of the officers will be held at a dinner meeting on December 14 at the Cavalier Hotel.

GOP Committee Leader Says He Won't Run

VIRGINIA BEACH — The chairman of the Virginia Beach Republican Committee, says he will not seek re-election to that post early next year. Dan H. Haffin, 31, a mechanical engineer at Newport News Dry Dock Company, has held the post since last December.

Haffin has called a meeting of the GOP Committee Thursday night, at 8 o'clock, at the Cavalier. Reportedly the major item of business is the appointment of a nominating committee, which will select new officers.

Haffin's wife, Jeanne, says he will definitely not seek re-election for business reasons. Haffin recently helped form a maritime corporation.

The nominating committee to be chosen Thursday night will recommend a new slate of officers to the parent organization to be chosen at a mass meeting on January 15. At this time, no place has been set for the mass meeting.

The Virginia Beach GOP Committee, which reorganizes every two years, elected Haffin to the top post after the Committee ousted William M. Nixon, in a squabble over the handling of party affairs at Virginia Beach.

MAN KILLED IN FREAK ACCIDENT

VIRGINIA BEACH — A blade for a bulldozer that was knocked loose from a flatbed truck killed a 58-year old man in a traffic accident on North Landing Road Saturday morning.

Milton Alonzo Lee of the 2900 block of Salem Road became Virginia Beach's 19th traffic fatality in the freak accident. The accident occurred not far from his home.

Investigating officers said Lee's car, which was northbound, swerved into the opposite lane, hitting the southbound truck on a curve about 700 feet south of Salem Road shortly before noon.

When the automobile struck the left rear portion of the truck, the bulldozer blade that was chained down broke loose and smashed into the car, police said, and hit Lee. He received multiple head and chest injuries, officers said.

Beattie Hewitt, 55, of the 900 block of Eastern Shore Drive, who was driving the truck, was not injured. Police say they have filed a charge of manslaughter against him.

Lee, employed for 28 years by the Ford Motor Company, is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mae Tyler Lee; two daughters, Mrs. Harry Elderidge and Mrs. Winifred Murphy; a son, Nelson Tyler Lee; and five sisters, Mrs. Anderson Jackson, Mrs. Cecil Land, Mrs. Leroy Davis, Mrs. Ervin Mosley, and Mrs. Carl Pledger, all of Virginia Beach, and four brothers, Earl and Harry Lee of Norfolk and Vernon Lee and Hilton Lee of Virginia Beach.

Lee was a native of Princess Anne County.

A funeral service was held earlier this week at Holloman-Brown Funeral Home with burial services held at Rosewood Memorial Park.

BUS COMPANY SEEKS PERMANENT FRANCHISE

VIRGINIA BEACH — Trailways Bus System will seek a permanent city franchise at City Council Monday, for a bus service currently offered to Knotts Island, Virginia Beach General Hospital and Arlington Village.

The service will be held a public hearing on the application at Princess Anne Courthouse after the regular council meeting Monday morning. Temporary service was established on that route several months ago and has done quite well, according to Ralph Heras, who is the manager of the Del-Mar-Va division of Trailways.

Approval of the application would establish Trailways as the bus company which will offer expanding service in Virginia Beach as the city continues to grow at its rapid pace. The bus company told the city it will provide service anywhere the city should want it.

FBI Conference Held At Va. B.

VIRGINIA BEACH — The second of three Tidewater F. B. I. Annual Conferences was held last Tuesday at 9:00 a.m. at the Commodore Country Club in Kempsville.

Representatives from police and other law enforcement agencies from Virginia Beach, Portsmouth, Chesapeake, Norfolk, and the Eastern Shore attended the meeting.

Harold E. Campbell, special agent in charge of the FBI's Norfolk office said the meetings in Virginia Beach, Suffolk and Newport News are part of a national program aimed at bringing federal agents together with local law enforcement officers to exchange ideas on increased operating efficiency between the two agencies.

Campbell discussed two recent federal moves which directly effect local law enforcement. The President's commission on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice, and the Law Enforcement Act of 1965. These two moves were discussed in his opening address.

The representatives then held panel discussions on law enforcement public image, new scientific aids to law enforcement, and the need for better cooperation between agencies on all levels.

The original group will be primarily composed of residents of Princess Anne Plaza, who wish to interest more people in good government and city affairs.

Democratic National Committee, Sidney S. Kellum, and City Councilman James Darden, will address the meeting, at the home of William S. Thomas, on Pewter Road.

The Virginia Beach Cotillion club celebrated the first dance of the season Saturday night at the Cavalier Hotel.

The band known as the Checkmates was real cool. The band consisted of two guitars, two sax, drums and a singer. Malcolm Gordon, the singer, really kept the crowd in a go-go and happy mood. This man is a real entertainer; such a shame he will be leaving the band before long to take up his internship for a doctor. He will surely be missed.

The young ladies did look so very glamorous in their formals. They were both long and short formals. Formals meant nothing when they started dancing, shoes were off and set aside.

Miss Julie Jimenez wore a beautiful and very outstanding long formal. The material was gold lame with sprigs of leaves woven in the material colors of blue, red and gold. Her shoes were red and ear rings that drop from the ear were gold nuggets taken from the mountains of Trinidad. This lovely outfit with her olive skin and dark hair made this young lady outstanding.

Some of the couples seen were: Miss Pam Durey, Bill Garner, Miss Keyal Ferebee, Lloyd Thinsley, Miss Lois Abrentis, Miss Margaret Adenbrook and Robert Aborn.

Miss Susan Axelrod, Aubrey Rackus, Miss Carol Bahlmann, Miss Susan Blakely, Miss Maggi Billy, Zach Clemens, Miss Karen English, Fred Jordan and John Jordan.

Mike Jordan, George Kona, Johnny Maddux, Richard Miles, Miss Cindy Miller, Miss Rebecca Miller, Miss Maxine Stone and Iris Sollee.

The dance was held for members and their guests of the Cotillion club, but everyone that was at the Cavalier at some time of the night left the dance they were attending to watch these young boys and girls.

It is really wonderful to be young and so full of energy; and, believe me, it takes energy to do the dances they did Saturday night. I don't believe these young people sat down except during intermission at which time they replenished themselves with cokes, potato chips, fries and cake.

For a full three hours they danced the Twist, Monkey, the Freds, the Swins, Hitchhike, Mash Potato—you name it and they were doing it!

I have covered these dances before and these young people have a wonderful time. I can only say to those who do not belong to the club, join and have fun, real good clean fun.

Gunter Schobenberger is the exchange student from Austria at tending the Virginia Beach High School this year, and I am sure when he returns home he will tell all about these happy young boys and girls and the wonderful times they have.

Others attending were: Pete Sechen, John Crowling, Miss Laura Portenier, Miss Ann Deal, Bill Hile, Ernest Franki, and Miss Jan Hudson.

James Haggard, Steve Klemm, Miss Bonnie House, Gary Phelan, Miss Frances Gilliam, Miss Pam Fuller, Miss Cathy Woodhouse, Miss Gail Ward, Miss Cox, Bobby Walker, Miss Sheri Frenon, Miss Kathy Womack and Sandy Dillon.

I am sure there were some names that I could not get. If I missed any of you, please forgive me. I shall promise at your next dance I will get yours.

Hope to be with you again next week . . . always take care of yourself . . . and look for me.

LET'S TALK FASHION

This pre-holiday season is the season when designers turn loose their creativity and really have fun with swimwear, cover-ups, play wear, the look that's pure American—room-the-ranch clothes and provocative party-dance dresses to get in the pretty sort mood with filmy chiffon prints, silk, linen and blended fabrics such as swirling or much-shirred dirndl skirts with long, wide sleeves. Whether you're going on a cruise to find off-beat spots or to visit old favorites, to visit foreign lands, to seek two weeks in the sun or to just sail away or jet off, you'll find a plethora of lovely clothes and cheer-up colors for your packing. KITTLE Campbell, enthusiastic director of the famous New York Couture Group, writes that the "twenties" look with long torso and fluttering flounce at the bottom of the short skirt prevails for the resort season this year. Quoting KITTLE's recent letter: "Another trend of the twenties which you can expect to see back in the Spring, having already tipped their hand for the resort wear, are shoes with platform—not the war-years kind that you could break your neck by jumping off—with water-thin platform of contrasting colors between the shoes and the soles. Ankle straps are back, only they are set gracefully low on the shoe. Heels also show a marked change of attitude and altitude. Higher heels seem headed for a return, most of them architecturally formed, and sturdier than the "splinter" heels of recent vintage. Toes are rounder, softer and some have draped looks or smocking in baby doll effects. Colors are powdery pastels—great for resort wear or Springtime." KITTLE ought to know. She's seasons ahead in her fashion know-how and covers the Seventh Avenue markets as well as all the fashionable Manhattan society fashion showings of our top American designers.

MEG'S GLOVES
We've followed the news and photo stories of Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon and their fashionable goings-on with a great deal of interest. We cheer the winsome Princess for wearing so many attractive hats, so fashionably right and properly so. It's a pleasure to have some one so young so devoted to the old-fashioned proper ruling that "a lady never goes out of her home without her hat and gloves on thus completing the picture of a lady!" Now, if pretty Meg would only stop carrying those three-quarter gloves in her hand, folded over half-way just so, and get on with wearing them, we'd turn to other interests!

GIFT SUGGESTIONS:
If you scurry about you'll find so many gifts from far off places right close by. For example, men's gloves of 100 percent lambswool with soft leather palms from Italy... lovely Bavarian white china pieces from Germany... from Scotland, wonderful wool cardigans... smartly-fashioned kid gloves with silk linings from France... and also from France, Coty's new feeling and fragrance in perfume, Imprevu... from England, wool challis ties in wonderful color combinations and women's knit sweaters... from these shores, attractive Villager costumes and matching scarves—with-purses for the "in" Set teens... for the fashion conscious lady, the best book on fashion so far, "The Fashionable Savages" by John Fairchild... and for tasteful giving, how about a subscription to Issue Casual's new monthly magazine Status? It covers the world of arts, fashion and mores which treats honestly and directly on the good, exciting things that are "in" each month and the bad, boring things that are "out." Address to Status, P. O. Box 1291, Des Moines, Iowa 50105. (Seven dollars for one year subscription.)... Then there are London Fog coats for men and women... Evelyn Pearson's handsome loungewear... imported tobacco gift boxes and pipes and candies and Smithfield hams and just more and more exciting gifts all about you if you'll only begin early to fill your Christmas list and get a really fine first-choice of things!

THE NEW CONTOUR

Every Christmas time, thousands of men receive thousands of neckties from the Ladies-In-Their-Lives. It's a popular when-all-else-fails gift to give. However, the girls should use extra care and thought in making their selections to make Our Men happier. The newest award winning shape for neckwear design is the Contour, sculptured by Damon. The Contour correlates with the new emphasis in suits, widest between the lapels where the expanse of the shirt is greatest and tapered toward the waist. It's a new emphasis on silhouette and gives men form and dimension instead of dressing like "squares." Look around and ask to see the new Contour. Your Man will love one! By the way, neckties all began when a Frenchman named Cravatte looped a square of silk around his neck. He didn't realize he was giving birth to a new fashion accessory, the necktie. Cravatte didn't wear the silk merely for its attractiveness. Actually, it was for protection against having his neck cut in fighting sword duels. It seems that the sword tips would become entangled in the fabric, literally saving the swordsman's neck!

EDITORIAL SPEAKINGThe Big Change In Washington

We all knew that Senator Harry Flood Byrd, Sr. would someday and his long tenure in the United States Senate. And at his present age, we knew that the move was imminent. But when it finally came last week, we were all somewhat shocked. The senior senator ended fifty years of public service to Virginia with his resignation, and with his letter of resignation, ended an era never to be forgotten in this state. The senior Byrd has been the unchallenged head of the Democratic Party in Virginia as long as most of us can remember. Now that he has made the decision to quit his post and we can look back a half century at his record, we are left with a feeling of admiration and respect.

We knew Senator Byrd, and regarded him as a fine Southern gentleman... a man with a ready smile and a pleasant personality. But we also knew him as a stubborn political leader, a man who "stuck to his guns" in the face of criticism, but never lost sight of public opinion. Although not all his colleagues in the Senate always agreed with him, he was able to maintain a friendly relationship with them. Although Senator Byrd was well-known for his feelings in money matters, he never bottled up fiscal legislation in his powerful Finance Committee, but he was highly instrumental in keeping a tight rein on the purse strings of the Federal Government, as well as those of Virginia.

One of Byrd's earliest fights in the State Senate centered around roads and highways and the "pay as you go" policy. Byrd resisted an effort to issue bonds. That policy remains today, although the creation of many road authorities have eaten into that policy in recent years. He openly resisted a general sales tax in Virginia, which appears now to be a certainty for the state. More than any other person, Harry Byrd, Sr., was responsible forty years ago for a complete reorganization of Virginia government. His policy was reform and control. And with Byrd began the system of strength in the executive branch of Virginia Government.

After serving as Governor of Virginia he went to the United States Senate in 1932. He was swept in along with the Roosevelt New Deal, but he soon broke with the administration and intensified his continued opposition to an increase in public spending. Byrd called himself "the last of the real New Dealers," and that he was. He always stood for moderation and his views were always the same. In short, he would have to be called "conservative." Perhaps Republican leader Senator Everett Dirksen summed it up the best when he called the Virginia Senator "the rare and honorable Byrd," and a powerful, valuable voice of dissent.

As he goes into retirement at his home, Rosemont, he takes with him an unblemished record, his unswerving convictions, his never questioned integrity, and the affection of thousands of persons in Virginia, the US Senate, and throughout the world. More than anything else, we shall miss his image, and we know that Virginia and the United States has seen the end of the career of a great man and a great leader. We shall miss him.

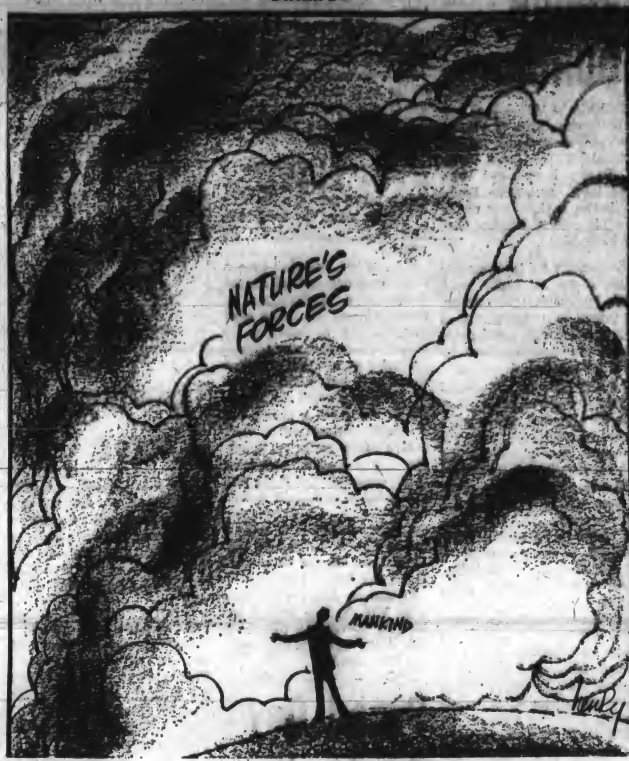

Now that, too, Harry F. Byrd, Jr., has been chosen on an interim appointment. The correctness of this move will be debated in political circles for many months. It will be the only topic of discussion at the non-political meetings scheduled during the weekend. We consider his interim appointment a move that was only the only move that could be made that would hold the Democratic Organization in the state together. The son succeeding the father keeps the Byrd name and public image in the limelight, and the rapidity of the appointment was obviously accomplished to stop any intra-party squabbles before they could begin. The Organization has been powerful in Virginia for seventy years, and has become a way of life for most of Virginia's informed citizenry. What will happen now is open to much speculation. It is doubtful that the younger Byrd, known affectionately by his colleagues as "Little Harry," will immediately emerge as the leader of the Democratic Party in Virginia. In recent years, particularly with the death of many of the old-line leaders, the Organization has served only to hold together basic policies. Those other than the retiring Senator have had much to say in the operation of the state. The Organization has been steadily moving toward moderation and a political "middle of the road." We expect an intensification of these efforts. Several persons, among them Sidney S. Kellam, of Virginia Beach will obviously have much influence upon the future shaping of Virginia politics. There will probably be some differences, but we predict that the powerful Organization will eventually emerge victorious, but with new form and political thinking, as well as new leaders.

We respect "Little Harry." He twice refused to run for Governor of Virginia, because his father was still in the Senate. He did not wish the image of a political dynasty. He, himself has said that no one can ever take his father's place in the hearts of Virginians, and he has said it is difficult to imagine a more challenging assignment than following his father. The Younger Byrd, although living for many years in his father's shadow, is an able man, and a most pleasant fellow. He has served with dignity and clear thinking in the State Senate. He is already an intimate of many men in Washington. Clearly he has the ability, the training and the background to serve Virginia well in his new position, but we feel that if he is to be successful in all of Virginia, he will be forced to change some of his views and adjust others to the betterment of all the state. Most people look for a label today of some kind, and although we must label Harry, Jr., as "conservative" now, we feel he must become more "liberal" now. Perhaps the label, "progressive" or "moderate" fills the bill better. If the new Senator can succeed in this, he can be successful in Virginia Beach, and all the more progressive areas of the state. The burden of proof now lies heavily upon him.

Obviously a hot political fight will take place before the July primary. Byrd, Jr., has indicated he will run for the four year unexpired term of his father. W. Pat Jennings, from southwest Virginia, has also indicated that he will run. Junie Bradshaw, of Richmond, has made certain overtures, as well as a few others. Virginia will elect two Senators next year. The aging A. Willis Roberson has said he will run for another six-year term. We consider this somewhat unwise, regardless of the fireless service he has given Virginia. His candidacy could muddy the waters even more.

Much internal struggle will have to be settled in the next few months, and we believe it will be. Adjustments of thinking must come, and will come. A love of Virginia will overshadow power struggles and political aspirations.

The Traffic Is Heavy

For some time we have been voicing our beliefs on heavy traffic along the roads and highways in Virginia Beach. We have been fully aware of most of the problem areas, and are happy to report that something is finally being done about most of them. We have been deeply concerned with the Shore Drive at Lynnhaven Inlet where four lanes of traffic have had to merge into two lanes to cross the inadequate bridge. This spot has caused some of the most horrible traffic hazards and tieups we have ever had the misfortune to see. Finally the State Highway Department has seen fit to seek bids for the construction of a duplicate bridge there, and the project is now underway. It is about time. The new bridge will solve one major problem area of Virginia Beach.

Work on Independence Boulevard has begun. When it is completed it will take the lion's share of traffic from the north-south flow on Great Neck Road. Construction work on the Virginia Beach to Norfolk Toll Road is in the embryonic stages but it has begun. When completed, it will take much of the problem away from Virginia Beach Boulevard. Other new roads are on the drawing boards, and some of them are nearing the construction phase.

But one area that has been too long overlooked has been Great Neck Road and First Colonial Road. These winding thoroughfares had been scheduled for improvement in 1977, in a master road plan. Fortunately the widening and straightening plans have now been moved up to 1970. It must be recognized that these two roads carry double the traffic they did ten years ago, and little has been done to improve them in that same ten years. On weekdays the flow of traffic approximately 8,000 vehicles on the two roads is actually heavier than on weekends. They are the only through connections from Route 60 to Route 58. The problems there are so serious that we wish plans could be advanced even more. We would like to see improvements in the near future, if possible. We feel that they should receive early consideration and high priority.

Most of us never really become acutely aware of a problem until something drastic happens. That is the case of Great Neck Road. Last month, there were three traffic fatalities on this winding road, an increase, so far, of forty percent over last year. New residential areas have grown up in this area, as well as four schools, thus causing additional traffic. Military installations at either end of the roads have definitely caused a heavy flow.

Both roads are narrow and dangerous. They have not been adequate for years. We fully understand that not everything can be corrected at once, but we wonder how many more fatalities will occur there before 1970. If complete reworking of the roads is not possible before 1970, we suggest that some temporary measures be taken immediately. There are some blind spots that could be removed, and quite possibly a lower speed limit is necessary. Perhaps new enforcement of existing laws is needed. Whatever is needed, it should be done and done soon, before any more of our citizens fall victim to

A Note To Hunters

Deer season opened quite recently in Virginia, and within a few hours after hunters took to the woods, the first hunting fatality was reported. Of course, it was an accident, but the hunter is just as dead. No, it did not happen in Virginia Beach, but it could have. In this case, another hunter heard a noise and apparently mistook the victim for a deer. Both hunters could have been at fault. Perhaps the victim was not wearing bright colored clothing, and did not make himself known to the other hunter. In his anticipation, perhaps, the man who fired the fatal shot was careless. We hear of too many of these hunting accidents every year.

We would like to see every Virginia Beach hunter alive and well at the end of hunting season. We only urge all of them to follow the rules of good common sense while hunting. Hunting is a fine and popular sport, enjoyed by so many. But when human life is endangered by carelessness, we believe it behooves every hunter to exercise extreme caution. All we can ask is that each outdoor sportsman be extra careful this season, so we won't have a hunting fatality in Virginia Beach this year, or any other year.

Merry Christmas

We wish to apologize that we are so late wishing our readers a merry Christmas. However, until recently we honestly did not know that the Christmas season began before Halloween. Somewhere along the line we missed the change.

We were quite upset when we went to a large store in Virginia Beach to buy our daughter a Halloween costume. We had some difficulty finding one, amid the Christmas decorations and displays of Christmas ornaments. And now that Halloween is over, we begin to believe that Christmas must be nearly here.

Never let it be said we are against private enterprise or against how stores sell their merchandise. We know we should do our Christmas shopping early, but this is ridiculous. Next year, we expect to see Santa Claus smiling at us in a store display on the Fourth of July. We disapprove of moving the season back and making it so commercial.

So, Merry Christmas anyway, even if Thanksgiving is not until next week.

THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM

Dear Sir:

Words cannot express my deep appreciation to the many persons whose hard work and unflinching cooperation has made the Princess Anne Woman's Club sponsored 7th Annual Antiques Show and Sale so successful and the best one yet.

To the entire staff of the Virginia Beach Sun, the world's largest resort city's own newspaper, go my gratitude for their excellent reporting in publicizing the antiques show which not only benefited the club and the show but the entire community by keeping it properly informed at all times.

Special thanks go to Mr. Lowenthal, managing editor, and to Doris Padrick for their outstanding interest in our project.

Sincerely,

Mrs. J. James Davis,
general chairman.

On behalf of the staff, the agencies we serve, and the community, I want to express our thanks for the tremendous job you did in the 1965-66 United Communities Fund Campaign.

Because of your enthusiasm and your efforts, all of our agencies can plan for 1966 on a sound budget basis.

While we have not received the final results from the government activities, we are confident they will exceed the figures at our Victory Dinner, and we continue to get reports from the Women's Division which indicate they will exceed their goal. We therefore extend special congratulations to the Women's Residential Unit.

To each of you my sincere appreciation for your loyalty, your enthusiasm, and the way you worked to make the United Communities Fund Campaign a success. It has been a real privilege to work with you.

Sincerely yours,

Frank S. Moore,
General Chairman,
1965-66 Campaign,
United Communities
Fund Campaign.

Dear Sir:

I am writing to express the appreciation of all the members of the Virginia Beach congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses for the news coverage of our training conference held in Petersburg this past weekend.

One thing that was made scripturally clear to us at the meeting was God's view of parents' responsibility in regard to child training.

It was pointed out that "raising a child in the fear and admonition of Jehovah" is not the responsibility of outsiders, but each couple who takes advantage of God's arrangement for producing children will have to answer for the spiritual training of the child. This was food for thought.

Please express our appreciation to your staff.

Yours Truly,

Earl H. Jacobs, Jr.,
Presiding Minister

Letters to the Editor:

The football season is over and the Va. Beach Seahawks came through with an undefeated season for their school. An amazing feat considering the losses by graduation last year of a veteran backfield, plus the loss of their coach, Carlton Bowyer.

Even the sportswriters were amazed at the record the Va. Beach Seahawks compiled during the season starting with their first game with Middleham, a locally unknown team from Richmond, but highly regarded in the Richmond area.

Then came a series of wins with the local teams where they won through a steady grinding, plugging, ground attacks. Most of their victories were won through slow hard ground gaining, winning first downs by wearing down the opposing teams with steady yard by yard gains.

It was with Bayside that the Seahawks finally opened up with air attacks and almost came to grief. Three crucial pass interceptions by Bayside held the Va. Beach team to a 6-6 tie. If they had stuck to their ground attacks the score might have been different.

In the other tie game with Cox, a lucky recovery of a fumble by Cox on the Seahawks five yard line plus some fine kicking by the Cox team resulted in the other 6-6 tie.

Spirit was running high by mid-season and the final game with Kellam High was the climax of the season. Here again by a steady series of ground attacks the Seahawks wore down their opponents yards by yard. By this time in the season, the rookie backfield were becoming seasoned veterans. Don Bradley, a little 130 lb half-back learned to run behind his defense and is on the way to becoming one of the top scorers in the district with his shiftiness and speed.

It was during the final Kellam game that an amusing incident occurred that was lost to the spectators and sportswriters.

John Romano intercepted a Kellam pass and was on his way to a touchdown when the line coach in a tense moment shouted, "There goes a tackler ready to bring John down." Quick as a flash up from the bench jumped sidelined Raglan Pulley, co-captain, and without another thought, ran onto the field and blocked the tackler. The run was called back, of course, but such shows the spirit and calibre of the Va. Beach team who played as a team and as a unit.

Credit alone should not go to the team, and with all due respect to Coach Breedlow, the one man who the boys loved and whom they would blindly follow was Mickey Bird, the line coach. He, it was, who pummeled them, molded them, bullied them, loved them and made a team out of the line that was hard to beat. So again, with all due respect, turn the spotlight on Mickey Bird, ex-Neptune player, and a mighty fine line coach for the undefeated Seahawks.

Sal Romano

Our world today is flat and tasteless. Somehow it has lost its zeal and zest for living. It has lost that distinctive flavor which makes life worthwhile.

Could it be that people are trapped by the ugly spectre of boredom? For people will do almost anything to escape boredom: they will drink, drug themselves, use narcotics, organize footpath crusades, fall in line with "way out adventures," and fling themselves into lost causes and lost hopes just to escape boredom. I suggest that this may be part of the world's problem today, which may account for all the insurgent restlessness which we encounter right here at home as well as abroad. As the angel Gabriel said to De Laud in "Green Pastures": "Everything nailed down is comin' loose!"

Our world is like a big bowl of soup which somebody forgot to salt. Soup without salt is flat and tasteless—and that's the shape our world is in. But consider this: one day Jesus said to his disciples: "You are the salt of the earth." Following our metaphor of the world as a bowl of unsalted soup, it stands to reason, therefore, that Christians ought to be "in the soup."

Christians ought to be the ones giving to the world that distinctive Christian flavor, holding aloft the highest ideals of abundant living, even in the worst situations. The Christian ought to be the one who is filled with the abiding joy and sparkle of God-given life. In a world of living, the Christian should be the one man who reflects the joy of living. In a depressed world, the Christian ought to be the one man who remains calm.

Our trouble is that not enough Christians have reflected that quality of being salt for the world. Too often Christians have been the ones with the sad eyes and long faces. Oliver Wendell Holmes once remarked that he might have entered the ministry if so many ministers he knew had not dressed and acted like undertakers! Robert Louis Stevenson once entered in his diary, as though he were recording an astounding phenomenon: "I went to church today, and was not depressed!"

The world needs your flavor. Despair not that numbers may be small, for a pinch of salt can work wonders. So—get in the soup!

DAR SPEAKER

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Little League is the name which has been adopted from the decision of the American and National leagues to incorporate at the recent meeting of the officers and directors of the two leagues.

Other actions taken at the meeting were to adopt the simplified Constitution found in the official handbook, and it was resolved as the policy of the Board that all past and future profits from the concession stand would be earmarked for equipment or capital improvements of the stand.

Six major teams are to make up the League, and the boundaries of the territory were defined as being East, Atlantic Ocean; North, Fort Story fence and Seashore State Park; West, Seashore State Park and eastern branch of Linkhorn Bay to Cavalier Drive, thence along Virginia Beach Borough line to Owl Creek; and South, Camp Pendleton line.

Carol Danforth was elected treasurer to take the place of Mr. Swenden who had resigned on account of ill health.

The officers and directors of the Virginia Beach Little League are John A. Talliandro, president, 503 24th street, phone 428-4386; Les Dombrowski, vice president, 217 51st street, 428-7105; Melvin Cruser, secretary, 3305 Lakeside drive, 428-4457; Carroll Danforth, treasurer, 219 80th street, 428-6381; W. G. Ryland, player agent, 326 13th street, 428-2000; Roy Doss, umpire-in-chief, 806 Rudee ave., 428-6211; G. W. Soffeld, manager, 806 Atlantic ave., 428-6079; Wm. R. Gurley, grounds and fields, 440 Pine drive, 428-1210; Mrs. R. N. Bishop, ladies auxiliary, 319 27th street, 428-6004; Mrs. T. M. Kamptmueller, fund raising, 904 Brandon road, 428-8430; Mrs. C. R. Bailey, scorekeeping and publicity, 604 21st street, 428-9317; and Carman Freeman, farm team, 300 Pinewood drive, 428-5582.

VIRGINIA BEACH — The November meeting of the Princess Anne County Chapter DAR was held recently at the home of Mrs. R. E. Standing at Virginia Beach.

Mrs. J. Fletcher Bryant, regent, opened the meeting with the recitation of the creeds and salute to the flag with members participating. The invocation was given by Miss Ruth Ford, chaplain.

The highlight of the afternoon came when the National Defense Chairman, Mrs. W. L. Hampton, introduced as guest speaker Judge Richard B. Kellam who delighted his audience with a most enthusiastic and informative talk on Law.

Beginning with primitive man, Judge Kellam touched briefly on the evolving and progressing of law to the Magna Carta and its relationship to the present laws of England. He cited the amazing similarity between the Constitution of Virginia as a colony and the original Constitution of the United States.

He referred to the many phases through history of Tribal Law, Biblical Law, Feudal Law and Common Law, with final emphasis on justice with trial by jury as we know it in our courts today.

At the conclusion of his speech Judge Kellam received a warm ovation. Delicious refreshments were served and a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon meeting of the DAR came to a close.

AAUW MEETS

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Branch of the American Association of University Women met recently at the Country Day School for Girls.

The guest speaker for the meeting was Commander Richard B. Phillips, Public Relations Officer for the 5th Naval District. Slides were used by Commander Phillips in the presentation of his topic, "Sea Power."

Plans for the December luncheon meeting were also discussed at the meeting. Refreshments were served.

The branch was represented this month at the organization's District II Workshop held at the Hampton Tunnal Motel in Norfolk. The topic was "The Mobilization of Community Resources to Raise the Cultural Level of All Children." Those attending were: Mrs. Charles M. Lewis, Mrs. Joseph Sadder, and Mrs. Donald H. Rhodes.

WAVY Signs Agreement

PORTSMOUTH — WAVY Radio (NBC-1350) announces that it has signed an agreement with the Tobacco Sports Network to present one of the biggest and most comprehensive basketball broadcast schedules ever presented in the Tidewater area.

WAVY will air a total of 55 basketball games in the coming months, including the entire home and away schedule of the Duke University Blue Devils. The Duke schedule will include 23 tilts beginning December 1 when they open against VPI at Greensboro. The Duke schedule will also include two games with U. C. L. A., the 1965 NCAA champions, on December 10-11. When Duke is not scheduled, WAVY will present 19 other games involving the champions of N. C. State, North Carolina, Wake Forest, Maryland, Virginia, Clemson and South Carolina. Their foes include Princeton, Utah, Duquesne, Fordham, Penn State, Davidson and Florida State.

As a fitting climax to the 1965-66 basketball season, WAVY will also carry the 7-game ACC Tournament from Raleigh beginning on March 3; the NCAA Regional National Championship Playoffs from College Park, Maryland on March 19-19.

WAVY-Radio To Air Top Game

PORTSMOUTH — WAVY Radio (NBC-1350) has completed arrangements to broadcast one of the biggest college football games of the current season next Saturday, (November 20).

The Michigan State-Notre Dame game will be played by WAVY exclusively in the Tidewater area. Air time for the game is 1:05 p.m. The Spartans from Michigan State won their first undisputed Big Ten Title last Saturday as they downed Indiana 27-13. The victory and title earns them a clear claim to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

Still rated as the No. 1 team in the nation, the Spartans will face another stiff test as they meet the fourth ranked Irish of Notre Dame. The South Bend eleven had their attack stalled for three quarters last Saturday as the Tar Heels of North Carolina held them scoreless. The Fighting Irish finally pushed across 17 points in the final quarter to register their seventh win in eight starts.

Styron, 6-0, 150, of Virginia Beach, a mainstay in the fullback slot for the Chohan College Braves gridiron squad that rose to third place among the nation's junior college football powers, will ring down the curtain on his freshman year of pigskin performances on Thursday night when his Braves face the University of Richmond Frosh Spiders at Chohan. Styron has displayed power in playing in all games for the Braves and is being heavily relied upon for next year's edition of the gridiron Braves.

SAILOR OF THE MONTH

OCEANA — Aviation Machinist Mate (JG) Edward Charles Kelly I. Jones, has been selected as the Naval Air Station Oceana's outstanding Sailor of the Month for November 1965.

Jones, who is attached to the Power Plant Division of the Aircraft Maintenance Department was nominated by his division officer, LT V. C. Sledge and selected by a board of senior Chief Petty Officers from aboard the station.

In nominating Jones for Sailor of the Month, LT Sledge said that "Jones is charged with the supervision and direction of repair of jet engines to a depth not often found in second class petty officers. Additionally, during periods when the ship's Senior Petty Officer is absent, the task of planning and supervising the work of 24 men falls on Jones, who is thoroughly competent." Jones has received Good Conduct Medals from both the Navy and the Air Force. His appearance and neatness of person and dress is especially impressive.

Jones who hails from Draper, North Carolina, is married and resides in Virginia Beach.

'Firecracker'

Earlier in the meeting, a committee to be headed by Assistant School Supt. M. P. Strickler, was appointed to study the possibility of banning students from driving automobiles or riding motorcycles to school. F. W. Cox noted that the recent "tragic accidents" involving Virginia Beach high school students has caused him "a great deal of concern." But he added that this worry had not begun just this year. Cox referred to an automobile accident recently on Great Neck Road, in which two students were killed and two critically injured.

Cox also said that more and more boys are purchasing the small motorcycles, and that one or two schools had already prohibited them on the grounds. He said that other school boards have taken action banning the use of vehicles by students during the school day, except for those students involved in programs such as Distributive Education, in which students attend school part of the day and are employed part of the day. The students in the Great Neck Road accident were DE students on their way to work.

Another problem cited by Cox was the parking problem at school, and what he called a "correlation of truancy" to the use of automobiles. The superintendent said that he could "envision a lot of unhappiness" among some students and parents if the ban were imposed, but suggested again that the matter be fully looked into.

He said there is no justification for a student to drive or ride a motorcycle to school, because "We have transportation across the city—4,000 miles a day." He added that some of the areas neighboring Virginia Beach do not provide public transportation at public cost, and that "it would be different" if Virginia did not.

VIRGINIA BEACH — On Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, ground was broken for an extensive expansion program at Scott Memorial Methodist Church located on First Colonial Road near Oceana.

Before a gathering of more than 100 people, an impressive service was conducted by the Reverend H. Wark Curry, Pastor. Those participating in the ground-breaking were Dr. Carl J. Sanders, Superintendent of the Norfolk District; Mayor Frank Dusch, Mayor of the city of Virginia Beach; Mrs. Irvin J. Upson, the daughter of the late Shelby D. Scott, after whom the church is named; Frank W. Cox, under whose leadership the present building was erected; William E. McClurg, Church Architect; and Mr. Sam Potter, Contractor.

Scott Memorial Church was originally called Providence and was located near Seaside. It was probably on a circuit with Virginia Beach, Cape Henry, Nimitz, Tabernacle, and Salem. In 1886 The Reverend D. G. C. Butts suggested that the church be moved to Oceana. In approximately 1911, the name of the church was changed from Providence to Oceana. In 1939 Oceana and Virginia Beach were made separate appointments, and The Reverend A. A. McNeer became the first pastor.

Following his death in 1942, S. D. Scott, Sr. left valuable beach property to this church. Under the leadership of J. B. Senter and F. W. Cox, some $60,000 was raised and added to $41,000 from the Scott estate. In 1948 The Official Board suggested that the church be known as Scott Memorial, and a Building Committee composed of J. E. Winslow, C. C. Whitehead, Jr., Mrs. W. L. Murphy, Mrs. Leonard Hiteshew, Mrs. I. J. Upson and R. P. Wright developed plans which led to ground-breaking ceremonies on May 14, 1960, following which the present plant was erected.

The present Building Committee is composed of Howard P. Ives, chairman, Irvin C. Evans, D. M. Caughman, Mrs. G. E. Gurgues, Milton G. Ferrell, Arthur J. Felix, Stuart C. Mallory, and Mrs. Irvin J. Upson.

UNITED PLANS VA. BEACH OFFICE

VIRGINIA BEACH — United Mortgage Servicing Corp., which is located at 33rd Street and Pacific Avenue, went before the Planning Commission last week and presented plans to construct a home office which will house approximately 700 employees.

The company requested rezoning of 50.6 acres on Old Virginia Beach Road between Seaside and Birdneck Acres. The tract of land is bordered by South Birdneck Road on the east and Great Neck Creek on the west.

United Mortgage was started in 1963 as Lomas Realty Security Corp. The company's name was changed when it became a subsidiary of United Improvement Investing, Inc. of New York. The firm moved its home office to Virginia Beach in July 1964. United operates about 30 branch offices coast to coast at present and plans to open at least 40 additional branches by 1970.

The company also applied for a use permit to operate a sewage treatment plant in the area, but the firm's attorney John James said, "We have no intention whatsoever of ever using it."

City sewerage is planned for the area by October 1964, and the company will not start construction until at least that time, according to James. He said the commission's approval of the application was necessary for business reasons.

Charles Sanders, a resident of Birdneck Acres said he was in favor of such use of the property but he voiced strong disapproval of the increase of vehicular traffic caused by the 700 vehicles in and out of the area daily.

Virginia Beach Then

Believe it or not, this is Atlantic Avenue at the corner of 19th Street. The picture was taken sometime in the mid-twenties. At right is old Galilee Church, now torn down. To the left is the now defunct Virginia Bank and Trust Company, and the old Children's home. Oddly enough, Virginia Bank and Trust Company later became known as Virginia National Bank, and was sold to the National Bank of Commerce, now again called Virginia National Bank. When this picture was taken, paving and lighting operations were being carried out to make Atlantic Avenue a divided roadway. This was not successful, and the median strip was removed about three years later.

And Now

Today, not one familiar landmark remains at the site, which was once a focal point of the ocean side of Atlantic Avenue remains. Several small restaurants and shops have replaced the bank and Children's Home, and the Jefferson Hotel can be seen in the background. Atlantic Avenue is once again a four-lane street, but without the lighted median strip.

In 1909 Main Street was always busy . . . crowded with trolley's, carriages and pedestrians . . .

. . . then H. D. Oliver had been serving more than 44 years.

The first trolley appeared in the late 1890's . . . as Main Street was growing into the city's most important business street. The automobile was new, and very few were on the streets yet. In those times H. D. Oliver had already established a reputation for excellence, providing dignified, carefully handled burial and funeral services of every type.

Today the trolley has been replaced by big buses and the horse by the automobile . . . but H. D. Oliver remains in its first position as Norfolk's finest . . . now with two fine homes, the newest at Virginia Beach. A capable staff will help you with every detail and will assure you of the finest of services. Call on H. D. Oliver.

DORIS PADRICK'S VIEW of VIRGINIA BEACH

Have been covering a lot of territory lately, me and my trusty (though sometimes temperamental) Polaroid... met some old friends, talked with some new ones, travelled unfamiliar roads, saw and recorded many fascinating things... and thoroughly enjoyed ourselves, in spite of the not uncommon, common cold!

Discards reclaimed... Afterthoughts on the 'really big' antiques show—the satisfaction of owning an antique comes from the finding of what might be overlooked as a piece of junk, reclaiming it, taking time and effort to get beneath the ugly outer crust, and revealing its true beauty for a second chance of usefulness... and this parallels the benefits which will come from the profits realized by the Princess Anne Woman's Club for the Atlantic Mental Hygiene Clinic, in that people who feel lost and destined for the slum pile of humanity will also be given that second chance... Slightly confused...

Was out through the areas of Little Neck and Eagles Nest Point recently. We were looking for an address which had been incorrectly given. For a couple of hours we wandered up and down hills, in and out of driveways (got chased by big mean-looking dogs!), but had a completely enjoyable morning. It was one of those rare Indian summer-type days, the sun pure gold shining on the multi-colored autumn shades in acres and acres of woodlands. This section is one of the most peaceful to be found, populated sparsely by families who enjoy gracious living. They combine their restored homes with treasures of the past blended with modern convenience with rare taste and simplicity. Noticed many new homes being constructed in that area which was once exclusive countryside of a few... others are finding serenity is still available in Virginia Beach!

We are often confused trying to find a new community in the scattered miles that make up Virginia Beach... If, sometime, you should notice a little blue wagon being driven by a perplexed looking female in a white leather jacket, you might offer assistance... it's probably me and my Polaroid in search of a picture and a story...

Granny comes back...

The camera missed a good shot the other day out at Cox High School. We were in a hurry to get our assignment completed and were caught up with the corridor stampede of class changing. Everyone was moving too fast... but we glimpsed two little high school girls wearing the latest fad—the granny dress!... and we wished we could have recorded it for you. They looked like little girls playing 'mama' as they might have done 10 years before; or you might say they looked like they just got out of bed and hadn't had time to take off the nightgown. Anyway, we liked them though they may not be exactly proper for school. They give the girls a modest demure look which is completely feminine and a big improvement on some of the current fads. Tuna! Telephone...

One of the most modern items we have come across is the new touch-tone telephone. No, we don't have one, but we know of a young man who got tired of competing for the family phone and decided to order his own. And he wanted the latest thing. He got a lot of snickers and rude comments from the older generation, but he persisted and got his way... and his phone. Now his phone is the most popular around—everyone who comes in must try the new buttons, which give out with a different tone for each number pushed. Getting the number is more fun even than getting the answer!

And we have been asked to find out if someone is missing a half-grown orange and white tomcat. He appeared at a home in which a couple of youngsters have been wanting just such a cat for a long time. The cat has adopted the family and has been with them for over a week. It is a healthy, well-cared for animal and very affectionate. They feel he must have come from a good home... and maybe some other child is heartbroken at its disappearance. They would like to keep the cat, but if it does have a little mistress or master somewhere, they are willing to give it back—if the person asking for it can prove without a doubt that it is indeed their pet! According to Walt Disney in last week's TV show, cats are not owned by law; they independently live where they wish!

Marines Offer Aid

The Marine Corps Reserve and the citizens of Tidewater have been offered "a piece of the action" in Vietnam, a spokesman for Tidewater's two Marine Corps Reserve units announced today.

This can be accomplished he said, through individual contributions to CARE in the name of the newly established "Marine Corps Reserve Civic Action Fund for Vietnam."

"We of the two Marine Corps Reserve units are initiating an all-out drive to secure donations to aid the Civic Action Programs of our Regular Marine Forces in Vietnam," the spokesman stated. "Any citizen or group in the Tidewater area desiring to make contributions in support of the program may obtain special envelopes for this purpose by contacting either of the Marine Corps Reserve units. They are the Marine Air Reserve, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, phone 444-2259, or the Supply Battalion, Marine Corps Reserve, Navy/Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, phone 568-2096."

"Money is not being collected by the Marines," the spokesman said. "All donations are tax exempt and are on a voluntary and individual basis to CARE."

CARE is a U.S. Government approved agency and is already operating in Vietnam and is capable of efficiently handling donations, making purchases, and providing transportation to Vietnam where the needed supplies will be turned over to the III Marine Amphibious Force for use in support of their civic action programs.

MILITARY HOUSING IS BEING BUILT

NORFOLK — A new type of housing for military families in the Tidewater area is being constructed off Virginia Beach Boulevard several blocks west of the Military Highway overpass. To be known as the Crown Point Apartments, the development is the first in the area being built under section 810 of the Military Housing Act of 1959.

Crown Point will consist of 300 two, three and four bedroom units. The units are being built under the statutory authorization of Section 810 of the Housing Act of 1959, as amended by Section 611(a) of Public Law 87-78. This Federal legislation authorizes the Federal Housing Administration to insure mortgage loans for construction of housing for occupancy by military and essential civilian personnel of the Department of Defense where such housing is determined to be in the interest of national defense.

Crown Point Apartments were approved by the Defense Department and the Federal Housing Administration because of the need of additional housing in the Norfolk area for families of military personnel as determined by housing surveys made under the auspices of the Navy Department.

Military personnel desiring to live in the new town-house apartments must be certified as eligible for occupancy by the Navy. The units are scheduled for completion by January 1966, and there are now forty units ready for occupancy. Rates range from $110 to $150 per month.

A second unit of 180 apartments will be constructed at the same site next year.

BRIDGE BID REQUESTED

RICHMOND — Bids have been requested by the State Highway Department for 14 road and bridge projects, new residency office buildings at Bedford and Louisa, an addition to the Fredericksburg residency office, and a truck weighing station on Interstate 61.

Featuring the call for bids is a project to divide nearly six miles of US 220 in Henry County and a parallel bridge to divide US 60 at Lynnhaven Inlet in Virginia Beach.

Other work includes six bridges on Interstate 64 in Chesapeake; the relocation of a section of Route 6 south of US 250 at the foot of Afton Mountain, paving the new road between Route 5 and the Hopewell bridge, which is now under construction, and five secondary system projects.

The project on US 220 will provide two additional lanes, either by parallel lanes or complete construction of four new lanes, from Bassett Fork to the Franklin County line.

The Lynnhaven Inlet bridge on US 60 will be almost identical to the present 1,528-foot high-level structure and will erase a bottleneck, which is becoming more serious daily as traffic increases. The bridge is supposed to be finished by the end of next year.

APPOINTED

VIRGINIA BEACH — Donald J. McClish has been appointed real estate representative by Shell Oil Company.

A native of Danville, Indiana, McClish was graduated from Michigan State University in 1959 with a BA degree in Business. Upon graduation, he served two years in the U. S. Army in Okinawa, attaining the rank of first lieutenant.

McClish joined Shell's sales department in 1962 in Tampa, Florida. Since that time he has held sales assignments in Cocoa Beach, Florida, Columbia and Spartanburg, South Carolina. As real estate representative, he will assume responsibility for the Norfolk Area. CENSUS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Local residents will help provide information on the causes of unemployment nationally when they answer questions in the Census Bureau's Current Population Survey which began this week.

Census Bureau interviewers ask job seekers why they are looking for work; for example, did they lose or quit their previous job, drop out of school, or what?

This question will be in addition to the usual ones asked each month in the survey about employment and unemployment, which supply the information for national figures released by the U. S. Department of Labor.

VIRGINIA BEACH — American Legion Post 113 will hold its regular meeting with dinner tonight at 8 p.m.

A short movie will be shown followed by a brief commentary concerning the organization of an Explorer Post.

The American Legion Department Fall Conference will be held Saturday and Sunday, November 20 and 21, at Natural Bridge. It is hoped there will be a large representation from the local post.

SECTION B

GIFTS FOR G.I.'s

VIRGINIA BEACH — "Operation Shoe Box" has been instigated by a group of club women who are determined that the men fighting in Viet Nam will know they are remembered and backed wholeheartedly by the families at home.

Mrs. Thomas Russ and Mrs. Dan Hefflin request that all civic clubs, churches, garden clubs, women's clubs, and, of course, individuals who wish to show support of our armed forces in Viet Nam will join in the effort to send a shower of gifts to the men at Christmas time.

It has been tagged "Operation Shoe Box" because the packages to be sent should not exceed that size. And inside the package can be the items most requested from over there—fudge or fruit cake in tins, paper back books, razor blades, self-sealing envelopes, wool socks, tobacco, gum, pre-sweetened fruit drinks, and other such simple necessities.

Inside the package, the donor is requested to put a card with name and address, and the outside of the package is to be gift-wrapped.

Memorial Mass

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Father Nicholas J. Habetz of the Knights of Columbus is sponsoring a John F. Kennedy Memorial Mass at St. Gregory the Great Catholic Church, Virginia Beach Blvd., on Saturday, November 20, at 4:30 p.m.

All Knights of Columbus of the Tidewater area are urged to attend. The public is also invited.

in decorated paper over which will go the heavy wrapping paper and labeled with Christmas Viet Nam and with its contents to assist the chaplains in distribution of the gifts from home.

Deadline for getting the packages to the pickup points is Wednesday, November 24. Pickup points for the packages are at all 7-11 stores and at WKVK.

Anyone desiring more information regarding "Operation Shoe Box" may get in touch with Mrs. Betty Foxe and Mrs. Ed Dixon in Chesapeake; Mrs. Don Frazier and Mrs. Robert Gahagan of Norfolk; and Mrs. Quinton Marlow, Mrs. Thomas Russ, Mrs. Dan Hefflin, and Mrs. James McCann in Virginia Beach.

THOMPSON TO HEAD 1965 M.S. DRIVE

Elbert L. Baker, President of the Tidewater Area Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Association announced the appointment of A. R. "Buster" Thompson to direct the 7,000 volunteers who will man the March for Dystrophy on November 18, 20 and 21.

Research and patient service expenditures totaling $3,743,821.01 are reflected in the 1965 Annual Report of Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, released today by Baker, President of the Association's Tidewater Chapter. An additional $873,906.85 was expended by MDA for professional education and training, Public Health, Education and Community Services, bringing total program expenditures for the year ending March 31, 1965, to $4,617,727.86.

"This amount," Mr. Thompson noted, "represents 80.1% of every dollar spent by the Association in fiscal 1965."

We're proud of the high percentage of program vs non-program expenditures and especially of the fact that fund-raising costs were a low 7.5% of total expenditures and administration expenses only 6.4%.

"Nevertheless," Thompson pointed out, "we need substantially greater income. In fiscal 1965, the Association was unable to spend as much on research as it would have liked because, while income remained relatively stable, the cost of patient services rose by some $300,000." These services, Thompson said, are essential and the Association is pledged to provide them.

But while they give a degree of comfort and keep patients as healthy as possible pending a cure," he said, "they cannot save the lives of some 200,000 victims of Muscular Dystrophy. Only a research breakthrough can do that."

This breakthrough is what we are striving for, otherwise the majority of these victims will succumb before they reach their 21st birthday."

Dr. John S. Thiemeyer, Jr., Medical Advisor, indicated that research in the field of neuromuscular diseases has gained so much momentum that, even if MDA's income were doubled, there would not be sufficient dollars to finance every last project which shows promise. He then quoted from the statement made in the Annual Report by the Association's National President, Mr. Paul Cohen: "We are proceeding on the assumption that every project submitted by a reputable investigator, and approved by our Medical Advisory Board, should receive our support; it could be this very project which will provide the answers we seek."

Mr. Thompson urged all citizens of Tidewater to increase their contributions to this year's "March Against Muscular Dystrophy." If everyone gives an extra dollar or two," Thompson said, "the price of research on this terrible disease can be quickened and more lives will ultimately be saved."

One of the nation's major voluntary health agencies, MDAA carries on a World-Wide research grants-in-aid and fellowship program designed to find effective treatments for Muscular Dystrophy and related neuro-muscular disorders affecting millions. The Association also maintains 67 Clinics located in major population centers throughout the country and provides a wide variety of patient community services through some 350 affiliated chapters.

Here in Tidewater, the Association's program includes a clinic at Norfolk General Hospital with John S. Thiemeyer, Jr., M.D., Advisor and Dr. George F. E. Baker, Jr., Director. Dr. E. L. Baker, Jr., Director of the oldest Muscular Dystrophy Clinic in the Nation and has been in operation since 1950.

This Chapter provides many things for the welfare of our victims such as therapy treatments not only in the Clinic but at home as well, necessary braces, special diets, medical needs and Wheelchairs.

"I have just received a donation of $100.00 from a group of ladies sponsored by Mrs. Marie Edwards of Chesapeake who held their annual Christmas party at the Norfolk Armory for Muscular Dystrophy," Mr. Thompson said, "this kind of civic kindness is what the citizens of Tidewater want to see. Join Mr. Jerry Lewis, the National Campaign Chairman, Mr. Elbert L. Baker, our local President, our Volunteer Workers for Muscular Dystrophy and myself on November 18-21, with their contribution to help find a cure for this crippling and dreadful affliction."

SHIP LAUNCHED MONDAY

NORFOLK — A new hydrographic survey vessel, the McArthur, was launched Monday at Norfolk. The 175-foot, 985-ton vessel was constructed by the Norfolk Shipbuilding and Drydock Corporation for the Coast and Geodetic Survey, an agency of the Department of the Interior. The launching ceremony took place 11 a.m., at the Berkley Plant.

The McArthur, designed to chart U. S. coastal waters for safe navigation, is the first of two identical ships to be built at the shipyards. Keel-laying ceremonies will be held Nov. 22 for the second, the Davidson. Overall cost of the two vessels is $4,887,324. They are being built under supervision of the Maritime Administration.

The McArthur will be named after Lt. William P. McArthur, a C&GS commissioned officer who conducted the first major survey of the Pacific Coast in the 1840's. The Davidson is being named for George Davidson, a 19th Century C&GS geodesist, geographer and astronomer sometimes referred to as "the father of Pacific Coast geography." David R. Baldwin, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Administration, was the principal speaker at the launching. Mrs. Jack Bennett, a resident of Port Republic, and great granddaughter of McArthur, christened the ship. Mrs. McArthur, christened the ship. Mrs. McArthur, christened the ship. Mrs. McArthur, christened the ship.

The keel of the McArthur was laid July 13, 1960, and the ship is scheduled for commissioning in August 1966. It will be equipped with specialized depth recording and positioning systems, will be built of welded steel construction strengthened for navigation in ice and will be propelled by diesel engines, with twin-screw, reversible pitch propellers. The vessel will have accommodations for 100 officers and crew. The vessel will also have limited oceanographic facilities for current and magnetic observations and water and ocean floor analyses.

Christmas In The Country

The spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. DeHart at 2222 Rose Hall Drive will be the setting for the Cape Henry Woman's Club's annual Christmas in the Country on December 1, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A $1 donation, which will benefit the Windsor Wood Library fund, will provide the chance to see the lovely and unusual decorations in the house; and the 'original country store' will have available the many festive items for holiday entertaining and gift giving. Rocking Chair Donated VIRGINIA BEACH — The newest branch of the Auxiliary to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach is the Florence Nightingale unit which was formed little over a month ago.

The more than fifty members have been busily engaged in making life more pleasant for the patients in the children's ward. Felt bean bags have been made for toys and many other sewing items are in the process of completion to be donated to the hospital. Wanting to give whatever might be needed the most, the new branch asked for suggestions on a "rocking chair" was the immediate response. The "tender loving care" so essential to the recovery and security of children in a hospital has been found to be linked closely with the warmth of being held while gently rocking.

Now that service has been made available to the little patients by the thoughtful gift of the Florence Nightingale branch of the Auxiliary to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach, And its cushions seldom get cold!

BIG BOOK

The atlas is quite an armful. Chip had a time lugging it down off the shelf, but he wanted, once again, to look at some of the fascinating pictures.

He's a small boy for such a big book. Maybe he doesn't understand all of it. But it whets his curiosity, and the curiosity of a small boy is truly insatiable.

Even as Chip glances at the pictures, questions are racing through his mind. And to whom will he address these questions? To you!

When youngsters ask questions, it is up to us, supposedly "grownup" and therefore wiser, to try to give them the right answers. In this day of sometimes dubious and changing values, that isn't always easy. We must first make sure that we have the true basic answers ourselves. There is no surer way of doing this than by arming ourselves with the faith and wisdom found in the Holy Scriptures and in our churches.

FOLLIES, FUN PLUS!

"Sawdust Sillies," this year's Cabaret Follies, presented by the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Junior Woman's Club last weekend at the Civic Center was certainly not silly. Directed by Joe Landis, also the choreographer, it was an evening of unparalleled mirth, side-splitting laughter and highly sophisticated costuming.

The microphone was tuned slightly too loud on Friday night. Landis, gulping ice water in the lobby during intermission remarked, "How in the world can I know how loud the mike is when I am practically sitting on the drum trying to direct from the middle of the band!" True — a harassed young man, he did a great job.

The orchestra was Russell House's playing for dancing pleasure before and after the two-hour floor show. Mary Jane Utley was rehearsal pianist. Oceana Beauty School did the hairstyling and Merle Norman Cosmetic Studio furnished the make-up.

Eileen Christian was chairman of the cabaret and her co-chairman Millie McGuire headed up the large committee.

All scenes, thirteen in all, cannot be described, but "Hitting the Sawdust Trail" (the theme and action took place in and outside the Big Tent) with Jo Kellam and her Red Hot Mamas (past presidents and officers of the senior club) brought down the house singing "I'm Gonna Change My Way of Living." Jo and her hot mama chorus had the male audience wolf whistling and practically on the stage with them! The Red Hot Mamas were Celia Maestas, Thelma Brennan, Agnes Aldrich, Lucille Clark, Gladys Davenport, May Berry and Mary Zell.

Ringmaster Clark Graves held the show together. The Caavas Cities, an all male chorus, singing "Tenderly If We Must" was a scream, with costumes popping and loss of wigs.

Shirley Fontress was better than Judy Garland singing "Rock-a-Bye My Baby"; Rita Potter ground out "Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey," and Pat Gamage made night life worth living in her slinky pink satin and large feather hat as she rendered "Making Whoopee."

As Jimmy Durante would say—

"What guys and gals, what a cause, what an evening!" Of course, we didn't win a door prize—but, still What An Evening!

VOCALISTS MAY JOIN CIVIC CHORUS

NORFOLK—An "Evening at the Opera" will be the January 17 presentation of the Norfolk Civic Chorus and the Norfolk Symphony Orchestra, it has been announced by director of music, Edgar Schenkman.

In a personal interview, Schenkman, who will conduct the production, was enthusiastic about the decision to present this program for the third in the Symphony Association's Season of six concerts.

"The entire program will be drawn from the operatic repertoire," he said. "The Civic Chorus will sing popular choruses from favorite operas. There will be orchestral overtures, ballet music, interludes, etc. Arias will be presented by the four soloists who will lead each section of the chorus," he continued. "Nothing like it has been presented in Norfolk at least within the past two decades."

A reorganization of the Chorus into four sections, each to be led permanently by a local professional soloist will do much to strengthen the group which is now hard at work on the January presentation," he added.

Vocalists in the greater Tidewater area are invited to join the Chorus. There are vacancies in both men's and women's sections. Adults of all ages and interested high school students, college students, and military personnel are a part of the group.

Chorus president, Commander Keith D. Lawrence, USN, a dynamic leader, said the membership aim for the Civic group is 150 voices. Those interested may join by attending any rehearsal at 8 p.m. on Monday nights, at Old Shalom Temple Social Hall, Redgate Avenue near Stockley Gardens.

The Civic Chorus also will appear with the Norfolk Symphony in the final concert of the season, April 25.

BROKER
EDWARD P. BROGAN

During the recent rash of brush fires in Virginia Beach, at least one merchant seemed to receive extra benefit. Jim Wannall of the Princess Theatre claims his program of a couple of weeks ago, HELP, got just a bit more than expected. The marquee read "HELP" is on the way, and sure enough the WGH Radio remote unit, a California recording group, hundreds of autos returning from the Plaza Bowl, beautiful fall weather and four brush fires adjacent to the theater parking lot brought the Plaza Fire Dept. and several thousand people right up to the front doorstep. "Honest," said Jim. "I didn't have a thing to do with setting the fires. Sometimes extra help can get out of hand. We filled the theater three times that afternoon with a motion picture that had played all over the area. I love to do business, but, there was just a little too much HELP on the way!"

House Plants

Flowering plants and foliage plants make decorative accents that contribute to the charm of a home or apartment, says Dr. Paul Smeal, horticulturist at Virginia Tech.

House plants are available in a wide range of sizes with blooms of many colors, leaves of various shades of green, and numerous shapes and textures. Displayed separately or together, flowering and foliage plants will fit any type of architecture or any period of furnishings, says Smeal.

Plants should be grouped together to gain a dramatic effect impossible when single plants are scattered about helter-skelter. A row of colorful flowering plants lined together in a window sill or near a window is very effective. They also may be grouped on the steps of a wide staircase, on a cart, on a table, or in a plant holder.

Says Smeal, "You can easily and quickly dramatize a picture window or decorate an awkward corner with big, handsome, and long-lasting foliage plants such as philodendron, ficus, or schefflera. Select foliage plants in proper scale to the room and to the location in the room where they are to be displayed."

According to the specialist, small foliage and flowering plants look best on small tables or in small areas. Large plants are more appropriate in more spacious areas. As a rule, it's best to concentrate house plants, either small or large, in one area to achieve a coordinated decorative scheme.

Dry heat is the bane of all house plants, so keep them away from radiators and other heating units.

This is the season of Thanksgiving, when traditionally we pause to give thanks for the blessings and for the good things that are a part of our way of life.

Golden words, indeed, are these two: "Thank You." We should use them more often, all of us.

At this season, in addition to being thankful for the things which enrich our personal lives, we don't think it too amiss to suggest we might consider a few other things worthy of a bit of appreciation.

Our town. The good folks who live and work in the community. The merchants and tradesmen who provide goods and services as we need them. The folks who contribute in various ways to the good of the community.

To all who make our community a fine place in which to work and to live, we say, "Thank You."

DEMOCRATS IN PLAZA ORGANIZE AND PLAN

VIRGINIA BEACH — Grass-roots efforts are underway in Princess Anne Plaza, with the hope of giving the Democratic Organization in Virginia Beach a "shot in the arm." The Plaza is one of three precincts in Virginia Beach carried by Republicans in the recent General Election. Immediate plans of the newly organized Democratic Club include attempts to get as many people as possible in Princess Anne Plaza to pay poll taxes, enabling them to vote in the Primary next summer. The deadline for paying the taxes is December 5th.

The first organizational meeting of a dozen or so residents in the Plaza, who describe themselves as "loyal Democrats," was called last night in efforts to get more people qualified to vote in the next election.

The meeting was held at the home of Bill Thomas, a Sears, Roebuck employee, who lives on Pewter Road. Thomas was elected president of the group. James Auguston, another Sears employee, was elected vice-president, and William Hoback, a telephone company employee, was elected secretary.

Besides residents of the Plaza area, the meeting was attended by Democratic National Committeeman Sidney S. Kellam, Lynnhaven Councilman James Darden and Bayside Councilman Larry Marshall, who incidentally is also an employee of Sears.

Kellam commended the neighborhood gathering in their efforts to organize and briefly addressed the group. He discussed the upcoming City Council election, and said, "Nobody knows when the Councilmatic election will take place, but it will probably be next year, unless the court upsets it."

Attention is still focusing in the courts concerning reapportionment of Virginia Beach City Council, but there is some confusion at present as to who will hear the case, since a three-judge federal court has said recently that it has no jurisdiction in the matter. A group of citizens filed the suit some months ago in U.S. District Court seeking at-large elections for the entire Council or for reapportionment of the present Virginia Beach Boroughs on a one-man, one-vote basis. In the present Council, one man represents each Borough, with the exception of Virginia Beach Borough, which has five representatives on the Council. This situation was brought about by the merger of Princess Anne County and the City of Virginia Beach. At that time, the old City Council and the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors were merely joined together.

Masonic Grand Master of Virginia, Walter Albert Porter.

Artist's conception of the new Lynnhaven Masonic Lodge Temple to be located on North Lynnhaven Road, just off Virginia Beach Boulevard.

City Council has already approved its own plan for reapportionment, which must be upheld by a court. The plan involves the election of an all-man council with one representative from each borough and four at-large representatives. However, all residents of the city would vote on all 11 councilmatic candidates.

At the Plaza meeting, Kellam advocated the Council plan, saying, "The most important person to you is your councilman. The city is 50 miles long. If we don't keep a councilman in each area, it'll be hard for you." Kellam added that the councilman from a given area should be right where voters can talk to him and discuss any problems.

Kellam also said, "The Democratic Party is far closer to the people than the Republican Party. It has a far better understanding of people who have to work and live in a city like this." Basically, problems for the Organization in the Plaza have sprung from recent school and zoning disputes, and reportedly anti-organization residents capitalized on the disputes and led the fight to carry the precinct for the GOP.

Committeeman Kellam emphasized the need for grass-roots groups, such as the new one in the Plaza, in order to keep the Democrats in power. He said a little disagreement among members of the Party was not serious, and that it is not necessary to agree with everything the Party does. In his remarks, Kellam pointed out the importance of national and state leadership in the Democratic Party, but emphasized that the most important person to a small area is the closest elected official — the City Councilman.

A second meeting of the newly created group will be held November 30th, to map out future strategy.

CEREMONIES START WORK ON 2 BUILDINGS

LYNNHAVEN — The cornerstone for the new Lynnhaven Masonic Temple will be laid on Saturday, November 27. The new building, expected to be finished during the spring of 1966, is located on North Lynnhaven Road, off Virginia Beach Boulevard. The ceremonies marking the setting of the first stone will begin at 1 p.m.

The Grand Master of the 71 thousand Masons in Virginia, Most Worshipful Walter A. Porter, will be on hand to lay the cornerstone. Members of the Job's Daughters Bethel No. 17, of Virginia Beach, will sing and the ceremony will be conducted according to the ancient customs of the Masonic fraternity.

When completed, the white glazed brick building is expected to cost approximately $65 thousand. Lynnhaven Lodge was chartered early in 1962, and its 123 members have been meeting at Lynnhaven Methodist Church, while plans for the new building were being finalized.

Two hours after the ceremony at the new Temple at 3:30 p.m., Porter will take part in the cornerstone laying ceremonies of the new King's Grant Presbyterian Church on Little Neck Road. Members of the Job's Daughters will again sing. And the ceremony will again follow ancient customs of the Masons. The pastor of the new church, Raymond C. Flitton and the Worshipful Master of Lynnhaven Lodge No. 230, Frank A. Clayton, have extended a cordial invitation to the general public and all other church and Masonic bodies in Tidewater to attend both ceremonies.

Grand Master Porter has practiced medicine in Hillville for thirty years, and has been quite active in professional and Masonic organizations as well as in Community affairs.

8 INJURED IN WRECK

VIRGINIA BEACH — Eight people were sent to area hospitals Friday night following a four car accident on Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Police say one of the vehicles jumped the median strip and collided with three other vehicles during rush hour traffic.

The car, driven by Harold S. Watson, 40, of the 7400 block of Wildwood Drive, ran across the median strip between Davis and Chinese Corners as it was westbound, police said.

Patrolman K. L. LaGrotta said Watson's car smashed into a vehicle headed east along the boulevard that was driven by Raymond E. Murphy, 23, of the 2003 block of Saturn Street. Watson's car was spun around by the impact of the accident and its rear-end struck two other automobiles.

According to police, Watson and his brother, Alton L. Watson, 30, were treated at the L.H.C. Creek Dispensary and were transferred to Portsmouth Naval Hospital.

Murphy, his wife, and their two children were also taken to Portsmouth Naval Hospital, police said. Two persons in the third car, Marie P. Patterson, 37, and her six-year-old daughter, were treated at Norfolk General Hospital. The driver of the third car, Doyle E. Patterson, was not injured.

No one in the fourth automobile was injured in the accident.

C of C To Launch Drive

VIRGINIA BEACH — An early morning breakfast at Princess Anne Plaza on Tuesday, November 30, will launch a whirlwind membership drive by members of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, according to Michael Savides, chairman of the membership committee.

At breakfast workers will hear the Chamber story from President A. B. Crews and will be shown the Virginia Beach movie, "Yours for the Choosing."

Council Hears Protests

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council Monday morning heard protests from two fronts.

Representatives from the Virginia Beach Council of Garden Clubs and the Ocean Park Civic League protested strongly against the construction of three large signboards on Northampton Boulevard. Council approved the applications for the billboards at its last meeting.

Members of the Council of Garden Clubs cited a city ordinance which forbids the construction of such signs on the approaches to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel and other major arteries.

Bayside Councilman Larry Marshall brought up the law passed by Congress earlier this year which permits billboard construction in commercial areas and forbids such construction in residential areas. He said the city is following the law and not allowing construction in other than business areas.

Marshall said a committee composed of Councilmen James Darden, John Gibbs, Reeves Johnson, Goodman-Segar-Hogan, which returned the appraisal quickly set the land value at $500,000, although an employee of that same firm sent a letter to the Virginia Beach Post, which was published some weeks ago, stating that he thought the $500,000 purchase price was "fair and reasonable."

In the other protest, Charles Parkerson, a resident of Lake Joyce, who was a representative of the residents in that area, asked council to purchase Lake Joyce from Norfolk. Parkerson said local residents "will furnish the cost if you (the city) buy."

In reply to Parkerson, City Manager W. Russell Hatchett said, "We are making a formal offer because Virginia Beach intends to keep the lake in the public interest. We don't feel the lake should be owned privately or by the government." Hatchett went on to say that he personally had corresponded with Norfolk City Manager Thomas Maxwell on the subject.

In other action City Council approved a proposal by the City Attorney's office which will require motorcycles to have city license tags as well as all other vehicles which operate in the city.

CITY'S TAKE INCREASES

VIRGINIA BEACH — A rise of nearly $2 million in the taxable values of public service corporation property has boosted the city's tax take by $118,500.

Fourteen corporations were billed for $740,045 in personal property and real estate taxes for 1965 according to city records. The levy for last year was $621,536.

The $124,103 increase in assessed values on tangible personal property were the primary basis for the higher tax bills. Real estate assessed value rose $58,175.

The city's top taxpayer is still the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company whose tax bill is $244,785, which is about $62,500 higher than last year.

The Virginia Electric & Power Company is second with this year's bill totaling $137,913, approximately $31,040 more than last year.

Personal property owned by all 14 corporations have an assessed value total of $11,906,234. Real estate values for 1965 are $1,067,527.

The State Corporation Commission assesses public service properties at 40 per cent of fair market value. The city applies its tax rates — 46 per $100 of personal property, and $2.10 to $3 of real estate, depending on which borough rate is applicable.

The majority of deaths stemming from motorcycle accidents are caused by severe head injuries after the driver loses control of the vehicle.

Woodson said the Division of Statutory Research and Drafting, which prepares bills for the General Assembly, asked him for information recently on any laws regulating motorcycle safety.

Legislation A Possibility

VIRGINIA BEACH — There is a possibility that legislation may be introduced in the 1966 General Assembly to require motorcyclists to wear protective crash helmets while traveling on Virginia's highways.

State Police Superintendent C. W. Woodson Jr. said last week that he "wouldn't be surprised" to see such action next year.

So far this year, three persons have been killed in motorcycle accidents in Virginia Beach.

Part of the blame on the increased number of motorcycle accidents is the increasing numbers of the two-wheeled vehicles.

Woodson said the motorcycles offer little or no front end protection to the driver in an accident. He also said that it is undeterminable whether motorcycle accidents occur at a higher rate than other types of accidents.

SANDBRIDGE APPRAISALS GO TO CITY COUNCIL — FINALLY

VIRGINIA BEACH — Without fanfare or flourish, the two separate and privately-obtained appraisals of the City's recently acquired land at Sandbridge, were presented to Virginia Beach City Council today. The two long-awaited appraisals were read to Council by Carroll Clough, City Purchasing Agent, then handed over to Council. No action was taken on them.

The appraisals were necessary before the City can get up to fifty per cent of the purchase price of the land from the Federal Government. Under the provisions of recent legislation, an area may apply for Federal money not to exceed fifty per cent to be applied to the purchase price of land to be used for recreational purposes. City Council has already approved the purchase of 144 acres of land, having oceanfront and bayfront property at Sandbridge. The purchase price agreed on was $22,000.

The two appraisals, made by private real estate concerns in Virginia Beach, were expected to be in the hands of Council several weeks ago. When it was first announced that the appraisals were being sought, city officials hoped to have them back in ten days. One did come in during that time, but was not released until today, along with the second appraisal.

Goodman-Segar-Hogan, which returned the appraisal quickly set the land value at $500,000, although an employee of that same firm sent a letter to the Virginia Beach Post, which was published some weeks ago, stating that he thought the $500,000 purchase price was "fair and reasonable."

In the other appraisal, by Tolson and Taylor, set the land value at $350,000, $150,000 above the agreed purchase price. A spokesman for the city said that the Tolson and Taylor appraisal had taken such a long time, because the firm had "farmed out" part of the appraisal work, which was not returned until recently.

After Council agreed to purchase the land, several persons began a controversy, charging that the price was far too high, and that excessive profit was being made. Since that time, all of the facts have been brought to light. And City officials have defended the purchase price, saying the City was quite fortunate to get such a large tract of beachfront property. They also stated that the land in question is one of the last areas available for recreational purposes at Virginia Beach, and that they have already been offered more for the land than they paid for it. The land is to be used for an additional surfing area, camping and swimming, as well as other purposes.

The controversy reached Washington at one time, and one Republican Congressman asked for an investigation of the transaction. The investigation was not granted after the entire story became known. It is generally agreed now that the Federal Government will compare the two appraisals, and more than likely will grant up to half of the purchase price. One high City official said that even if an average is taken of the two appraisals, the figure will be $425,000, or very close to the price paid. One City Councilman reaffirmed his conviction that the original price was "fair."

It is hoped now that the Federal Government will act on the matter very soon, in order to begin plans for the recreational area by next summer.

SEVEN CHANGES IN HIGHWAYS PRESENTED

VIRGINIA BEACH — The City Planning Commission recommended seven changes in a master highway plan to City Council Monday morning, and all were approved by council.

The $60 million plan for the resort city is a portion of a $368 million highway plan designed to meet the growing traffic needs in the state by 1980.

Wilbur Smith & Associates, consulting engineers, prepared the regional plan, which the federal government requires to insure the flow of federal aid for construction of the highways.

The Planning Commission recommended these changes:

Holly Boulevard: Further widening of Atlantic Avenue between 32nd Street and its junction with Pacific Avenue will divide the community of North Virginia Beach. Holly Road right-of-way in the North Virginia Beach section should be included as the major road with controlled access and that it be extended from Fort Story on the North to 31st Street on the South.

Toll Road Interceptor: The Toll Road Interceptor, which is an extension of Holly Road should be extended through the low land adjacent to the Virginia Beach Incinerator and junction with Parks Avenue at 21st Street, extending along Parks Avenue to 17th Street and to Norfolk Avenue on the South. This facility will disperse traffic destined for North and South Virginia Beach and relieve congestion through the Motel-tourist area.

General Booth Boulevard: General Booth Boulevard should be extended from Barnes store to a point North of Nimmo Church intersecting with the easterly projection of Indian River Road, running North of Princess Anne Court House.

Centerville Turnpike Extension: An additional road should be built South of Providence Road and Indian River Road in the vicinity of Military Highway, at the Chesapeake City line, to cross Interstate 64 and intersect with Centerville Road. This will improve Centerville development adjacent to the Chesapeake City line.

Bessy Road: An industrial arterial road should be constructed, running from Greenwich interchange, south of Virginia Beach Toll Road to Fellers Road, Landing Bridge, and Southern Boulevard. Also, providing access to land isolated by the Virginia Beach Toll Road.

Great Neck Road: Early completion of this major North-South highway, including center-line survey, property acquisition and construction, including a new oblique bridge across Long Creek.

Virginia Beach By-Pass: The elimination of the Virginia Beach By-Pass from Great Neck Road to Atlantic Avenue is recommended. The improvement of Holly Road and the Toll Road Interceptor, should serve the projected traffic volumes.

Since that time, all of the facts have been brought to light. And City officials have defended the purchase price, saying the City was quite fortunate to get such a large tract of beachfront property. GALILEE BAZAAR

VIRGINIA BEACH — Mrs. William Rueger and her committee of dedicated energetic women staged the annual luncheon bazaar last week at Galilee Episcopal church. The women of the church worked for a year in planning and executing the fund-raising project.

Tucker Hall, beautifully decorated for the bazaar, had booths with stationery, costume jewelry, Christmas decorations, homemade jellies, jams, candies and cookies, white elephants, needlework and objects d'art.

Luncheon of French petites of turkey, jellied cranberry salad, hot party rolls, cake squares and coffee served from noon till 2 p.m. gave the shoppers and browsers a full day for selecting the offerings.

At 2:30 p.m. the Children's Booth was opened with articles selling for as little as 10c to the after-school shoppers.

Mrs. Thomas H. Whittemore drew charcoal portraits upon appointment. Mrs. Edgar Kolton sketched pro-bazaar interest with her Youth Fellowship and Y-Teen posters displayed around and about the city. SPARKLING SODA

What's a party without a drink? The small fry have their milk or fruit shakes and colas, and grown-ups . . . well, they have their favorites, too. Every drink calls for a glass and, in most instances, some type of mixer or shaker; and every glass, mixer or shaker eventually has to be washed.

With the big party season ahead you can be prepared for the biggest surge of glass-washing of the year. How to handle it? If you let glasses stack up until you're ready for your regular scheduled round of dishwashing, those that contained milk will sport stubborn rings and sourish odor while those that contained fruit drinks will be lined with bits of hard-dried pulp. Both are tough to remove, and often even defy the dishwasher.

Your best recourse is to fill every glass or shaker with water and add a dash of baking soda just as soon as it's emptied. You can then let glasses sit until the urge to wash them moves you, at which time they'll be done with a minimum amount of effort. Or, you can line the sink with your rubber drain mat to prevent chipping, fill it up with warm water and three tablespoons of baking soda, and then add the glasses as they come off the finish line. Adopt this fast method and glasses will come clean of their own accord for soda is a mild detergent.

A little dry soda on a sponge will whisk away any lingering lipstick marks. Then a quick rinse and they're not only clean and odorless but more sparkly than you've ever seen them. Stage managers of Broadway plays have long employed the trick of dunking each glass or crystal prop in a baking soda solution before it goes on stage so that it really shimmers under the lights.

COMMUNION

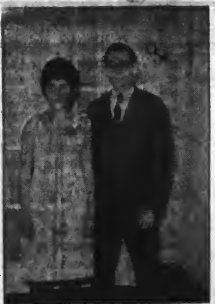

VIRGINIA BEACH — Corporate Communion for Men and Boys will be held Sunday, November 28, at Galilee Episcopal Church at 8 a.m. A breakfast will follow at the Americana Motor Lodge, 30th and Pacific, for all Communicants.

French Salon

NORFOLK — Lieutenant Commander Michel E. Volin of the French Navy will be the guest speaker at the next meeting of the French Salon of the Woman's Club to be held Sunday, November 28, at 3 p.m. at the Club House, 524 Fairfax Avenue.

His illustrated talk will be given in French and will be on "Le Cambodge vu par un franciste"—Cambodia and the Temples of Angkor seen by a Frenchman. Presently serving as Assistant Plans and Requirements Officer to NATO's Supreme Allied Commander Atlantic, Volin has served as assistant chief engineer aboard the destroyer "Kersaint," was instructor on the training ship "Jeanne d'Arc," and was sent to Cambodia Director of Technical Services for the newly created navy, of this recently independent nation.

He also served as chief engineer aboard the missile destroyer "Dupleix" which was a recent visitor in this port, and is now residing in Virginia Beach with his wife Marie-Therese and their two children.

The French Salon is open to all interested in the conversational use of the French language. Students and teachers of French are especially welcome and are invited to remain after the lecture for the social hour which follows.

It is sponsored by the Woman's Club and by Pierre Schmitz, French Consul in Norfolk. Mrs. Bertha Fanning Taylor is chairman and founder.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

A Time For Reflection

In recent years, Virginians have presented concrete evidence that the first Thanksgiving was celebrated at Berkeley plantation, here in the Old Dominion, a full year before the Pilgrims landed the Mayflower at Plymouth Rock. The evidence goes on to prove that the feast was held for exactly the same purpose as was that of the Pilgrims. As far as we are concerned, who started it all is relatively unimportant, although we are somewhat proud that such a marvelous concept was born in Virginia. We doubt rather seriously that the image of the first Thanksgiving will ever change from the somber, high-heeled Pilgrim fathers in New England having a feast along with their helpful Indian friends to a gathering of Virginia Indians having a feast with members of the early Jamestown settlers. To us, it does not matter whether it all started in 1619 or 1620. The important thing is that it did begin.

Like so many other holidays, the true meaning of Thanksgiving is almost lost, or at least, pushed into the background by tradition. When one thinks about Thanksgiving today, it usually conjures up a mental picture of a family gathered in a central place to partake of a feast of turkey, candied yams, stuffing, cranberries, and pumpkin pie. Merriment is the order of the day, the by-product being "togetherness." All this is fine. We recommend it highly, but we must look into history and pay tribute to the original significance.

In Virginia and in Massachusetts the feast of Thanksgiving was just that . . . a feast of thanksgiving. The early settlers paused in their struggle for survival and gave thanks that they had been able to find and live in a free country, far removed from oppression. They gave thanks that their pitiful crops had prospered to a successful harvest. They gave thanks that they were able to re-son with their enemies in this strange land of plenty, and that, although their struggle for more existence was not over, it was, at least beginning to show signs of success. In short, they met, they feasted together, and they gave thanks to God for their very lives.

We are pleased that such a feast has been passed through many succeeding generations to us. We are pleased that we live in this same free land. And we are prepared again this year to give thanks to God for his many blessings.

The world we live in today is full of problems. There is unrest all over the world. Our fighting men are in all corners of the planet, in efforts to keep America free. They are there so that we may celebrate Thanksgiving this year and in the future. Our country is still a land of plenty. No other country is as well off as our own.

Thanksgiving has become an important holiday to the food dealers. No doubt they make a fortune on the turkeys and all the trimmings they sell. This is good. It is part of our system of free enterprise.

All we ask, however is that on this Thanksgiving day, as we prepare to feast, or attend a traditional football game, is that we pause a few moments and reflect on our many blessings. Let us give thanks for the religious freedom, for which our founding fathers came here, and let us give thanks for all the other freedoms we have. Let us give thanks that they had the foresight and fortitude to come here and build a remarkable nation. Let us attend religious services on Thanksgiving Day, and remember that there are many others less fortunate than we, not only in this country, but throughout the world.

Let us give thanks . . . for everything . . . on this joyous day.

Now We Know

All right, let's now begin to consider the development of the City of Virginia Beach's 144 acres at Sandbridge. Now that the little squabble about the price of the land is behind us, and those who sought to start a little trouble have been presented with the facts, let us hope the Federal Government will process the papers for half the purchase price quickly, so that we can move ahead as planned. As we have said before, it really does seem a shame that such a fine effort on the part of the City had to be challenged by those who did not know what they were challenging. It is a pity that the fine purpose had to get started on such a sour note. But now we know. The independent appraisals are in. The price is fair. The two appraisals average out to $515,000, or about $7,000 less than the city contracted to pay. Half of that, from federal funds comes to $3,500. And we doubt quite seriously if the Federal Government will quibble about such a small amount when such a large amount is involved. There is also one final fact that must be noted. The City of Virginia Beach has already been offered by a reputable firm more than it paid for the land . . . The land is important, mostly because it is one of the last large areas of beachfront property left undeveloped.

We are sorry that Rep. Widnall, R-N. J. even asked the URA to look into the purchase. We feel that he was "taken in," and could not have looked at all the facts first. All he had to do was ask some of his fellow residents of New Jersey and a few who used to live there. They could have told him that nothing was amiss. He could have contacted C. T. Keep, President of American Land Company, which sold the land to the City of Virginia Beach. Keep, who now lives here, is a former resident of New Jersey and of a prominent Republican family there. Keep could have told him that his company is governed by the Securities and Exchange Commission and could not be involved in irregularities. Keep could also have mentioned that his brother, O. D. Keep, was once the college roommate of the last Republican Governor of New Jersey, Gov. Driscoll. That might have showed honest intentions. Or Widnall might have contacted William Barbour, a well-known Patterson, New Jersey Republican, and asked him about Sandbridge. Barbour could have told Widnall that his Barbour's Hills Hunting Club at Sandbridge is occupying land assessed for tax purposes just as low as the property the city has agreed to purchase. And Barbour may have been able to tell him what that Hunting Club property is worth. Perhaps Widnall could have tried to purchase that Sandbridge tract for less per acre than the City was able to purchase its tract. And perhaps, had Widnall done all this, he could have been in a somewhat better position to criticize or to determine if Virginia Beach paid too much. And should Mr. Barbour wish to sell his property, we can assure him that he will be able to get as much per acre as the City has paid.

So, we can offer Congressman Widnall a little advice. Either come to Virginia Beach and look at the facts, or satisfy yourself by contacting members of either old New Jersey Republican families . . . the Barbours or the Keeps. Then, if you are not satisfied, have a go at the URA. Otherwise leave us alone at Virginia Beach.

Now then, let's get to work on that recreational area. The fussing is over.

Praise For Teenagers

For the most part, when teenagers make the headlines, the stories usually involve tragedy, delinquency or worse. Rarely do the stories of accomplishments make the big headlines. This is unfortunate, but it does happen, and most of us are prone to remember the worst, instead of remembering the good. That is why we wish to add our voice of praise to the fine work done recently by four Virginia Beach teenagers.

The four—Mike Mahan, Ray Robbins, Carlton Goodwin and Billy Maston, all high school students, have started something of which the whole city can be proud.

They were all close friends of a teenager, Buddy Brown, who was killed a few weeks ago in a grinding car-truck crash on Great Neck Road. They wanted to do something in his memory and something that could help others. They began a worthwhile project that we hope will be followed through by others in Virginia Beach. The boys began a memorial fund, and they began to raise money to provide the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach with a vital piece of emergency equipment. In one week, they collected over four hundred dollars in two housing developments in the city and at their school and turned over the money to the hospital toward the purchase of a cardiometer. The cardiometer is a device used to stimulate the heart when it has stopped beating, or to regulate it when the beat is irregular. The device costs about three thousand dollars, and the Tidewater Heart Association is contributing also.

In Brown's case, doctors say that nothing would have made too much difference. He was too badly injured. He was taken to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach and transferred to Norfolk General Hospital, because the Virginia Beach facility has no neurosurgeon. According to hospital authorities, there is not enough neurosurgical work at the hospital to necessitate a qualified man on the staff. Therefore, as a matter of course, patients needing that type of treatment are taken to Norfolk.

But Brown's friends felt that the day could come when proper equipment could make the difference between life or death. Then they set out to help in Brown's memory. We commend them in their mammoth efforts, and we praise their cause.

Just A Word Of Warning

Lots of folks will be taking a long weekend this weekend, as the result of the Thanksgiving holiday. Many will take the full four days. And many of those will be jamming the roads and highways in Virginia Beach and elsewhere. Too often, when we are faced with a long holiday period, we try to go too far for the time we have. Too many also try to make it too fast. And too many tired drivers try to push themselves just a little too far. No matter what we say here and no matter how much we urge extreme caution in driving, there are going to be road deaths. This is indeed unfortunate, but it is also a fact of life.

The National Safety Council always makes a grim prediction before any holiday period. Too often it is correct, or the actual number of highway fatalities exceeds the estimate. It seems that no matter how often people are urged to drive carefully, there are many who do not heed the warnings.

Accidents do not just happen. They are caused . . . by someone or something. The unavoidable accident is an exception rather than the rule. According to State and local authorities with whom we have discussed the matter, few accidents are unavoidable. Speed, reckless driving and driving while under the influence of intoxicants account for the better part of the accidents, whether they be collision or non-collision accidents.

Just before a holiday period the Governor's Highway Safety Committee, the National Safety Council, and all police authorities pass along warnings, and police units patrol roads heavily with preventive measures in mind. Unfortunately, there are still those who do not listen or feel that it "can't happen to them." These are the human beings who end up as statistics when the holiday is over. To us, there is nothing worse than any kind of automobile accident, and nothing quite so gory as a fatal automobile accident.

All we ask is that every driver obey all the traffic laws, and not attempt too long a distance in a short time. And we ask all drivers to "drive defensively." Watch out for the other driver. He may not be as alert or as good a driver as you are.

Please drive carefully, and have a happy Thanksgiving.

New Programs For Rural America

By ORVILLE L. FREEMAN
Secretary of Agriculture

New programs enacted by Congress in recent months, together with new administrative measures to step up the Agriculture Department's Rural Area Development efforts, offer an exceptional new opportunity to advance the welfare of rural people.

OPPORTUNITY GAP

The importance of these new programs is great. There is an increasing "opportunity gap" between urban and rural areas. Recently, the Department of Agriculture took stock of the situation and found:

- Almost half (46%) of the families with money incomes under $3,000 live in rural areas—although fewer than one third of America's households are rural.
- Rural America has almost three times the proportion of dilapidated and substandard houses as urban America.
- Educational preparation of school teachers is lower in the rural areas. A recent National Education Association study shows 39.3% of the rural teachers with no degree. The comparable urban figure is 10.9.
- Unsafe waste disposal and water supplies present health hazards in many rural communities.
- The ratio of physicians and surgeons per 100 thousand population was 178 in central cities of metropolitan areas and 62 in rural areas in 1960.

TO HELP CATCH UP

To help rural areas "catch up" and participate in all programs of the Federal government, the Rural Community Development Service (RCDS) was created this year to help Rural Development Committees (community leaders) and Technical Action Panels (professional workers in state and local Department of Agriculture field offices to capitalize on these new opportunities.

The Department's aim is to make it possible for rural residents, community leaders, and local government officials to get the information they need about any Federal program for which they are eligible at one of the USDA field offices in each county. They will also get help in preparing and submitting their applications, and in meeting the requirements to qualify for various Federal programs.

In those states where RCDS has state offices, RCDS field representatives will give direct help to RAD Committees and Technical Action Panels in carrying out their community development projects. RCDS will also help to develop ideas for community development projects, and to expedite the consideration and approval of rural community projects.

Rural America is not an island, not a different world. It is a vital, contributing part of our society. Given equal opportunity to share fully in all the privileges and responsibilities of the Great Society, it will enrich the whole of it.

Your Faith and You

ROBERT H. GARNER

Minister, Tabernacle Methodist Church

Into every life, it seems, a little doubt must fall. Doubt is no respecter of persons. It reaches into the lives of those who seem to be the strongest in the faith. For those who think it irrelevant to doubt the faith, I would answer that unless you have experienced doubt in your faith, then your faith is in doubt. God loves the honest doubt when it arises from a reverent search after His truth. Unless a person has the faith to doubt the faith from time to time, this is a clear indication that the faith has not reached very deeply into his life. It is neither hard to believe or disbelieve that which is not important to you, or which is not real to you. But if your faith matters, if it is real to you, then you will have to come to grips with it, struggle with it and make it your own.

The child who is reared in the home of dedicated and devoted religious parents is taught his faith from the earliest years. But it does not become his faith until he has worked his way through it. The saddest examples of a faith in God are those who merely parrot the faith they have been taught by parents.

Unless one has the faith to doubt, there can be no religious growth. And growth comes with concomitant pain. Perhaps that is why some may think it irrelevant to doubt, because of the pain involved. But a worse fate was once described by the man who said: "None of us ever grows old; we just get old by not growing."

Jeremiah knew the meaning of doubt. For fourteen years in the wilderness he struggled with his doubts, and finally emerged as one of Israel's greatest prophets. John Wesley was overthrown with doubt that day he walked down Aldersgate Street and experienced the living presence of God. When the season of doubt overtakes us, we are closer to God than we think! Out of the low moments of faith have come the highest moments of faith.

PLANTING A HOME ORCHARD

Those people who have ordered fruit trees for planting a home orchard will be receiving them in the very near future. If they haven't already, says Elgie L. Easter, Horticulturist at Virginia Beach. "These trees need planting as soon as they are received. If this can't be done, however, the trees should be 'heeled' out until they are planted," Easter advises.

By "heeling out" of these trees, we mean the digging of a trench and the placing of the trees in it at approximately a 45 degree angle to a depth slightly deeper than they were originally set. "People should remember that this is only a temporary location. The trees should be planted in their permanent location as soon as possible," says Easter.

Trees should be planted from 30 to 40 feet apart in the row and between the row if they are to be set in rows.

Fruit trees can be planted in the spring, also. One should bear in mind, however, that the root system of a tree is active when no noticeable top growth is taking place. Thus, trees planted in late fall or early spring will have an established root system before the growing season begins. According to Easter, a tree which is well established on its root system before top growth actually begins will make a more vigorous growth the first season.

When the trees are placed in their permanent location, dig a hole large enough that the roots can be adequately spread out and will have sufficient room without overcrowding. The bottom of the hole should be as wide as the top. The tree should be placed in the prepared hole, and its roots meticulously arranged so that they will be growing in their original directions. This mainly insures that all the roots won't be on one side of the hole.

When digging the hole for the tree, keep the topsoil separate from the sub-soil; when replacing the soil, place the topsoil in first, and finish filling the hole with the sub-soil. The soil should be firmed around the tree.

These areas should be planted about 1 1/2 to 2 inches deeper than they were in the nursery. Any broken or extremely long roots should be cut back to keep them within bounds.

Since winter killing begins at the tops of the branches, the tree should be pruned back after the coldest part of the winter is over, but before the buds swell in the spring. As soon as the growing season begins in the spring, they should be fertilized lightly (4 to 6 ounces per tree) with a fertilizer of 20.5% Nitrogen analysis, Easter

ADVENT CANTATA

BAYSIDE — The chancel choir of Baylake Methodist Church, under the direction of Freeland M. Cooke, Jr., will present an Advent Cantata on Sunday, November 28, at 7:00 p.m.

The cantata, Rejoice, Beloved Christians, was written by Dietrich Buxtehude (1637-1707). Every Sunday in Advent the composer presented one of his Choral Cantatas at the twilight hour in St. Mary's Church, Libeck. This Abendmusik or "Twilight Music" became famous throughout Germany and people traveled great distances to hear the music and attend the services.

Each walked two hundred miles to Libeck after obtaining a four weeks absence of leave from his own church to hear the music of Buxtehude and was so impressed he stayed four months.

An uncommon lot of false information is in circulation about insects, notes the National Pest Control Association. The artist has illustrated some of the common misconceptions above.

BATS, DRAGONFLIES, AND TERMITES?

Bats inevitably try to "tangle" themselves in ladies' hair.

Termites always can be spotted because of the piles of sawdust they leave on the floor.

The only thing those statements have in common is that they are completely wrong. Yet, points out the National Pest Control Association, they are part of the vast fairy-tale folklore that surrounds pests in general and insects in particular.

Dr. Philip Spear, an entomologist who serves as Technical Director for the association, says that misconceptions about pests often guide people wrongly in meeting problems of pest control and frequently steer them in completely wrong directions.

Take termites for example, he says. Termites leave no sawdust whatsoever (except the drywood termites found in some areas of Florida and Southern California).

Ninety-five percent of all termites are the subterranean variety which consume the tiny chips which they carve from solid wood in their tunneling. If a householder waits for sawdust piles to tell him that these termites are present, he risks substantial damage if an infestation has already begun.

And despite the conviction of all the ladies since time began, bats have no interest whatsoever in their coiffure. As a matter of fact, a bat caught in a room with a member of the fair sex is ten times as terrified as the lady of the house. Mr. Bat wants only one thing and that's out!

And so it goes, points out Dr. Spear. Sand flies, a common beach complaint, are a non-existent insect. True you may get bitten by a flea at the beach, but it's more likely to be a dog or cat flea raised from an egg dropped from a passing pet and hatched in dirt and trash accumulated on the beach.

even hated, are harmless with a very few exceptions such as the black widow. In fact, their prodigious daily consumption of other insects makes them one of man's best friends.

And the fabled 17-year locust, Dr. Spear notes sorrowfully, isn't a locust at all, but a cicada. Furthermore, most people don't realize that the so-called "plagues of locusts" which once afflicted the American plains were nothing more than migrating grasshoppers.

Likewise, high up in the catalog of insect folklore is the mistaken belief that moths can't survive a cedar chest. The chest may make your clothes smell very nice, says Dr. Spear, but the only way the chest will hurt the moth after about a year is if you can hit him with it or drop it on him.

TAHB

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of articles on housing and homes. In subsequent articles, other facets of the home will be discussed.

By W. W. REASON, President Tidewater Assoc. Home Builders
Selecting the correct neighborhood is the most important decision involved in buying a home. Unless the neighborhood can provide for your needs, you will not be happy in any home, regardless of the accommodations.

The first consideration should be distance. How long will it take the working members of your family to get to their jobs? Will the relaxation and reduced living expenses of suburbia make up for the hours spent commuting? These are vital questions, which can be answered only by yourself.

Alternate transportation should be available for the days the car is in the garage or the snow too deep to drive. Will the children be able to walk to school, or must they depend on mother to drive them?

Children's needs also must be considered in the quality of the schools and the provisions for recreation. Is there a park or a swimming pool nearby? Father will probably also want nearby recreational facilities—whether it is a bowling alley or a golf course.

The lady of the house should inspect the available shopping facilities. Nearby automotive repair facilities are mandatory for a family dependent on cars.

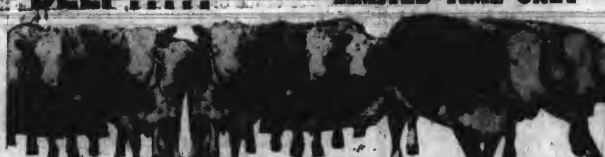

Check with city officials or long-time residents about police and fire systems? What kind of garbage collection service is provided?

You must decide whether you prefer the anonymity of city living, along with its pains and congestion, or whether you like being part of a neighborhood, free from the sounds of the city.

If you want to know your neighbors, you should find out what kind of people they are. Perhaps they do not hot quickly warm to outsiders. If they have income two or three times larger than yours, perhaps you will never be at ease living among them.

On the other hand, the savings of living in a neighborhood of lower land values may not make up for the gap between you and someone living by a much lower standard.

OYSTER ROAST ATTENDED

By DOUGLAS ARNOLD BARNES

BAYSIDE — The label on the jar of sweet fig pickles shows a black and white sketch of Old Donation Church on North Witchduck Road, near Thoroughgood and a date, "1735." This jar of fig pickles was one of the purchases from the BAZAAR of the historical church's Annual Oyster Roast held the last Saturday before Thanksgiving—a custom that has prevailed for 30 years.

The church fair also sold preserves, chow-chow, jellies, potted small plants, country hams and fresh collard greens, cabbage, kale, picked the morning of the Roast from the farm of William Hudgins, who donates these to the church as well as eggs and flowers.

This year, Mrs. Henry Keeling, Mrs. Rufus Parks (age 77), Mrs. John D. Leitch, and Mrs. Littleton Parks had to admit that their famous and well-selling "Honesty," the marsh-growing plant which, after bearing a purple bloom in the spring and dried, then turns silver, was scarce, indeed! — It was priced at only $1.50 a bunch and by 12:30 was sold out! However Japanese Lanterns, Cockatoo and crabapple sprays, decorative gourds, and fall leaves, put us in the spirit of abundance and we were reminded of that first Thanksgiving, which was held by Captain John Woodlief in 1619 at Berkeley Plantation on the James River.

River

The luncheon of roasted or raw oysters, Virginia ham, pickles, celery, apple pie and coffee was served to hundreds who awaited their turns in orderly lines. We were seated by Colonel Harry T. Marshall, City's Commonwealth Attorney, who was equal in his graciousness and efficiency to the maître d' of The Waldorf.

Bentle-haired and stoical Fellowship Boys and sweet-faced maidens acted as bus boys and bus girls, while the women of the church served the ever changing crowds of hungry people. Our smiling waitress was Mrs. Glenn King.

After lunch, we wandered into the miscellaneous booth of "Kil" Lewis, where gay, homemade aprons, rag dolls, Christmas green felt napkin rings, table decorations, etc., were being sold; Advent Wreaths occupied another booth and a "white elephant" display produced a much sought-after Aluminum Turkey Roaster, bought for $60 by a bemuddled Army officer who grabbed it and ran from all seekers! A friend bought an "I like it but WHAT is it for?" and we treasure a 50c slightly used apron hat from the Hat Box, which, we are sure, is a Mr. John with the label lost.

Before leaving, we spent a few moments of quiet thankfulness in the Church itself and its historic graveyard whose ancient headstones reminded us of the spirit of our pioneer settlers.

V. B. REPRESENTED AT TRAVEL LUNCHEON

VIRGINIA BEACH — Attending the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce's 4th Annual Travel Luncheon, November 18 in New York were Mrs. Laura Lamb, director of Virginia Beach Publicity and Public Relations Bureau; Sidney S. Kellam, representing Americana Motor Lodge, Thunderbird, and Holiday Sands; and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Serling of the Princess Anne Inn.

The Virginia Beach Bureau was one of the twenty-three co-hosts representing Virginia's attractions and travel interests. The eighty-seven guests included free lance travel writers, publications editors, radio newsmen, transportation and tour importers in the travel industry.

Featured speakers for the occasion were Governor Albert S. Harrison, Jr., and Miss Jean Marilyn Inge, "Miss Virginia of 1965." Richard S. Gillis, Jr., Executive Director of the Virginia State Chamber, introduced those seated at the head table. Thomas E. Seyrell, III, president of the Virginia State Chamber, presented the speakers.

Presiding was Welford Sherman, Jr., chairman of the State Chamber's Travel Development Committee which sponsors the luncheon annually to stimulate and further the interest of New York press and travel originators in the State of Virginia.

Board Meeting

VIRGINIA BEACH — The regular Board meeting of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Churchwomen was held recently at the home of Mrs. Galen Laird, 713 Coach House Court. Mrs. Carl Taylor led the program, and other members present were Mrs. David Price, Mrs. Frank Murden, Mrs. Luther Mills, Mrs. Paul Lozas, Mrs. Macford Hinehine, Mrs. Lee Bradley, Mrs. George Long, and Mrs. Thomas Bunting.

A report on the state of officers for the coming year was presented by the nominating committee. Plans were made for the general meeting to be held November 29 at the church; and for the December meeting to be held on December 6 with all three circles participating. All members of Nassau, Ruth, and Dorothea circles were urged to be present.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Laird.

NORWAY MAYOR PRESENTED GIFTS

MOSS, Norway — The City of Moss, Norway, has been presented gifts from its friendship city in the United States, Virginia Beach, Virginia. U. S. Charge d'Affairs, John A. Bovey, presented the gifts to the Mayor of Moss, Emil Anderson.

The mayor was given a mayor's club and an old painting of the Norwegian bark, Dictator of Moss, which shipwrecked off the coast of Virginia Beach in 1891.

Both the mayor's club and the painting's frame were made of wreckage from the Dictator. After the shipwreck, only small parts of the Dictator were ever found. A U.S. Defense Department official donated the gifts to Moss as a token of friendship between the two countries.

In 1962, the city of Moss raised a statue in Virginia Beach, to commemorate the Dictator tragedy. The statue, called "The Norwegian Lady," was modeled by Norwegian sculptor Oernulf Bast. front at 25th Street, and was partially copied from the original figurehead of the Dictator.

Fire units from Princess Anne Plaza, Thalia, Ocean a, and London Bridge answered the call to the fire that broke out early Tuesday morning at this house in the 100 block of Gum Ave. Firemen fought the blaze for approximately 1 1/2 hours before putting it out. The unoccupied house burned to the ground. Firefighters from the Plaza Volunteer Fire Department returned to the scene at noon Tuesday and sprayed the smoldering ruins with water. COMMITTEE ADOPTS PLAN OF ACTION

VIRGINIA BEACH — The nine major communities of Tidewater last week adopted as their foremost legislative objective the retention of federal impact funds for area schools.

Such impact funds are granted communities that are hit heavily by children of military personnel and federal employees.

But, in Virginia, approximately two-thirds of the money from the federal government is, in effect, redistributed throughout the state's school systems.

In other words, the state is depriving the Tidewater area of almost $5.5 million, according to a report by the Hampton Roads Area-wide Cooperation Committee.

Communities that are represented on the committee are Norfolk, Virginia Beach, Chesapeake, Portsmouth, Newport News, Hampton, Suffolk, Nansemond County, and York County.

The committee met last week in Norfolk to propose legislative steps for the General Assembly delegations from the communities represented on the committee. Members of the delegations were also at the meeting.

All members gave the legislation priority among 20 legislative proposals.

In addition to asking area legislators to defend the impact funds in the next General Assembly, committee chairman Thomas P. Chrisman of Hampton urged them, area mayors, and area boards of supervisors' chairmen to write immediately to Gov. Albert S. Harrison Jr. and Gov.-elect Mills E. Godwin Jr. The 1966-67 Virginia budget is now being prepared by the Harrison administration.

Earlier, a HRAOC subcommittee of state Sen. William B. Spong Jr. of Portsmouth, Sidney S. Kellam of Virginia Beach, and Mayor Roy B. Martin Jr. of Norfolk studied the impact fund issue.

At the subcommittee's suggestion, Spong, State Sen. Edward L. Breeden of Norfolk, State Sen. Hunter B. Andrews of Newport News and Kellam went to Richmond Nov. 8 to present the area's position to state budget and school officials. A reply has yet to be received.

REPAIRS AUTHORIZED

VIRGINIA BEACH — Plans to repair the 15-year-old steel bulkhead along the south end of the ocean front boardwalk has been authorized by the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission after receiving information from consulting engineer, Joseph McDonald, that some sections need patching, and that cleaning and coating the bulkhead could prolong its life.

McDonald said that tests indicate that steel in the 620-foot bulkhead between 7th and 9th streets has lost about one-third of its thickness on the average which indicates a nearly proportionate loss of strength.

E. H. Church, commission chairman, said the bulkhead repairs should be finished before next spring, and coordinated with repairs to two "dropping" sections of the concrete walkway in the same area.

OCEAN HIGHWAY SHOWS GAIN IN TRAFFIC

VIRGINIA BEACH — Travel this fall on the north-south Ocean Highway continues to show gains over last autumn in all areas of the scenic coastal route.

September traffic counters at eight different checkpoints along the Ocean Highway registered increases over September, 1964. All traffic counts reported to date for October have also been up over October of last year.

While traffic flow on the Ocean Highway and all other north-south routes has taken the normal downturn this fall from the peak summer vacation months, the percentage gains for September and October Ocean Highway traffic were higher overall than summer percentage increases.

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel's 12.3 percent traffic increase in September over September, 1964 set a new record for monthly percentage increase on the 17-month old facility. Revenue for the Bridge-Tunnel rose from $801,000 in September, 1964 to $857,242 for September, 1965, another monthly record for percentage increase. October vehicle traffic on the Bridge-Tunnel showed another healthy gain of 10.4 percent over October, 1964.

The Talmadge Memorial Bridge at Savannah, the Ocean Highway's connecting link between Georgia and South Carolina, recorded a 9 percent traffic increase in September. The September vehicle count on the Talmadge Bridge rose from 130,815 in 1964 to 142,598 in 1965. At Midway, Georgia, the U. S. 17 traffic for September increased from 124,050 in 1964 to 132,000 in 1965.

The 1,150,401 October vehicle count for the Delaware Memorial Bridge represented a 10.1 percent increase over last October. An 8 percent gain was recorded in September for the Bridge, which is the Delaware Bay crossing for the Ocean Highway (U. S. 13), U. S. 301, U. S. 40, and Interstate 95.

DORIS PADRICK'S VIEW of VIRGINIA BEACH

With all due respect to those who look back with nostalgia to the 'good old days,' do you really feel life was better 50 or 100 years ago? When the winter winds blow and the house turns chilly, how nice it is to turn up the thermostat with a mere flick of the finger. It's lots better than chopping wood (even if grandpa moralized that "It warmed you twice") or shoveling in dirty black coal.

Who wants to have to get up before dawn to get the cook stove going or unfreeze the pump? Us lazybones enjoy sleeping under an electric blanket, getting up to a warm kitchen, having instant heat from the electric coils or gas burners, reaching into the refrigerator for the bacon and eggs or on the pantry shelf for the cereals, plugging in the coffee pot. Who wants to milk the cow or raid the hen's nest before you can even begin?

And how pleasant it is to send the children off to school in clean starched colorful outfits every day. What matter if they put on a different one when they get home? The washer will do the scrubbing or would you rather have to spend all day over the scrub board?

All these things you take for granted.

How convenient it is to step out of your front door and get into the automobile. No one nor any place is too far away. It takes you to work. It takes you back home. It brings families closer together. It scatters them, too. But when the adventurous young folks left home with a wagon train, that could have been the last the parents ever saw of them. Young folks travel far today, but they come back often for a visit or on an emergency call. Jetting across the ocean is a daily occurrence.

These are material things, but what is so wrong about being pleased with a better life? Those that don't have it envy us our high standard of living.

How did we achieve this good life? The need was there and those who could, worked to achieve it. And the more benefits that came the more people benefited. The men who by the sweat of their brow and brains brought about these improvements and saw to it that their children got educated, and the education is an integral part of every one's existence today.

Is it that young people have so much and know so much? The young still have their ideals, their fires of ambition burn bright, and their energy overcomes obstacles. They care about things that your people of 50 or 100 years ago neither knew about nor had the time to wonder about. Did your grandfather care that disease and hunger stalked two-thirds of the world? . . . and if he was aware of it, what could he do about it? Organizations like the Peace Corps are made up mainly of young people who know and care and do. And how could the poor and uneducated get trained a few generations ago? Boys and girls today are given a chance towards a better life through the job corps and on-the-job training.

Families of long ago seldom raised all their children to maturity. And it wasn't too many years back when polio struck fear in the hearts of all parents. Was that a better period of history? Children are healthier today, parents stay young longer, and grand-children live full lives—all from advances of the medical profession.

Those who think the educated young women, who share their time and talents with the community, would be better off staying home might take a closer look at all the benefits these clubwomen bring about. They care about everything from neglected children to beautifying the countryside; the laws and legislation passed attest to their contributions.

Those who complain about the trash on television forget the hours of enjoyment and companionship it brings to lonely shut-ins or the vast amount of important information that comes instantly into the homes. The world is closed to all of us.

Maybe the world has become callous and selfish as pessimists claim. The evil always gets more publicity than the good. But the evil that used to be hidden is now standing in the bright light of knowledge. We see and we do more than wring our hands in dismay . . . all because of modern inventions, modern education, modern medicine, modern thinking.

This is the optimists view of Thanksgiving 1955—lots to be thankful for.

Policyholders Mark Record

Policyholders of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company will receive a record $90 million in policy dividends next year, it was announced by Leslie B. Diabaron, general agent for the company in Norfolk, Virginia.

Although the basic dividend scale will not change, the total dividend distribution will be nearly $3 million more next year than in 1955. This increase is due primarily to rising insurance in force, and the fact that dividends on most policies tend to go up each year even if the basic scale is unchanged.

Mr. Diabaron pointed out, however, that the sharp rise in policy dividends in recent years also reflects adoption of increasingly liberal dividend scales. The 1956 dividend total represents an increase of almost 70% since 1950, he said.

The company's dividend scale has been increased 13 times beginning in 1944. That year's reserve for dividends was only $5,700,000.

Promoted

Major Richard T. Trundy, USMC, celebrated a happy 100th Marine Corps Birthday November 10 when he received his promotion to Major.

Lt. Col. Frank X. Hoff, Supporting Arms Department Director at the U. S. Naval Amphibious School, conducted the ceremonies in his office. Mr. Trundy assisted in pinning on the gold oak leaves.

Major Trundy has served 15 years in the Marine Corps. He just recently returned from the Republic of Vietnam, where he was the flight officer of the Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron 162, stationed at Da Nang, Republic of Vietnam.

He is currently serving as an air training instructor in the Supporting Arms Department at the School.

NORFOLK — The Midtown Kiwanis Club of Norfolk has announced plans to continue for a second year its area wide Christmas Caroling project, "The Kiwanis Karolers."

Ray Shouse, local television executive and President of the Midtown Kiwanis, has appointed Tom Moss as "Kiwanis Karoler," chairman for 1956. Mr. Moss will expand Midtown Christmas project this year to encompass all of Tidewater with the participation of other Kiwanis Clubs in the area.

Last year over 600 Tidewater residents caroled much of Norfolk raising $1,700.00 for use by the Tidewater Chapter of Mentally Retarded Children. Through the Kiwanis Karolers effort, dozens of classes of mentally retarded children were afforded the opportunity of touring the State of Virginia.

They visited points of historical interest. According to Ray Shouse, these children would perhaps never have had the chance to enjoy these tours had it not been for the donations gathered through the effort of the Kiwanis Karolers.

Mr. Moss announced plans to distribute to Tidewater residents a Kiwanis Karoler Song Book, featuring Christmas greetings from Tidewater merchants and a collection of Christmas Carols, especially selected for the 1955 Yuletide Season.

This year donations will be used in an expanded program encompassing many Kiwanis charities. The Kiwanis Karolers are now being assembled for this year's caroling effort, scheduled for December 18th, from 7-10 p.m.

PEACE TIME VETERANS HAVE ADVANTAGE

ROANOKE — Peacetime veterans have a definite advantage under the Federal Housing Administration Mortgage Insurance for Veterans provided by the new Public Law 85-117, but war veterans will benefit more under the GI Loan Guaranty Program, William J. Powers, Manager of the Roanoke Veterans Administration, said.

War veterans who still have entitlement for a GI loan are not required by law to make a down payment. They pay an interest rate of only 5 1/2 percent with no mortgage insurance premium. They pay no prepayment fee and the VA encourages extension and/or refinancing when needed to help a veteran keep his home.

Under the FHA plan down payments are required on a graduated scale running from none for a loan of up to $15,000 of appraised value, to ten percent of the next $5,000 and fifteen percent of the next $10,000.

The interest rate, like the GI loan rate, is only 5 1/2 percent but an additional one-half percent mortgage insurance premium is required.

However, the peacetime veteran, who is not eligible for the provisions of the GI loan guaranty program, will find he has a definite advantage over the non-veteran under the FHA program.

Powers pointed out that World War II veterans with maximum eligibility will have until July 25, 1967, to take advantage of the GI Loan Guaranty Program. The nearest VA office will be glad to figure out any veterans remaining eligible by use of the established formula.

The formula adds ten years to the date of the veteran's discharge from active wartime service and then adds one additional year for each three months of service to reach a date that becomes the terminating deadline for that particular veteran's entitlement.

Korean Conflict veterans with maximum entitlement will have until January 31, 1975, to take advantage of a VA GI loan.

War veterans who have not used their GI entitlement but who have already passed their eligibility deadline will find the FHA mortgage insurance plan to their advantage, Powers said.

BBB WARNS OF SCHEME

NORFOLK — The Tidewater Better Business Bureau warned today that a new scheme based on a telephone market survey is being used in many parts of the country to induce housewives to pay exorbitantly priced products.

Charles A. Martak, Bureau Manager, said the racket also involves "bugged" salesrooms, a "sweepstakes contest," consumer questionnaires and "free" gifts for so-called "Test families."

According to the National Better Business Bureau, the scheme has cropped up in New York, New Jersey, Missouri, Iowa, Oregon and other states and appears to be spreading.

The Eugene, Oregon, Chamber of Commerce disclosed that it had 300 telephone inquiries in a two-month period concerning a local firm which used the scheme.

The Tidewater Better Business Bureau said anyone contacted by a firm supposedly conducting a market research survey should get in touch with their Better Business Bureau for a report on the firm.

VEPCO STOCK DIVIDENDS

RICHMOND — The board of directors of the Virginia Electric and Power Company today declared a quarterly dividend on the common stock payable December 20, 1955, to stockholders of record at the close of business on November 30, 1955.

Regular quarterly dividends of $1.25 per share on the $5 dividend preferred; $1.01 per share on the $4.04 dividend preferred; $1.05 per share on the $4.20 dividend preferred; $1.03 per share on the $4.12 dividend preferred; and $1.30 per share on the $4.80 dividend preferred were declared, all payable December 20, 1955, to shareholders of record November 30, 1955.

He was presented the award for meritorious service with the transportation division at headquarters, U. S. Army Communications Zone in Europe, and later with the supply division, U. S. Stage Doctored By Charlton

VIRGINIA BEACH — "Just what the doctor ordered" is the ingenious construction of the collapsible stage which will be used at the Virginia Beach Methodist Church for the repeat performance of "Inasmuch" to be presented on December 12 and 19 at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. James P. Charlton works with wood as a hobby. He has paneled a room, jalousied a porch, built boats and other lesser projects, and finds it particularly satisfying relaxation when not tending the sick and injured and something he can do at home and at any hour of the day or night.

As a member of the Lowland's Laymen Sunday School class which is presenting the Christmas story adapted from Edwin Markham's famous poem "The Great Gist Comes In," Dr. Charlton put his "other talent" to work by designing and constructing the stage and set which can be assembled for use in front of the sanctuary and then quickly disassembled to make room for the more customary services at the church.

The young adult Sunday school class, which is comprised mainly of couples, numbers nearly 100 members. It has grown from a small nucleus of married couples with similar interests of church and community which was formed by the then-minister Stan Lowell more than 10 years ago. It is a discussion-type study group with each member taking a turn at being the discussion leader, and the name Lowell's Laymen came from its founder.

Because of the unusual interest in the play "Inasmuch" presented last year, it was decided to give it twice this year as one of the highlights of the season's special events.

The story is about the poor cobbler who is expecting a visit from Jesus. While he waits, strangers come to his door—cold, hungry, lost—and to each one he gives time and effort to help as best he can. Later, he finds his Bible open to the passage "Inasmuch as ye have done this to the least of them, ye have done it to me" . . . and from that phrase comes the title.

Hobart Speaks To Jaycees

VIRGINIA BEACH — M. C. Hobart, car merchandising manager of Ford Division's Richmond district sales office, addressed a 7:30 p.m. dinner meeting of the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Black Angus Restaurant Tuesday.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Mr. Hobart joined Ford Motor Company in 1954 as a district clerk in Jacksonville, Fla.

He has since held positions in Atlanta, Ga., as sales coordinator and field representative, and in Dearborn, Mich., as parts and service sales promotion training manager for the East Coast. He was transferred from Dearborn to Richmond in July, 1954.

ESP AND DREAMS

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Association for Research and Enlightenment Sunday Forum of November 28th will feature Fred M. Lathers, an engineer and student of the Edgar Cayce data, in a talk at 3:30 p.m. at the Association Headquarters, 215 6th Street in Virginia Beach. Mr. Lathers will use as his subject "The Mysteries of the Night."

Last summer the A.R.E. held a week's seminar on dreams, experimenting with rapid eye movement and various stimuli to test extraordinary perception in dreams. Psychology professors and psychiatrists, as well as college students and interested A.R.E. members took part. Mr. Lathers was on the committee which planned this seminar and took part in the program.

A question period will follow the lecture. The public is invited to attend. There is no charge.

We dare not forget that when our forefathers celebrated the first Thanksgiving Day they weren't at all sure that their meager harvest would be adequate to sustain the little community through a long hard winter. About all they could give God was thanks!

Gratitude for our blessings in time of abundance discovers a new dimension. We can become partners with the Almighty in His mighty aims.

For the very season in which Christians give thanks to their Lord is the season in which they plan their stewardship—their support of the Church's continuing work.

If you are a church member, demonstrate your thanksgiving in earnest commitment to your congregation's spiritual opportunity. If you are not a church member, express your thanksgiving by discovering your own spiritual opportunity.

Spiritual dedication is about the only life resource of which we do not have more than we absolutely need!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest force on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Directing Amateurs Enjoyable

(Patrick Photo)

VIRGINIA BEACH — For the third time, Liz Sills has willingly accepted the challenging job of directing a production for the Virginia Beach Little Theatre. "Silent Night, Lonely Night," which will open Dec. 2, at the Courtyard Playhouse, has been in rehearsal many weeks, and though various small difficulties have beset the group, she feels things are now under control and everything will fall into place on opening night.

Mrs. Sills, wife of John William Sills, II, is a native of Norfolk but has lived in Virginia Beach since her marriage in 1942. She is active in both Norfolk and Virginia Beach Little Theatres in various capacities and was one of the original founders of VBLT when it was formed in 1947. She directed her first play, "The Heiress" for this group, and her second was last year's comedy "My Three Angels."

She says, "I go to my first rehearsal with a play roughly blocked out and with definite ideas of what the characters are like, but after casting I find it necessary to make adjustments to the actors. Play production is a joint effort, and unless an actor interprets a character or moves in such a way that it is diametrically opposed to a director's overall conception of the play, he should be allowed as much freedom of interpretation as possible."

"Silent Night..." is entirely different from anything she had done before. She felt it important to establish the quiet, intimate mood of the play so for the first two weeks of rehearsal, she kept the doors closed. But now work has progressed to the point where visitors are welcomed.

Liz also encourages the actors to take as long as they like between scenes just to sit and talk. The principal's work four night a week and Sundays. The other four members of the cast are called for three rehearsals.

She has been the play director at Country Day School for girls for eight years and she directs them just as if they were adults.

She remarked, "I must say they are better at learning lines than adults—probably because their lives are not cluttered with quite so many problems."

Her husband takes no active part in theatre work but has always given Liz his whole-hearted support. Their daughter, Liza, is a first year student at Beloit College, in Wisconsin, and their son, John, is in his third year as a University Scholar at the University of Virginia.

As for directing, Mrs. Sills says, "I find it the most satisfying thing I have ever done. After years of studying art, music, dancing, people, and other facets of the theatre, it gives me great pleasure to bring them all together in one creative effort."

NBC Plans Odd Colorcast

NEW YORK — NBC News plans to colorcast simultaneously the launch of the Gemini 7 spacecraft and the NCAA football game between Penn State and the University of Maryland on Saturday, Dec. 4, on the NBC Television Network.

Julian Goodman, Executive Vice President, NBC News, announced that a split screen will be used to telecast both events if the launch of the Gemini 7 space capsule takes place while the football game is in progress. At present, the launch is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. on Dec. 4 (all times are EST).

NBC News will begin its coverage of pre-launch activities at 12 noon. At 1 p.m., NBC Sports will present "NBC Sports Preview with Bud Wilkinson," switching at 1:15 p.m. to College Park, Md., where the game will be played. Kickoff will be at 1:30 p.m. Beginning at 1:15 p.m., launch preparations will be shown in the upper left quadrant of the television screen while the football game telecast will continue to be shown on the remaining portion of the screen.

In addition to the split-screen technique, NBC News will present flasher bulletins along the bottom of the screen both before and after the launch, as well as audio bulletins on the progress of the launch and flight of Gemini 7.

The split-screen technique first was used by NBC News in the 1956 Presidential conventions. At that time, NBC News used a five-way split screen to show reactions of leading delegates to the conventions at the same time speeches were being given from the rostrum.

RETIRED

EDWARD P. BROGAN

Paul Iddings is rather wrapped up in his work, when his lawyer and old friend, Don Vest, ventures in to the New York apartment. Marj Gasser is the "work". All of this happens in Wedgewood Dinner Theatre's new hilarious comedy hit, "Mary, Mary."

A Review

WEDGEWOOD'S 'MARY, MARY' - MERRY, MERRY

Wedgewood Dinner Theatre, in Toano, has another hit on its hands, and unless we miss our guess, it will be difficult to get tickets for the production which closes on December 11; however, we suggest you make all efforts to get those tickets. You are in for a delightful evening in the theatre.

Wedgewood has done "Mary, Mary" before. At that time, the production was sold out for all performances and even held over for extra performances. But that was still not enough, and the result is that "Mary, Mary" is back by popular demand. Wedgewood presented the first production of the play after it closed on Broadway. The rights to the play had to be obtained by repeated pleas to Jean Kerr, author of the successful comedy, which had a long run in New York. In the current production, the director is the same as last January, as are three of the cast members. The two other cast members are welcome newcomers to Wedgewood.

The plot is complicated by the appearance of Dirk Winston, fading movie star, who has written a book he wants Bob to publish. Dirk and Mary have the beginnings of a romance. This upsets Bob even more, and what happens from that point on is nothing short of hilarious hysteria.

Paul Iddings is at his best as Bob. The role fits him perfectly, and his comedy timing, as well as his talent for portraying a blunderer, make his characterization another Wedgewood outstanding performance. He never lets down, even in the early scenes, and gains the confidence and sympathy of the audience in his extreme nervousness.

Claudine Iddings, his wife, and who portrays Mary, adds another great job to her already long list of successes. The key to success in her portrayal of Mary lies not only in her comedy timing, but also in her terrific ability to convey just the right thing with facial expressions, gestures and movements. Her remarkable stage presence and her ability to play any kind of role makes "Mary, Mary" a delight.

Don Vest, as Oscar Nelson, does a fine job creating the "father image," but plays the role with just a shade too much "heaviness." Since he has the chance in this role to hold the action together, he falls just a shade short of believability.

Peter Derks as the actor, Dirk Winston, is almost great. He handles the role of the oft-married movie idol extremely well, but we wish he had opened up a little more, and let us see inside his complex personality.

Marj Gasser, as Tiffany, is a newcomer to Wedgewood, and we expect to see many more good things from her. As the beautiful, athletic girl with far too little understanding of life, she presents a nice characterization. She has a beautiful voice for the role, but, at times, her diction left something to be desired. However, in the overall production, she was an excellent performer.

Tim Jones' direction is very good. He used all the levels of Paul Iddings' remarkable set to great advantage, and the production moved quite smoothly.

What this play is, is fun. It is a merry production and a real credit to Wedgewood.

OF INTEREST TO VETS

By THOMAS A. MOORE

Veterans and survivors of deceased veterans are cautioned that less than two weeks remain before they will receive their annual income questionnaire on which they are to report their 1965 income and their anticipated income for 1966 to the Veterans Administration.

The income questionnaire will, as in the past several years, be received with the November check by veterans receiving non-service connected pension; by widows receiving death pension; and by dependent parents receiving Dependency and Indemnity Compensation, commonly referred to as DIC.

Although all concerned will have until February 1, 1966, to report this information to the VA, it is even more important this year than in the past that the income questionnaires be returned to the Veterans Administration as early as possible.

This year across-the-board raises in Social Security payments, Civil Service Retirement, and certain other annuity and pension plans have resulted in increased income for practically all VA pensioners.

A great percentage of persons receiving increases in other than VA income have already reported such changes. However, since pension payments are related directly to the income of all pensioners, it will be necessary that they, as well as those who have not reported, take prompt action in furnishing the Veterans Administration with the necessary information.

It is also important that each and every question on the income questionnaire card be completed. If a particular question does not apply to an individual pensioner, he should mark "NONE" in the space instead of leaving that blank.

It is again important to caution pensioners that failure to take prompt action and furnish complete information could possibly result in the loss of their pension benefits and/or, in some cases, result in overpayments.

Flower Arrangements For Your Room

We all like to have attractive homes. If you learn how to arrange flowers, you can add charm to your home. Bringing flowers into your home and stuffing them into a vase is not enough. If flowers are worth cutting, they are worth displaying to the best advantage.

If you learn to apply the following principles of flower arrangement, you will be able to add interesting spots of color and life to the rooms of your home.

1. Have in mind the arrangement you will make before cutting the flowers.
2. Gather the flowers in the late evening and plunge them up to their necks in water.
3. Choose the container so that it is the right shape, color, size and texture for your flowers and the furnishings of the room.
4. Place each flower in separately and carefully. Avoid crowding.
5. Do not allow stems to cross above the top of the container or where you can see them.
6. Use more of one color than another in a mixed arrangement. Do not use more than three kinds of flowers in one arrangement. Usually one kind with its own foliage looks better.
7. Keep the largest colors and largest flowers low in the arrangement for accent.
8. Plan a center of interest in your arrangement.
9. Make the arrangement about 1 1/2 times as high as an upright container or 1 1/2 times the width of a low container.
10. Relate the container and the flowers by allowing some of the plant material to cover a part of the rim of the container.

I am sure that once you have learned to master these principles of flower arrangement, you will find that it is fun to decorate your home with flowers.

Virginia Beach Then

A couple of bathing beauties examine the damage done to the beach by a severe storm some years ago. At the height of the storm, the ocean smashed the old boardwalk and roared toward beachfront property. The erosion was extremely dangerous, and volunteers worked through the night to keep old Galilee Church, at top left of picture, from collapsing into the Atlantic.

And Now

There is a new railing along the boardwalk today, and a vast grassy green between the beachfront houses and hotels. This scene bears little resemblance to the aftermath of the storm. The boardwalk has been strengthened. The eroded area has been filled in with everything from old timbers to old automobiles. But the battle to reclaim the beach from the ocean goes on and on. At 17th Street and the Boardwalk, where both pictures were taken, a pipeline continues to pump away bringing new sand onto the beach. Old Galilee Church is gone now, but the rest of the buildings, however modernized, are still there.

Lighting Broiler Breeding Stock

A step-down-step-up lighting program is quite beneficial in growing broiler breeders.

The system is used on replacement flocks started from September to April. These are considered off-season flocks. The lighting system is used only in the conventional house that cannot be darkened.

The purpose of adjusting the length of day which birds are exposed to is to help delay sexual maturity. Research has shown that the change in hours of light has as much to do with birds reaching maturity as the actual amount of light.

By increasing the amount of light at regular intervals pullets mature faster and hens lay better. However, if the light is decreased by regular intervals, sexual maturity is delayed in pullets and a laying flock drops in egg production.

Daylight hours in Virginia vary from around 9 1/2 at Christmas to about 15 hours on June 21. If replacement flocks are started in April through August, by the time they are 12 weeks old, the flock is in a decreasing light period. So if the producer handles the other management practices correctly, he can produce strong vigorous pullets that will not mature sexually until 26 to 28 weeks, and their eggs will reach hatching-age size quickly.

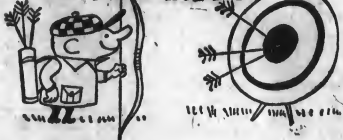

But suppose the producer wants to start replacement flocks from October to March? This is where the step-down-step-up lighting system comes in.

We determine the week at which these pullets will be 23 weeks old. Then we take the sunrise hour on that date and add 15 minutes on the time clocks for each previous week until the clock settings get to midnight. On the first day of the chicken's life, he receives 19 1/4 hours of light. We then start decreasing the light anywhere from the first to the fifth week, just so we don't run out of a decreasing light once we have started it until the flock is 23 weeks of age. The evening lights go off at 7:30 each evening.

This system has worked quite well, and there are quite a few flocks in Virginia now using the system.
